Canadian Ship, British Minesweeper Sink

NAZIS TORPEDO FAST FREIGHTER OFF IRISH COAST

LONDON, Feb. 6, Tuesday (AP).—Great Britain counted new losses today in the war at sea as the 9,874 ton Canadian Pacific steamer Beaverburn was reported torpedoed off the Irish coast a few hours after the minesweeper Sphinx, crippled by German air raiders, sank as she was being towed to port.

Mystery shrouded the sinking of the Beaverburn, which was announced in a terse bulletin by the authoritative British Press association. No details on the number of casualties were immediately available. Shipping circles said it was unlikely that full details would be known until rescue vessels had picked up survivors.

Carried Crew of 100 to 200.

Owners of the ship, a fast freighter plying between Liverpool and St. John, New Brunswick, said she carried a crew of between 100 and 200 men. A competent source said there was reason to believe that all except one had been rescued. The Beaverburn was the first Canadian ocean going ship reported sunk by a torpedo since the start of the war.

The foundering of the Sphinx, a vessel of 875 tons, brought to 24 the total number of British naval vessels sunk since the start of the war.

Fifty-four of the 100 men aboard the Sphinx were feared lost. Five were known to have been killed by German bombers which ranged British east coastal waters Saturday, attacking at least 11 ships.

The minesweeper's engines were disabled and as she was being towed into an eastern port the tow-line snapped and the Sphinx capsized.

Built at Cost of $500,000.

Built in 1938 at a cost of about $500,000, the Sphinx was the third minesweeper Britain has lost. The other two went down in November.

The sinking of the 1,064 ton British steamer Portelet by mines over the week-end was also disclosed when nine survivors landed at an east coast port. Two of the ship's crew were killed.

In addition two Scandinavian steamers were feared lost.

The 1,387 ton Norwegian ship Segovia was reported missing with a crew of 22 and one passenger on a voyage from Portugal to Norway. She was last heard from in the Bay of Biscay Jan. 20.

The other was the 1,357 ton Swedish steamer Andalusia, reported sunk and her crew of 21 lost on a voyage from Bordeaux to Goteborg [Gothenburg].

Ship Burns After Blast.

Fire swept the Danish freighter Karen, 350 tons, last night after an explosion while the ship was anchored off the Scottish east coast.

Naval observers regarded Germany's three air attacks last week on shipping off the exposed east coast as a prelude to sharper efforts to establish a real bomb blockade and to renewal of the German submarine campaign in an effort to offset British and French maritime strength.

Britain said three raiders were shot down Saturday but in the first two raids, Monday and Tuesday, all the German warplanes escaped, apparently unscathed.

British military experts asserted, however, that swift expansion of the British and French fighting forces and munitions industries had blacked out Germany's chances of winning a "blitzkrieg" [lightning war] in the spring.

The land and air power of the belligerents, these experts declared, is approaching a tie — making the weapon of exhaustion the best bet for the western powers to try to win the war.

200,000 Tons Lost: Berlin.

BERLIN, Feb. 5 (AP). — British, French, and neutral shipping losses between Jan. 21 and 31 totaled at least 200,000 tons, the official German news agency, DNB, reported today. DNB estimated that about 47,000 tons of this total were sunk by the German air force.

[Authoritative British sources called the German claims "absurd." Unofficial estimates in London put losses for the Jan. 21-31 period about 73,027 tons.]

ACTION ON DIES PLOT PUT UP TO ATTY. GENERAL

Committee on Rules Also Pushes Quiz.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—The Dies committee on un-American activities today called upon the attorney general of the United States to take appropriate action in connection with the communist conspiracy to discredit Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.].

Robert H. Jackson.

"The committee has indisputable evidence and testimony showing that purported letters from William Dudley Pelley to D. D. Mayne, placed in the Congressional Record of Jan. 2, 1940, are forgeries," the committee announced in a formal statement.

"Therefore the committee directs its secretary to submit all of its testimony with exhibits in connection with all phases of this matter to Robert H. Jackson, attorney general, for appropriate action."

Rules Committee Starts Quiz.

The committee's action came as the house committee began its own inquiry into the plot to smear Dies and thereby nullify his committee's disclosures of the widespread activities of communists in government circles and elsewhere.

The department of justice, under Jackson, already has conducted a partial study of the forged letter scheme. The appropriate action demanded by the Dies committee may result in one of the leading government scandals of the Roosevelt régime.

Representative Frank E. Hook [D., Mich.] caused a sensation two weeks ago by charging that Dies was sympathetic to anti-Semitic organizations. He inserted in the congressional record copies of letters purporting to support this assertion.

Admits Forgery Letters.

The letters were supposedly written by Pelley, head of the Silver Shirts, an anti-Semitic organization, to Mayne, described as Washington representative of the group. Mayne later admitted that he forged the letters in order to obtain money and the promise of a government job from Gardner Jackson, lobbyist for Labor's Nonpartisan league, the political adjunct of the C. I. O.

The exposure of the forgery plot was followed by the revelation that six congressmen had met with Jackson at a dinner party early this year to discuss means of stopping the Dies investigation. Four of these representatives were exonerated of complicity in the letters plot by Acting Chairman Joe Starnes [D., Ala.] of the Dies committee, but he omitted the names of Representatives Joseph E. Casey [D., Mass.] and Hook in his statement.

Falls to Produce Pelley.

Mayne told a Dies subcommittee, appointed to find and subpena Pelley, that he could locate Pelley in Asheville, N. C. He failed to do this. The fact that Mayne had dealings with members of the committee before he forged the letters has been made the basis of an inference by Jackson that the Dies committee itself knew of the forged letters and permitted Congressman Hook to entrap himself.

This implication was indignantly refuted by Starnes. He noted that two members of the three-man committee designated to locate Pelley are Representatives Casey and Jerry Voorhis [D., Cal.]. The third member is J. Parnell Thomas [R., N. J.].

Both New Dealers.

Both Casey and Voorhis are members of the New Deal radical group in congress and the inference that they were concerned in a deal to entrap Hook, a member of the same group, was termed absurd by Starnes. Casey was a guest at the now famous dinner party given by Jackson at which ways and means were discussed to prevent extension of the

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 5 [Special].—The son of a prominent lumberman entered a Downer avenue drug store this afternoon and rushed up to two young women who were sipping at sodas in a booth.

Without a word he drew a pistol from his pocket, leaned over the booth partition, and fired four times at one of the girls. Then he stepped back, put the gun to his head, and fired another shot.

The girl—Miss Mildred Beil, 22 years old, a graduate nurse, was killed. The man, Harry Christiansen, 21 years old, 2533 North Lake drive, whom she had rejected as a suitor, was taken to the County Emergency hospital in a critical condition. He is a son of Harry E. Christiansen, president of the General Lumber company, who lives at the Astor hotel. The father has been prominent in political and civic affairs. He and his son, Clarence, operate a sawmill at Phelps, Wis.

Father a Friend of Heil.

The elder Christiansen, a member of the Milwaukee Athletic club, is a friend and adviser of Gov. Julius P. Heil, being one of the first honorary colonels appointed by the governor.

Young Christiansen, who left Purdue university after attending classes there for a year, has been employed by his father as a salesman. Police said he is a member of the Wisconsin National Guard. He wore a full belt of ammunition when he entered the drug store, pistol in hand.

Juanita Lembert, a waitress in the Walgreen drug store at 2629 North Downer avenue, where the shooting occurred, said Christiansen ran directly to the booth where Miss Beil and her roommate, Miss Marie Rose, were sitting.

Girls Are Laughing.

"The two girls were laughing and talking when he rushed up to the booth and began firing without saying a word," the waitress told police. "He leaned over the booth and fired. I ran away."

Miss Rose, who like Miss Beil is a graduate of St. Mary's hospital training school, said Miss Beil apparently had no apprehension as they sat chatting. She appeared gay and untroubled, Miss Rose told police.

"She did not even appear disturbed when she saw Mr. Christiansen approaching," she added.

The two nurses were employed at St. Mary's hospital, which is three blocks away from the scene of the shooting.

Louis Johnson, a Wauwatosa policeman, is the slain girl's stepfather. He heard the police radio broadcast summoning an emergency squad to the scene of the shooting. He said Miss Beil had been threatened several times by Christiansen, and that he had advised her to stay away from him. He said his stepdaughter had known Christiansen for about two years, but that they never had been engaged to wed.

Desired to Be Policeman.

Johnson and his wife said they viewed young Christiansen as a spoiled youth, and discouraged any possible romance between the two young people. Their greatest objection was based on young Christiansen's desire to be a policeman in order that he might carry a gun, they said.

Young Christiansen was questioned by police several months ago after displaying a revolver in the Plantation building. He was warned but not arrested.

Christiansen's father went at once to the hospital after he learned of the shooting.

Pennsylvania High Court Upholds City Income Tax

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 5 (AP).—A 1½ per cent tax on all wages and earned income in Philadelphia, vigorously attacked by various labor groups, was declared constitutional today by the Pennsylvania Supreme court. In a three line opinion the tribunal upheld a lower court ruling which dismissed a C. I. O. supported suit brought by Mrs. Jennie Dole, 51 years old, a $10 a week shirt factory worker, who contended the levy was "unjust and discriminatory."

SHE'LL FLY AND MUSH THRU KLONDIKE TO WIN ELECTION THIS WINTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 5.—Mrs. Norman Black, one of Canada's two women members of parliament, is hurrying back to her constituency, the Klondike gold area, to start her re-election campaign.

On her way to Ottawa from Dawson City, Yukon, she had not learned that parliament had been dissolved until she arrived here. She immediately set out on the long return trip thru cold and storms to open her campaign.

"There is one nice thing about campaigning at this time of the year," she said. "I won't be bothered by mosquitoes or flies. They are terrible pests in the Yukon in the summer."

Mrs. Black, who succeeded her husband in parliament when he died, plans to mush by dog sled to those places she can't reach by airplane.

Pilgrim Visits Shrines of the Young Lincoln

A Lincoln Guide

In commemoration of Abraham Lincoln's birthday next Monday, THE TRIBUNE will present several stories, of which this is the first, tracing his career from the cabin where he was born in Kentucky thru his years in Indiana and Illinois to his farewell address in Springfield, which was given 79 years ago next Sunday.

The emphasis of these stories will be upon Lincoln in Illinois, and their purpose is to serve as a compact guide to the Lincoln shrines that dot these states, particularly Illinois.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hodgenville, Ky., Feb. 5.—Abraham Lincoln was a child and man of the American frontier, a product of that great human movement for land and a free way of life which began in the hills of Pennsylvania and Virginia during the war of independence and flowed ever westward thru Cumberland Gap to the Mississippi and beyond.

Along this tide, on trails first made by Daniel Boone, the father and mother of Lincoln were carried, at first separately and then together. There was nothing to distinguish them from other pioneers. They lived in a cabin for a time and then moved on, drawn by a wider lure, dreams of an Eden ever farther on. They lived and died according to the common lot, their hopes and dreams unrealized. But their son, Abraham, took root in the prairies of Illinois and grew to a towering human personality whose influence has spread thruout the world, and is a growing power today.

Seven States in Family History.

And, choosing sweet clay from the breast
Of the unexhausted west,
With stuff untainted shaped a hero new,
Wise, steadfast in the strength of God, and true.

There are seven states which held the migrating Lincolns from colonial days and which claim a share in Lincoln's making. It is an odd fact that seven other states had seceded from the Union when he assumed

Chas. S. Deneen Dies; Funeral to Be Thursday

Charles S. Deneen, who was governor of Illinois for two terms and United States senator from Illinois from 1925 to 1931, died suddenly of a heart attack yesterday in his home at 457 West 61st place. He would have been 77 years old on May 4.

Mr. Deneen had been a Republican leader for nearly 50 years. He gained his first elective office—a place in the state legislature—in 1892. Recently he had been taking an active part in party discussions of the forthcoming primaries.

Sees Physician During Day.

The former governor and senator was in good health until two weeks ago, when he became ill with a cold. Yesterday he kept an appointment with his physician and at noon dropped into his law office at 111 West Monroe street. From there he went to his home, where he died at 2:30 p. m.

His wife, Mrs. Bina Day Maloney Deneen; his son, Charles Ashley Deneen, and several other members of the household were with him when he died. Three daughters also survive. They are Mrs. Dorothy Blow of Tulsa Okla.; Mrs. Frances Birdsall of Chicago, and Mrs. Bina House, Houston, Tex. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Frederick J. Dickson and Miss Florence Deneen.

Funeral to Be Thursday.

The body of the former governor and senator will be in the home until Thursday noon. Services will be held at 3 p. m. Thursday in the Englewood Methodist church at 64th street and Stewart avenue. Burial will be in Oak Woods cemetery.

Mr. Deneen's career embraced two major phases. In the first, dating from 1896 thru 1912, he served uninterruptedly thru two terms as state's attorney of Cook county and two terms as governor of the state. There followed an interlude of 12 years in which his chief attention was given his law practice. Then in 1924 he began his successful campaign for the United States senate. While in the senate he was one of the staunch supporters of President Coolidge.

FATHER A COLLEGE TEACHER

Charles Samuel Deneen was born in Edwardsville, Ill., on May 4, 1863. His great-grandfather, Risdon Moore, was a revolutionary war veteran who came to Illinois because of opposition to slavery. Mr. Deneen's grandfather was a Methodist Episcopal circuit rider. His father, Samuel H. Deneen, was a teacher of Latin at McKendree college, Lebanon, Ill.

Mr. Deneen was graduated from McKendree, worked his way thru the Union College of Law in Chicago, and was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1888. In 1891 he married Miss Bina Day Maloney of Mount Carroll, Ill.

Mr. Deneen began practicing law in Chicago in 1890. He was elected to the state house of representatives in 1892. In 1895 and 1896 he was attorney for the sanitary district. He was elected state's attorney in 1896 and again in 1900. While in office he built up a powerful following which urged him to seek the nomination for governor in 1904.

Accused Over Fees.

The state's attorneyship was then a fee office, and Deneen's opponents assailed his record, charging he received excessive fees for his prosecutions. A review by the Illinois Supreme court found there was nothing irregular about the fees.

ESTATE SOUGHT BY FATHER DIVINE MAY BE GIVEN TO GOVERNMENT

Hyde Park, N. Y., Feb. 5 (AP).—President Roosevelt disclosed today that the government hopes to take over, as an arboretum for the public, 250 acres of the Frederick W. Vanderbilt estate near this village—a property for which Father Divine opened negotiations last August.

Followers of the Harlem evangelist already had established one of their numerous and costly "heavens" just across the Hudson from Hyde Park, the ancestral Roosevelt home, and their plan was to make of the Vanderbilt estate an even more imposing sanctuary in which Divine himself would maintain a suite. The cross-river "heaven" was bought from Howland Spencer, a bitter critic of the President.

The President explained that the socially prominent Mrs. James Van Alen of Newport, R. I., the present owner, will give the Vanderbilt property to the government, possibly this spring. He added that it is planned to assess the public a small admission fee to pay maintenance costs.

FARLEY GIVEN POWER TO PICK DATE OF SESSION

Philadelphia Loses at Last Minute.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—Chicago gets the 1940 Democratic national convention.

In an exciting neck and neck race for the prize between Chicago and Philadelphia, Pa., at the meeting of the Democratic national committee today Chicago won after matching Philadelphia's $150,000 bid.

The date of the convention was not fixed by the committee, which delegated this power to James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman. By this device the committee insured the holding of the Democratic convention subsequently to the Republican national convention, for the tactical advantage accruing from the opportunity of nominating a presidential ticket and adopting a platform after the opposition has named its ticket and adopted its position on national issues.

Republicans Meet Feb. 16.

The Republican national committee is to meet here Feb. 16 to fix the time and place of the Republican national convention.

The contest for the location of the Democratic convention was intensely dramatic. Until a few minutes before the roll call Chicago virtually had been eliminated from consideration by failure of the delegation representing the city to offer a money bid.

Philadelphia, with an imposing aggregation of spokesmen backed by a claque of 80 boosters, had offered to furnish the convention hall free of charge and had tendered in addition a certified check for $125,000 as a gift to the committee. This, it was calculated, represented a bid of about $150,000.

Houston Offers $200,000.

San Francisco, Cal., was on hand with a check for $85,000 and promises of enough more eventually to total $200,000. Then Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, waved aloft a check for $200,000 as his bid for Houston, Tex.

When the Philadelphia delegation concluded with the announcement of $150,000 as its aggregate bid, Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago obtained recognition.

"I want to say," said Mayor Kelly, "that Chicago will meet the bid just made by Philadelphia."

That statement put Chicago seriously into the race. The balloting began with Philadelphia and Chicago dividing the lion's share of the votes while San Francisco and Houston trailed. At the close of the roll call Philadelphia had 36 votes and Chicago 34, but before the result was announced, committee members in numerous delegations rose to change their votes. These changes put Chicago ahead. The final count was Chicago, 48; Philadelphia, 38; San Francisco, 7, and Houston, 2.

Chicago Roosevelt's Choice.

Chicago is said to have been the choice of President Roosevelt, who may be nominated for a third term in the city where he first was named for the Presidency. If that be true, Mayor Kelly placed the President more deeply in debt to him by making the 11th hour money bid that won the convention for Chicago.

Indications were not wanting that the contest over the convention site was a preliminary trial of strength between the third termers and the anti-third termers. The third termers were, to a conspicuous degree, favorable to Chicago while the anti-third termers lined up for Philadelphia.

Nash Asks September Date.

Chairman Farley announced that the national committee headquarters for the convention will be at the Congress hotel. A committee will be named to make the convention arrangements as soon as the date of the convention is fixed. Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, Committeeman Patrick A. Nash of Illinois and other members who are boosting Mr. Roosevelt for a third term urged the selection of a date in September, in accord with the previously expressed preference of Mr. Roosevelt. Nash said that the Democrats need no more than six weeks in which to present their case to the country.

The committee adopted a resolution praising the President as the savior of the country at a time when it faced chaos and economic delirium. The resolution evoked some applause, as had other references to Mr. Roosevelt during the day. No great enthusiasm for the President was manifested at any time.

On the other hand, it was evident that there is strong sentiment in the committee favoring the renomination of Mr. Roosevelt. Some members wanted to offer a resolution indorsing a third term, but were dissuaded by the leadership.

Spurns Ridiculous Bids.

Altho Mayor Kelly finally got the convention by matching the bid of Philadelphia, he started out by preaching against the sinfulness of putting up the party's national meeting as a prize to be knocked down at auction.

"We from Chicago are not here to be put on the auction block," the mayor told the committee. "We want to act as dignified as the committee would have us. We will put up as much money as is necessary for your convention expenses, but we are not going to compete with ridiculous bids. I want the Democrats to come to Chicago because the Republicans are going to come there without being subsidized."

Then he proceeded to outline the natural advantages of Chicago for handling a great convention. He was followed by William J. Kelly, a director of the Chicago Association of Commerce, who gave more details of Chicago's accommodations, promised that the hotels would not raise their rates, and guaranteed every kind of entertainment except honky tonks, adding: "Our great mayor won't permit them."

Lucas Adds Argument.

He said it was neither dignified nor wise to use "the magnets of cash" to get a convention, and suggested that the Democrats add to their other reforms a refusal to auction off a convention.

Senator Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] added this argument: "Democratic Chicago in Democratic Illinois is the ideal place to hold the convention in order to obtain the proper impetus to carry on to victory in every section of the country."

The committee treasurer announced that the party deficit now is $250,000, but that $400,000 already returned from the Jackson day dinners and $100,000 yet to be received will wipe out the debt and give the committee sufficient funds to operate until after the national convention.

Garner Gets a Hand.

Vice President John N. Garner sat on the platform as a vice chairman of the committee and evoked much applause in his brief appearances at the microphone. On one occasion Farley, who is said to envision the ticket of "Garner and Farley," singled out the Vice President for special attention.

"I look forward," said Farley in his opening speech, "to a very active pre-convention campaign, for there are many candidates, each with his devoted adherents. The greater the enthusiasm that can be aroused for these varying candidacies the greater the good to the Democratic party, always provided that the pre-convention campaign does not become so bitter that the rivalries will hold over beyond the period when our coming convention gives us a winning ticket."

Garner was informed today that a complete slate of 24 candidates supporting him for the Presidency will be entered in Wisconsin's election of delegates to the Democratic national convention. In a telegram thanking officials of the Garner for President club in Wisconsin, Garner said: "This is in keeping with my public statement in which I said I would accept the nomination."

Hamilton Reproaches Democrats.

After the Democratic meeting ended, Chairman John Hamilton of the Republican national committee issued a statement reproaching the Democrats for not fixing the date for their convention.

"What a spectacle the country today has witnessed," it said. "Here is a party that has been in power for seven and one-half years and yet it apparently does not know its own mind.

"Can it be that the Democrats have become so accustomed to delegating all governmental powers to one man that they have lost the ability in committee assembled to decide such details as when their convention should meet and must let one man decide that, too?

"As for the Republican party, our national committee shall meet on Feb. 16 for the purpose of issuing a call for the Republican convention. Our action will be decisive and our program will be positive and affirmative."

10 COMMITTEES OF LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL NAMED

Creation of 10 standing committees of the Illinois legislative council was announced yesterday by State Senator Richard J. Barr [R., Joliet], the chairman. The change should help the council perform its function of speeding up the deliberations of the general assembly, Barr said.

The committees and their chairmen follow:

Agriculture, Senator Wilbur H. Hickman [D., Paris]; assessment and taxation, Representative Edward J. McCabe [D., Chicago]; finance, banks, and public utilities, Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski [D., Chicago]; education, Senator Melvin Thomas [D., Charleston]; employés, Senator Thomas P. Gunning [R., Princeton]; federal, state, and local government, Senator George M. Maypole [D., Chicago]; judiciary, Senator Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago]; procedure and budget, Senator Earl B. Searcy [R., Springfield]; public welfare, labor, and industry, Representative Edward P. Saltiel [R., Chicago], and roads and highways, Representative Elroy C. Sandquist [R., Chicago].

These committees will have the principal responsibility for deciding which proposals are worthy of exhaustive study by the research staff of the council.

$150,000 PLEDGE FOR CONVENTION MADE ON FAITH

But Mayor's Certain City Will Raise Fund.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly pledged the $150,000 which won the 1940 Democratic convention for Chicago on faith yesterday. He admitted in Washington, D. C., last night that nothing has been raised toward the convention fund. But, he said, he knows Chicago will raise it.

The mayor went to the capital to offer arguments—and not cash—as the reason why his party should hold its convention here. The arguments were ample hotel accommodations with no increase in rates, the nation's most suitable convention hall [the Chicago Stadium], Chicago's political importance, and the fact that the city is within one day's traveling distance for most of the delegates.

Matches Philadelphia's Bid.

When it became necessary to match Philadelphia's $150,000 bid, however, the mayor matched it. Party leaders said last night the money would be raised in the same manner as the $200,000 fund for the 1932 Democratic convention. The hotels, railroads, and other business interests which will profit financially from the convention will be asked to contribute.

Officials of the Chicago Association of Commerce estimated the convention will bring between 30,000 and 50,000 visitors to Chicago, each of whom will spend an average of $15 a day.

"It is logical that the Democratic national committee should have honored Chicago again by naming it as the place of the 1940 presidential convention," said Oscar Mayer, association president. "Chicago, hub of the inland empire, probably reflects the present attitude of our citizens on current governmental affairs better than any other section of the country. Here the farmer and the industrialist meet on common ground."

16 Conventions Since 1860.

Chicago has been the scene of 16 Republican and Democratic conventions since 1860. The Republicans have convened here eleven times and the Democrats five. Both parties held their conventions here in 1884 and 1932. Republican conventions have ranged in duration from three to seven days since 1880. Democratic conventions have ranged from three to seventeen days. The seventeen day convention was in New York in 1924 and resulted in the nomination of John W. Davis.

Nine of the 15 men nominated in Chicago for the presidency were elected. They were Abraham Lincoln [R.], 1860; Ulysses S. Grant [R.], 1868; James A. Garfield [R.], 1880; Grover Cleveland [D.], 1884 and 1892; Benjamin Harrison [R.], 1888; Theodore Roosevelt [R.], 1904; William H. Taft [R.], 1908; Warren G. Harding [R.], 1920, and Franklin D. Roosevelt [D.], 1932.

FORD CHALLENGES NLRB ORDER BUT WILL FOLLOW IT

Boston, Mass., Feb. 5 (AP).—The Ford Motor company agreed today to comply with an order of the National Labor Relations board to refrain from disparaging or criticizing labor organizations, but at the same time challenged the validity of the order, contending it was an infringment on the right of free speech.

The order applied to the company's Somerville plant and the reply, filed with the board, said it apparently dealt with an interview with Henry Ford, head of the company, copies of which had been distributed to employés.

"It appears," said the reply, "that Mr. Ford is of the opinion that the employés are better off outside a union than in one.

"At the same time, Mr. Ford and the company have recognized and respected the right of every employé to join a union or not, as he chooses. It appears to be the purpose of the board to prevent Mr. Ford and the Ford Motor company from expressing any opinions which might disparage or criticize any labor organization."

DEMAND ACTION BY JUSTICE DEPT. IN PLOT ON DIES

Inquiry Also Begun by Rules Committee.

Dies committee investigation for another year. Of the six congressmen present, four were exonerated by Starnes in a house speech of any guilt in the forged letter plot but Casey and Hook were omitted by Starnes.

"I resent the inference that Voorhis, Casey and Thomas were playing with Mayne," Starnes told the committee. "As soon as Hook got hold of these letters, he should have got in touch with the man most intimately concerned—Martin Dies."

Seek Rebuke for Hook.

The rules committee also heard from Representative Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.], author of a resolution to expunge Hook's charges and the forged letters from the congressional record. The committee is expected to recommend approval of this resolution but it might go farther and recommend an official censure of Hook. Several members have demanded that the house officially rebuke Hook for his tactics. Stronger action would have to await proof that Hook was aware that the letters were forged.

Hook insisted that he believed in the authenticity of the letters and that the forgery has not yet been proved in spite of Mayne's admission to the Dies committee that he forged the documents. He declared he wanted a report from department of justice handwriting experts before he would admit that the letters were not genuine.

Congressman Hook is 47 years old. He was born at L'Anse, Baraga county, in Northwestern Michigan. He represents the 12th district which has large iron and copper mines. In 1924 he began the practice of law at Ironwood. He is a world war veteran, served as city commissioner of Wakefield and also as municipal judge. Hook first was elected to congress in 1935 and reelected in 1938. In 1935 Hook admitted that his father and brother were on work relief, saying "I am not a bit ashamed of it."

Inglewood, Cal., Feb. 5 [Special].—Gloria Blum, 8 years old, decided to wear a pillow today and take no chances. Yesterday she took a chance, while her parents were away, and put in a telephone call for her grandmother, Mrs. Fred Blum, in Kansas City, Mo. By the time Mrs. Blum realized her granddaughter was calling from California, the tolls amounted to $20.50. Gloria fears her parents may yet decide to spank her.

REP. M'KEOUGH TRAVELS ALONG WITH NEW DEAL

Friends Try to Explain Anti-Dies Vote.

[This is the second in a series of articles reviewing the records of the five Illinois congressmen who were among the 21 who recently opposed continuation of the Dies investigation. All are candidates for reëlection this year.]

BY HAROLD SMITH.

A survey completed here yesterday indicates that many constituents of Representative Raymond S. McKeough of the 2d congressional district are puzzled over his vote last Jan. 23 against extending the life of the Dies committee and its investigations into un-American activities.

Rep. McKeough.

Most of those questioned refused to believe that McKeough's vote was intended as outright aid to the communists and agents of other "isms" at whom the Dies investigation has been aimed. Friends declared that the congressman's vote is explained by his policy of following implicitly the orders of New Deal floor leaders who wanted the committee abolished.

Voted with Minority.

McKeough was one of 21 congressmen who voted to halt the Dies revelations. Some 345 of the congressman's colleagues voted another year of life to the committee. The vote was unanimous to appropriate $75,000 to finance the inquiry for another year.

"Most of McKeough's friends think he voted as he did in the belief that President Roosevelt wanted such a vote," said one of Congressman McKeough's constituents.

This latter theory, investigation disclosed, has ample support in the roll calls of the house of representatives in Washington.

Boasts of His Allegiance.

McKeough has made no secret of his accord with the administration. He is, according to his compagn literature, "by lineage, environment, experience, and thought at one with the President in his program of a broader social service under the New Deal."

The congressman supported all the spending and socialistic legislation suggested by the President. He voted against the proposed investigation of sitdown strikes, against investigation of the wage-hour administration, against the labor board investigation, and against income taxes for congressmen.

He was for the administration's much-criticized housing bill, the new Agricultural Adjustment act, the dictatorship bill, and the spend-lend bill which was defeated last year.

Congressman McKeough has been criticized because he has failed to bring about development of Lake Calumet as a naval auxiliary base, as a waterways terminal, or as an airport. Other critics have commented on the fact that, despite his votes for Roosevelt administration projects, he has failed to win funds from the federal treasury for construction of a south side superhighway.

Son-in-Law on Pay Roll.

McKeough is not the only member of the family who draws a salary from the government. His son-in-law, James J. Flanigan, is an attorney for the Federal Housing administration in Illinois. McKeough's daughter, who is Mrs. Flanigan, is reported to be the congressman's secretary.

The other Illinois congressmen who joined McKeough in voting against continuation of the Dies inquiry are Arthur W. Mitchell [1st] and Adolph J. Sabath [5th] of Chicago, Frank W. Fries of Carlinville [21st], and Kent E. Keller of Ava [25th], all Democrats and all candidates for reëlection.

OLSON TO DECIDE SOON ON HEARING FOR WILLIE BIOFF

Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 5 (AP).—Attachés in Gov. Culbert L. Olson's office said today a decision would be given within a day or two on the question of whether an immediate hearing should be held on Illinois' request for the extradition of Willie Bioff.

Attorneys for Bioff, Los Angeles labor official, submitted briefs today opposing Illinois' request for an immediate hearing. Illinois asked Bioff's extradition on an 18 year old pandering conviction in Chicago, but Bioff's attorneys want the hearing postponed until after the disposition of federal charges of income tax evasion to which Bioff pleaded innocent.

His attorneys contended that "surely after 18 long years the state of Illinois can in no manner be prejudiced if asked to wait for a hearing for what may be but a few weeks and at the most will be but a few short months." At Los Angeles today Bioff's income tax trial was set for May 28.

PRESIDENT DARES CRITICS TO PROVE COUNTRY IS 'BUST'

Declares He's Fed Up on Third Term Queries.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Feb. 5.—President Roosevelt hit back as his critics today and defied them to prove that the "country is bust."

Armed with a report prepared by the departments of agriculture, labor, and commerce and the federal reserve board, Mr. Roosevelt declared at his press conference that the national income, farm income, and dividends and exports have all been increased during his administration.

He compared the standing of the country as it is today against the position of the country on these indices in 1932 before he took office.

Squelches His Questioners.

At the same time Mr. Roosevelt scolded reporters for attempting to draw him out on his third term plans, saying there is such a thing as leading a willing horse too far.

He served notice on the country that he would deliver his third term position to the nation when he pleases and not until then.

He told reporters that the game of third term quizzing is getting tiresome to him. A reporter interjected that it still would be a good story if Mr. Roosevelt would tell his plans and that the reporters were going to keep on trying.

Gives Financial Exposition.

He then launched into his defense of his administration's finances, striking back at opposition attacks on the record national debt of 44 billion dollars the New Deal has given the country.

Referring to a memorandum, the President noted that national income was $40,000,000,000 in 1932, $68,000,000,000 in 1939, up 71 per cent. Wages and salaries were $2,403,000,000 in December, 1932, and $3,888,000,000 in December, 1939, up 62 per cent.

Weekly pay rolls of factory workers, he said, rose 145 per cent, from $80,000,000 in December, 1932, to $197,000,000 in December, 1939. Cash farm income, he read, was $4,682,000,000 in 1932. In 1939, when that income of $7,712,000,000 was augmented by $807,000,000 in federal farm benefit payments, the total was up 82 per cent to $8,519,000,000 he said.

In the exposition the President predicted a balanced budget—a prediction he has been making for seven years—when and if the national income goes to 80 billion dollars. It was 68½ billions last year.

With a side dig at the economy drive in congress, he warned advocates of a balanced budget and reduction of the national debt that cuts should not be too drastic or they might cause another recession.

13 Year Old Bride Will Be Given Back to Her Father

Vincennes, Ind., Feb. 5 (AP).—Judge H. M. Robbins today ordered Dorothy Jean Foster Harrell, 13 year old bride of less than three weeks, into the custody of her father, Homer Foster, a farmer. Foster notified authorities he would come to get his daughter tomorrow. His complaint led to the arrest of the young blonde, her husband, James Harrell, 21, a Bicknell WPA worker, and her mother, Mrs. Ophina Foster Halmke, of Bicknell on Friday. Mrs. Halmke and Harrell pleaded innocent to charges of giving false information in obtaining a marriage license.

SEARCY ASSAILS 2 OPPONENTS IN GOVERNOR RACE

Accuses Green of Deals with Democrats.

BY PARKE BROWN.

State Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield last night attacked his two opponents in the contest for the Republican nomination for governor, hitting particularly at Dwight H. Green of Chicago. He spoke over the radio.

In speaking of his other rival, Richard J. Lyons, Searcy emphasized his argument that Lyons' experience in Springfield does not match his own, and that, altho it is contended the nominee for governor should come from downstate, Lyons, whose residence is in Libertyville, really lives in Chicagoland.

His assault upon Green was much more extended, more direct, and more personal. He took up one of Green's favorite themes in the campaign—that of bipartisanship—and in the general style of an indictment listed six charges that Green himself has been guilty of dealing with Democrats and receiving their support.

Charges Kelly-Nash Aid.

The charges were as follows:

"ONE—I charge that bipartisan politics in the last mayoralty campaign [in which Green was a candidate] had its inception in Mr. Green's own office in the Continental Illinois Bank building where he is associated with William J. Froehlich, recently of Nebraska, a New Deal Democrat who represents public utilities, traction interests, and federal reorganizations.

"TWO—I charge that Mr. Green was a Kelly-Nash selection in the Republican primary for mayor to attract the independent voters away from Thomas J. Courtney, Mayor Kelly's Democratic opponent, and that Mr. Green, in a Republican primary, centered his attacks on Thomas J. Courtney, a Democrat, to insure Mayor Kelly's renomination.

"THREE—I charge that before Mr. Green commenced his candidacy for mayor he insisted upon and procured the written indorsement of practically every Republican ward committeeman in Chicago including Senator Dan Serritella of the 1st ward, Ald. William V. Pacelli of the 20th ward, Paul W. Rothenberg of the 24th ward, and Samuel O. Shaffer of the 29th ward—all later to become 'purgees.'

Pay to Serritella Alleged.

"FOUR—I charge that in the mayoralty primary campaign Dwight H. Green personally paid to Senator Dan Serritella, for use in the 1st ward, $20 per precinct, or a total of $680, over the objections of Republican National Treasurer C. B. Goodspeed and other members of the Green advisory committee.

"FIVE—I charge that, months after the mayoral campaign, Mr. Green invited the so-called 'purged' Republican ward committeemen to his law office to enlist their support for his gubernatorial campaign. Specifically, Mr. Green personally appealed to Ald. William V. Pacelli in his law office on Dec. 3, 1939, at 2:30 p.m., for the support of Ald. Pacelli and his organization. On this occasion—long after the 'purge'—he assured Ald. Pacelli that he had a very high regard for him and his party loyalty and that he, Green, had opposed the 'purge.' I hold in my hand a photostatic copy of a letter on Mr. Green's stationery signed by Dwight H. Green, dated Jan. 3, 1940, inviting Ald. Pacelli and his organization to attend the reception and formal opening of the Green headquarters at the Hotel La Salle on Jan. 9 last.

"SIX—I charge, finally, that of the four or five ward organizations in Chicago that, of the entire 50, are supporting Green for governor, at least three have had bipartisan dealings with the Kelly-Nash Tammany."

LIBERTY PERILED BY VOTE THEFTS, HADLEY ASSERTS

Collinsville, Ill., Feb. 5 [Special].—Vote stealing is the leprosy of democracy, Charles W. Hadley of Wheaton, candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, told Madison county Republicans here tonight. Unless checked by the elimination of vote thieves from the body politic, vote stealing will destroy freedom just as surely and completely as leprosy destroys the human being, Hadley warned.

"There is no crime quite so heinous or hard to stop as that of stealing votes," said Hadley. "A Benedict Arnold or a Dillinger, once the public become aware of his crimes, commands no sympathy and is dealt with ruthlessly. But vote thieves in this state have been able to carry on from election to election because men in high places, whose duty it is to stop this crime, have not been forced to act by an outraged public opinion.

"I believe that today we would have a Republican senator and a Republican mayor of Chicago as well as many Republicans in lesser offices in this state if it had not been for wholesale vote stealing in Illinois."

Hadley will speak on Thursday in Hillsboro, on Friday in Danville, and next Monday in Monmouth.

SEIZED AFTER PURSE THEFT.

Warren White, 20 years old, colored, of 5442 Michigan avenue, was arrested by Bergt. Michael Fleming and a squad from the Fillmore street station last night after he had allegedly snatched the purse of Mrs. Maude Ebert, 4825 Monroe street, in front of 5068 Monroe street.

GREEN PLEDGES BATTLE TO END NEW DEAL RULE

G. O. P. Aspirant Outlines Governor Duties.

Dwight H. Green, a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, promised last night that if elected he will lead the fight to free Illinois from "the control of the New Deal in Washington." He made this pledge in a radio address in which he condemned the Roosevelt administration as a failure and outlined his ideas of the duties of a governor.

Green said that on Nov. 5 the people of America must decide whether the present government will continue to meddle with private affairs, mortgage the future "to finance mad spending schemes," regiment the farmer, dominate business, and exact tribute from wage earners to support a vast political machine.

"Zero Hour of Liberty."

"If our people intend to halt the growth of an all powerful government," he said, "and return to the American system of free enterprise, they must do so on Nov. 5. It is the zero hour of liberty. For seven years the New Deal has had every opportunity, but as William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, pointed out, 9,000,000 of our unemployed citizens walk the streets, and 22,000,000 are on relief."

Green said there is nothing mysterious about government—that it is a large business involving the handling of money and the public business.

"It is the duty of the governor," he said, "to stand unalterably against the building of an enormous political machine, to halt political control and abuse of old age funds and relief, and to prevent and punish the assessment of state employés.

Favors Plan of Coöperation.

"It is the duty of the governor to gather together the leaders of labor, business, and agriculture to plan the coöperation of these three elements. The governor of Illinois should lead the fight to free our state from the control of the New Deal in Washington."

Green then attacked what he called the alliance of so-called Republicans and the Democratic machines in Chicago and Springfield. He said the strength of the New Deal in Washington is in the local Democratic machines of "patronage and plunder."

"The scandals of paroled criminals," he said, "the corruption of courts and juries, the breakdown at St. Charles School for Boys, the shame at the Manteno state hospital, and the stealing of elections in Chicago are all by-products of the Chicago and Springfield Democratic machines."

LYONS RIPS DEMOCRAT SPENDING IN ILLINOIS; DEMANDS TAX CUTTING

Marion, Ill., Feb. 5 [Special].—Delivering the first speech in his downstate drive for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, Richard J. Lyons tonight demanded a reduction in taxes and assailed the present state administration for "extorting extravagant revenues" from Illinois taxpayers. He spoke at a Republican massmeeting in the Williamson county courthouse here.

"Under our present Democratic state administration," said Lyons, who served for 10 years in the Illinois legislature, "the cost of operating our state government has increased from $62,140,000 in 1932 to $121,831,000 in 1937—or more than a 95 per cent increase in a five year period. It has over 300 bureaus, departments, and branches.

"We'd like to forget all about these taxes, but we can't—we're the ones who pay most of them. With the government, both state and national, spending far in excess of their incomes, it means that yet more taxes will be levied on taxpayers."

BLACKETT URGES ALL CANDIDATES FILE IN ILLINOIS

Hill Blackett, Republican national committeeman for Illinois, yesterday urged all the recognized possibilities for the Republican nomination for President to follow the example of Thomas E. Dewey by entering the Illinois preferential primary.

He wrote Senator Robert A. Taft, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Senator Styles Bridges, Frank E. Gannett, and Hamilton Fish on the subject, inclosing a clipping of the editorial published in THE TRIBUNE yesterday entitled "Testing the Candidates." He said it expressed the sentiment of Republicans thruout the state.

Blackett also sent a letter to Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, explaining that altho he maintains he is not a candidate, the governor's name is heard widely in Illinois.

ELECTRICIAN DIES OF CAR GAS.

Elasha D. Cullison, an electrician for the National Brick company, died in the Illinois Masonic hospital last night as a result, police said, of being overcome by motor exhaust gas in the company's yard at 3150 Touhy avenue on Jan. 27. Cullison was 67 years old. He lived at 1957 Morse avenue.

PILGRIM VISITS SHRINES OF THE YOUNG LINCOLN

Kentuckian Born Was Man of American Frontier.

the mighty task of holding that Union together.

The Lincoln story in America begins with Samuel Lincoln, an 18 year old weaver's apprentice who came to Boston in 1637. The line of descent is Mordecai the first, Mordecai the second, John, Abraham the first, Thomas, and Abraham, the 16th president of the United States. The Lincolns became substantial citizens in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey. The first Abraham Lincoln, a captain in the Virginia militia, led the way farther west to the Wilderness road, and to the settlement of his son Thomas in Kentucky.

Marries Nancy Hanks.

Thomas Lincoln wandered around a bit in Tennessee and Kentucky and worked as a farmer and carpenter. He was living in Elizabethtown when he met and married Nancy Hanks, whose mother had brought her from Virginia into the strange forests of Kentucky. They were married at Beechland, Washington county, June 10, 1806, lived for a time on a farm near Elizabethtown, and in 1808 moved to a farm on the south fork of Nolin's creek about three miles south of Hodgen's Mill, now Hodgenville, on the old Cumberland road.

Now we reach the first great Lincoln shrine, the actual cabin in which he was born on old Sinking Spring farm. The farm and the cabin are there, and the old spring where the birds build their nests and the great oak tree which shaded Nancy Lincoln and her baby for the first two summers of his life.

It lies in a rolling hill country on the edge of the blue grass, about 50 miles from Lexington, where Mary Todd, who was to be Abraham Lincoln's wife, was born nine years later. The farm is on an old highway of travel which led to the Ohio and the old buffalo and Indian traces that became the famous western trails to Oregon and Santa Fe.

Housed in Stone Shrine.

Lincoln National Memorial park now belongs to the people of the nation. They have taken this little cabin, a one room structure, 12 feet wide, 17 feet long, and 11 logs high, with one window and a low doorway, and housed it from the wind and rain in an austere square structure of pink Connecticut granite and Tennessee marble. It is approached along a wide driveway by a long flight of steps 30 feet wide, set between hedges and trees. Stone walls and flagstones lead to the old spring. There are Doric columns and grilled openings for dim cathedral lights.

On the inside walls are written the humble life stories of Thomas and Nancy. In great letters the words, "With Malice Toward None and Charity for All" are carved above the entrance. Stretching away from the knoll are the fields of tough clay, tough now as iron, where Thomas Lincoln toiled over his corn and tobacco crops. It was along this road that he walked that February morning in 1809 and told his neighbors, the Thomas Sparrows and Dennis Hanks, their adopted son, that "Nancy's got a boy baby."

Aunt Betsy Sparrow and Dennis went over to see the baby. The 9 year old Dennis tried to play with his new cousin but the baby cried.

"Here, take him," said Dennis. "He'll never come to much."

Starting Point of Highway.

Hodgenville, where a statue of Lincoln dominates the town square, is the center of the Kentucky Lincoln pilgrimage and the starting point for a national memorial highway which runs, with some parts uncompleted, to New Salem and to Beardstown, Ill.

In May, 1811, when little Abraham had learned to crawl on the dirt floor of the cabin, the family moved to Knob creek farm, about 8 miles north of Hodgenville, on the same Cumberland road. It was here that Lincoln lived the third to the eighth years of his life, and it was here that his earliest recollections centered.

This is a country of steep, wooded hills, oaks, sycamores, and willows. A field and reconstructed cabin mark the site of the old farm. The old log school where Abraham and his sister, Sarah, went to school for a few months has long gone to dust. Abraham was once saved from drowning in Knob creek by a boy companion and over these trails he climbed and hunted a little and did his first fishing. He learned here to do his first chores, bringing in the wood and water and helping his father in the fields, and here he gave away a fish one day to a soldier returning from the wars.

Rains Wash Seeds Away.

He carried corn to the mill and dropped pumpkin seeds in the corn rows. He saw the rains wash the field away, seeds and all. He saw the world of Elizabethtown while shopping with his mother, sitting on a keg and sucking maple sugar. He watched his father and he grew.

This was the end of his Kentucky boyhood, for in the fall of 1816 Tom Lincoln set off for Indiana. He was attracted by stories of this new, free land. He put some goods on a flatboat which he built on the banks of Knob creek, floated to Salt creek, and then to the Ohio, crossing somewhere near Anderson's ferry below Rockport. He stored his goods, walked into what is now Spencer county, staked out a claim, walked to Vincennes to file it, and went back to Kentucky to get his family.

The family trip was made that fall overland, with two horses laden with household goods. The road led thru Elizabethtown and Hardinsburg to a point on the river that is now Hawesville. The Indiana landing was made probably near Cannelton. It is proposed some day to build a Lincoln memorial bridge at that point.

Kentucky Keeps Memorials.

Kentucky has many memorials of Lincoln. In Louisville there is the original Joshua Speed house, Farmington on the Bardstown road near the city limits. This is the place where Lincoln visited in 1841 after his trouble over his engagement with Mary Todd. In Washington county there is a Lincoln homestead state park, a memorial to Lincoln's widowed grandmother, Bathsheba Lincoln. A Lincoln memorial bridge has been built at Elizabethtown in memory of Thomas. Near Long Run bridge in Jefferson county, on the Louisville-Shelbyville section of highway 60, there is a marker which reads:

"Abraham Lincoln. Two miles northeast of here, Abraham Lincoln, grandfather of the President, was massacred by Indians in May, 1786. Long Run Baptist church, standing on the Lincoln land grant, marks the traditional site of the pioneer's grave." Washington county also claims this killing, which is described by Dr. Louis A. Warren, noted Lincoln expert, as follows:

"Abraham Lincoln, with his three sons, Mordecai, Josiah, and Thomas, were busily engaged in a field putting in a crop of corn. Without warning they were attacked by two or three Indians. The father was killed at the first fusillade. Josiah, then 13 years of age, started for Hughes' station, half a mile away, where the family was then making their home in one of the fort's eight cabins. Mordecai and Thomas, aged 15 and 10, respectively, made for a cabin nearby, which Abraham had erected and where the family would make their home as soon as safety would allow.

"An Indian, despising the ability of Mordecai's marksmanship, stepped out of a thicket to secure the scalp of the paleface. Mordecai, from within the cabin, took aim at a silver pendant on the breast of the Indian and brought him down. Josiah had reached the fort and warned the settlers, who started in pursuit of the redskins."

Fate Hangs on a Shot.

If Mordecai had missed that pendant there would have been no Thomas and no Abraham the President.

Harrodsburg has taken into the reconstructed old Fort Harrod the cabin removed from Washington county in which Thomas and Nancy were married.

The Kentucky Lincoln memorials may be visited in a day's drive out of Louisville. The Speed museum in Louisville has a cabinet made by Thomas Lincoln, which shows that he was an excellent workman. The Filson historical club has conducted research and aided in the marking of sites. The Barnard statute of Lincoln is on the public library grounds. Lexington has the Main street home of Mary Todd.

[The second article of this series will describe the Indiana migration, the life of the Lincoln family there, and the start of the move to Illinois.]

Where Lincoln Was Born

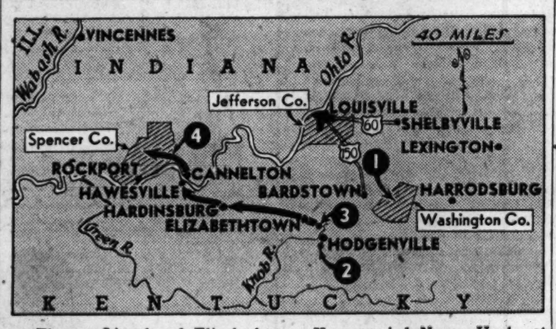
Granite and marble building which houses the cabin in which Lincoln was born. It is in Lincoln National Memorial park.



Thomas Lincoln of Elizabethtown, Ky., married Nancy Hanks at Beechland, Washington county (1), on June 10, 1806. (Beechland is not to be found on available maps.) They lived for a time on a farm near Elizabethtown and then moved to a farm (2) south of Hodgen's Mill, now Hodgenville. Here the actual cabin in which Abraham Lincoln was born on Feb. 12, 1809, still stands. In May, 1811, the Lincoln family moved to the Knob creek farm (3). In the fall of 1816 Thomas Lincoln went to Spencer county, Indiana (4), and staked out a claim. Returning to Kentucky, he led his family overland (arrows) thru Elizabethtown, Hardinsburg, and Hawesville to Indiana. In Jefferson county, Kentucky, are to be found other points of interest to students of Lincolniana.

Rumanians of '41 Military Class in Italy Told to Report

ROME, Feb. 5.—All Rumanians of the class of 1941 now in the Italian empire today were ordered either to report to the Rumanian military attaché in Rome, or, if they are outside Rome, to notify him by registered letter. They are to present or send their recruiting papers. It is presumed they will be called up to meet the menace expected to develop in the spring.

Charles S. Deneen, who died yesterday, as he appeared while state's attorney of Cook county. He held the office from 1896 to 1904.

NATIONAL GUARD TO TAKE TRAINING CENTER'S AIRMEN

Thru an arrangement with the army air corps, a limited number of eligible young men from the Chicago area may receive flight training at the air corps training center and after graduation become pilots in the 108th Observation squadron, Illinois National Guard. This was announced yesterday by Adjt. Gen. Lawrence V. Regan.

The advantage of this plan is that the young men who can qualify will be able to obtain the same flying training given regular army pilots without obligating themselves to several years of active duty. Until now it has not been possible for the national guard squadron to obtain pilots direct fro mthe training center, Gen. Regan said.

Applicants must be unmarried male citizens, between 20 to 27 years old, and must have completed four years of college. Each applicant must pass a physical examination of the most rigid sort. The flying course is considered the best in the world. Persons interested should apply to Maj. C. A. McElvain, commanding officer of the 108th squadron, at Chicago airport.

CHAS. S. DENEEN, TWICE GOVERNOR, DIES SUDDENLY

convention was deadlocked for 21 days, but in the end Deneen won the nomination. In the election he rolled up a large majority with the Roosevelt ticket. As governor, Deneen had a state organization comparable to his earlier Cook county support. He was reëlected in 1908 and sought a third term in 1912.

The Deneen group supported Roosevelt for the Republican presidential nomination, but refused to follow him as the Progressive [Bull Moose] candidate, and stayed with Taft. In the ensuing Democratic victory Deneen lost the governorship to Edward F. Dunne.

Defeated Senator McCormick.

In 1924 Mr. Deneen again came into the political limelight as the opponent of United States Senator Medill McCormick in the Republican primary. Deneen won by 5,944 votes and defeated his Democratic opponent in the election. Senator McCormick died before Deneen's term in the senate began, and Deneen was appointed on Feb. 25, 1925, to fill out the term.

In the 1930 primary Senator Deneen was beaten by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, the widow of Senator McCormick. She in turn lost to James Hamilton Lewis, Democrat, in the election.

While in the senate Deneen served at various times on the finance, judiciary, claims, agriculture, manufactures, and election committees.

Fought Small Faction.

In the stormy Illinois Republican primary of 1928 Deneen returned to his home state as one of the leaders of the group opposing the faction of Gov. Len Small, of a former Republican mayor, and of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe. The Deneen forces supported Louis L. Emmerson for governor, Otis F. Glenn for United States senator, and Oscar E. Carlstrom for attorney general. Deneen's candidate for state's attorney was Judge John A. Swanson.

During the campaign Senator Deneen's home and that of Judge Swanson were bombed. Deneen asserted the bombings were the work of "organized and criminal classes of Chicago in their desperate efforts to retain political control of the city and county."

On primary day the Emmerson-Glenn-Carlstrom ticket was overwhelmingly victorious.

Predicts G. O. P. Return.

The Deneen Republicans were trying a comeback in the 1940 primary. It was expected they would support nominees for some offices and put up candidates for ward committeemen. Less than a month ago Deneen predicted a return of the Republican party to power in Illinois. "We can win if we get a good ticket that inspires confidence," he told a gathering at Springfield.

MURPHY, 5TH NEW DEAL APPOINTEE, ASSUMES SUPREME COURT POST

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—President Roosevelt's fifth appointee to the Supreme court—Frank Murphy of Michigan—began service on the tribunal today after taking an oath to administer justice impartially. Justices appointed by Mr. Roosevelt thus constitute a majority of the nine-man tribunal.

The oath was given in open court by Charles Elmore Cropley, the clerk, after Murphy had marched into the chamber with his colleagues. Justice Black was absent because of illness. A large number of the new justice's friends were present to witness the ceremony.

Murphy repeated the judicial oath in a low voice and then was escorted to his seat at the extreme left of the bench. There, before he sat down, he shook hands with Associate Justice Frankfurter, whose place on the bench is immediately to Murphy's right.

FINNS TIGHTEN CIRCLE AROUND TRAPPED REDS

Await Decisive Encounter on Ladoga Front.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 6 [Tuesday] (AP). — Finnish soldiers watched the Karelian isthmus and the Lake Ladoga regions today for the next major development in the war with Russia, but reports abroad that the Russian 18th division had been destroyed were denied by a headquarters representative.

The spokesman said the report of the annihilation of the division apparently arose from the fact that a decisive development north of Lake Ladoga, in the Kitela area, had been awaited for days since the soviet offensive there had been stalled and many Russians were cut off from their supplies.

Some observers interpreted a heavy Russian attack at Summa, on the Karelian isthmus, as a Russian attempt to divert the Finns from the Ladoga region and relieve the two divisions reported stranded there.

Take a New Stronghold.

Instead, the Finns have been boring into Russian positions north of the lake and yesterday's communique announced the taking of a new stronghold, the killing of 500 Russians and the capture of seven tanks and other war materials.

The Finnish populace hoped today for a repetition of yesterday's general snowfall which blotted out the countryside so successfully that air raids were restricted to a few scattered districts, chiefly along the southwestern coast.

One woman was killed and seven women and children were injured and seven houses were destroyed when seven bombers attacked the fishing village of Kaskinen on the Bothnian gulf, it was reported. The village was of no commercial or military importance, officials said.

Two persons were reported killed in the bombing of Kajaani in central Finland.

Capture Much Booty.

The communique yesterday said four field guns, 30 automobiles, and much other war material fell into Finnish hands in the district north of Lake Ladoga after the repulse of relatively weak attacks on three Finnish positions, one of them on the shore of the lake and two others on islands near the shore.

Other attacks were reported set back at Summa, on the Karelian isthmus; at Aittajoki, north of Kitela, and at Markajarvi, on the Salla front above the arctic circle.

Heavy artillery exchanges thundered last night along the Karelian isthmus front, fitfully lighting a snowy battlefield strewn with Russian dead, slain in a fruitless soviet offensive which appeared to have spent itself at last after five days of unrelenting attacks.

Mannerheim Line Unbroken.

Military sources said the Mannerheim line remained unbroken by the repeated soviet assaults—in which tanks, armored sledges, and parachute troops were used and during which Finnish front line troops went practically without sleep and food.

Finnish counter barrages, these sources said, thus far had blocked every attempt of the Russians to dig in closer to the Finnish lines.

The Finns made no official mention of their own losses, but foreign observers said they unquestionably had paid a heavy price themselves in dead and wounded.

Russian warplanes, meanwhile, continued their attacks on areas behind the front.

Attack Swedish Ambulance.

The Finnish press bureau reported that soviet bombers had attacked a Swedish ambulance unit transporting wounded soldiers to the rear. Casualties were said to be slight, however.

An official bulletin declared 145 civilians had been killed and 179 injured in Russian bombing raids on 141 localities during the last week. The bulletin said six hospitals had been bombed or machine gunned and that the Russians appeared to have begun a systematic attack upon churches.

The Finns said the Russians, adopting a new practice, were inaugurating night raids on blacked out cities in an attempt to break civilian morale.

Civil authorities in Helsingfors said the Finns were prepared for a continuation of the night raids. Fires were still burning in Turku [Abo] and other communities in southern Finland as the result of attacks Sunday night.

Damage Heavy at Viipuri.

Reports from the important port of Viipuri [Viborg] at the head of the Gulf of Finland, which was bombed heavily all day Sunday, indicated the damage was even more widespread than at first supposed.

Last night's communique said nine enemy planes were destroyed and four others were believed downed during the raids on Sunday. Listed among the towns at which the Russian air force struck were Mantyluoto, Tammisaari, Riihimaki, and Hameenlinna.

In the war zone soviet bombers blasted Valamo in the Lake Ladoga district, the communique said, and fires appeared to have broken out in the monastery there. A church and rectory also were reported destroyed by bombs at Ivalo, Lapland.

Report Hospital Ship Hit.

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP).—A Reuters [British] press dispatch from Helsingfors said tonight that a Russian plane bombed and machine-gunned a Finnish hospital ship today. The ship was reported damaged, but the crew and a lone patient aboard escaped uninjured.

The Russian Communique.

"Feb. 5—Patrol activities and in some sectors non-intense artillery fire. Clashes of infantry units continued in the area north of Lake Ladoga. Soviet aviation made reconnoitering flights."

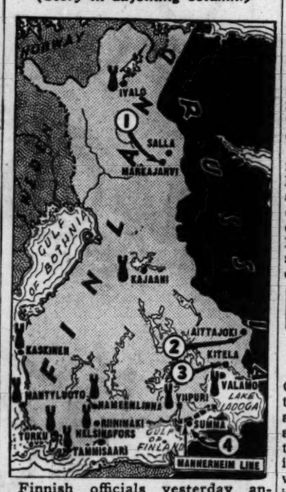
An editorial in the army newspaper Red Star said today there had been "great results in liberating the Finns from the yoke of Mannerheim"—Field Marshal Baron Mannerheim, commander of the Finnish armed forces.

The paper asserted also that thousands of letters have been received from Russian youths wishing to join the army before their regular period of compulsory service.

In still another comment on current matters, the navy newspaper Red Fleet depicted Japan in a "blind alley" in her war with China and declared that she might take that desperate step of seizing British, French, or Netherlands colonial possessions in the South Pacific because of the need for raw materials.

Finnish Victories

(Story in adjoining column.)



Finnish officials yesterday announced that Russian attacks had been repulsed at Aittajoki (1) and Markajarvi (2). A Finnish spokesman denied the report of annihilation of a Red division in the Kitela area (3). A heavy Russian attack at Summa (4) was interpreted by some as a soviet attempt to divert the Finns from the Kitela area. The bomb symbols mark cities hit by Red air raids yesterday.

SORTAVALA, Finland, Feb. 3.—[By Courier to Helsingfors.]—I left for the front northeast of Sortavala on an ambulance train. This train could accommodate several hundred casualties. Doctors and nurses served coffee in their restaurant, which formerly was the baggage car. A wood burning stove was being used to prepare pea soup and coffee for the patients brought in from field hospitals in the various sectors.

The train proceeded slowly, making many halts for troops and supply trains. At 4 a. m. I left the car. In pitch darkness I walked off the station platform and shortly afterward entered a hospital where the first four American volunteers in the Finnish medical service are stationed.

Evanston Man on Duty.

They are William B. Mock of 1616 Forest place, Evanston; Robert Newmann of New York; Louis Bartlett of Washington, D. C., and John Hazey of Bridgeport, Conn. They had been serving in France but were given permission to volunteer for service in Finland and arrived on Jan. 10 with two French cars which were used to transport casualties. When the temperature fell to 46 below zero Fahrenheit they had frozen their feet, but now have recovered.

Ranging in age from 23 to 25 years, the Americans said they were glad to be helping the Finns and seeing some action. They were full of stories of seeing severely wounded men they had brought in operated upon without even a moan of pain. They had also seen Russian prisoners awaiting operations and said they had made enough noise for several men.

Need Socks and Dry Food.

Not receiving any pay for their work and because of delay in mail from home, the four Americans asked THE TRIBUNE merely to request their relatives and friends to send them a few packages, preferably some changes of under clothing, socks, sweets, cigarets, and some dry food which can stand transport in subzero weather.

Altho the diet at the hospital is chiefly pea soup, coffee, milk, and sandwiches, they did not complain about the monotony of their food but about their quarters in a small farmhouse nearby where I saw six big empty bean cans. They had found the beans at a Sortavala grocery store. All agreed that the longer they were in Finland the better they liked the Finns.

We talked all morning for it was a brilliant day with perfect visibility. Soviet planes would pass over the hospital but it was so perfectly camouflaged that few bombs had been dropped.

SORTAVALA DIGS OUT OF WRECKAGE UNDER NEW RAIDS

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SORTAVALA, Finland, Feb. 3.—[By courier to Helsingfors].—Some 2,000 women and children of Sortavala, who were not sent from the town last night, spent another day in the bomb shelters. Today [Saturday] they were prepared for the gruelling hours. The housewives had moved kerosene stoves to the cellars and dugouts to cook food and provide heat.

Arrow Locates Bombed Town.

The first air raid alarm was sounded at 8:37 a. m. when several Russian bombers flew over the town. At 8:40 eight machines passed over and at 9 o'clock the all clear signal was sounded. At 9:03 nine machines came from the south. These dropped bombs on the outskirts, seeking to break the railroad line and destroy the railroad station. At 9:22 the all clear was sounded.

Stop to Watch Sky.

One of the Boy Scouts who serve as messengers in the air raid precautions brought word to the home guards, many of whom carried captured Russian light machine guns, that Finnish fighter planes were coming. Every one stopped work to watch the sky. Fires still were burning and it was only because there was no wind that more houses were not destroyed.

Home guards, firemen, military police, and Boy Scouts, the latter garbed like Finnish soldiers and each proudly wearing his Finnish knife, all watched the sky to the southeast. We heard a motor and saw a lone Finnish plane plane flying toward the battle front a few miles to the east.

I watched the faces near me, looking for some expression of anxiety or fear at the sight of the one plane being pitted against the squadron which had flown over a few minutes earlier. But no, the tired and grimed faces of the men who had been fighting fires all night were smiling.

Watch for a Squadron.

Here was a Finnish pilot on his way to a fight and the watchers believed he was more than a match for a Russian esquadrille, just as a Finnish infantry battalion has proved itself more than equal to a soviet division.

Chimney sweeps, who looked as if they had washed their faces in soot before starting to work were moving about inspecting chimneys dangerously shaken by Friday's air bombings. As the sweeps went down one street and up another those chimneys which were diagnosed as good for duty began to smoke again, thawing out the frozen homes whose shattered windows were being replaced by pieces of heavy cardboard.

Bishop and Pastors Carry On.

Near the harbor a five story brick building, its windows shattered, continued to burn. It was the headquarters for the Greek Orthodox church, the predominant church of Finland's eastern frontier. Members of the archbishop's staff were using a stone chapel at the rear to store the church records and personal property. A bomb had landed 50 feet from the chapel, crashing down the elevator shaft of the building into the basement where it had exploded and killed the bishop's secretary and four women.

Like his Lutheran colleagues, the archbishop ignored the air raid warnings and was going from shelter to shelter to comfort the threatened. I heard hymns coming from cellars and shelters. The archbishop and his priests and the Lutheran pastors and chaplains were holding impromptu services and offering prayers underground.

Monastery Attacked.

At 11:14 a. m. three more big planes appeared, going northward. I was on the waterfront inspecting a burned warehouse which had contained a month's supplies for the Valamo monastery [Greek Orthodox] and also the Finnish garrison there. From the direction of the Valamo Islands, 25 miles out on Lake Ladoga, came the sound of heavy explosions where other squadrons of bombers were at work.

At 1:30 p. m. two Finnish planes appeared. At 1:40 a two motored Russian bomber came from the west, flying at 2,000 feet and slowly losing altitude as the pilot intermittently glided and sparingly operated his throttle, seeking to reach the Russian lines some 30 miles away. But he was obliged to land on the ice 12 miles from Sortavala. His machine was captured by a Finnish patrol, which discovered that the main gas tank had been punctured during a fight inland.

A Soldier's Autograph.

A 6 foot 3 inch Finnish lieutenant with a wounded hand was watching a fire engine in the street, where he was surrounded by a crowd of admiring small boys. Being the only American newspaper man at Sortavala at the moment, I recoghized some of the boys as autograph hunters and the lieutenant soon was signing the pads and slips of paper they shyly offered. The lieutenant was Aarne Juustilainen, who had served five years in the French Foreign legion where, besides winning his way to a sergeancy, he had earned the title, "Marokon Kauhu," the Horror of Morocco.

He was wearing a sheepskin coat he had taken from a soviet political commissar and both the commissar's heavy knout and a Russian-made Colt automatic. Aarne told me that he had shot 16 Russians wit it.

Juustilainen said he had been much colder fighting in the Moroccan mountains than on the soviet frontier. He had been wounded by Finnish sharpnel. He had signaled his own artillery to open fire when he discovered that his platoon had been surrounded by a much larger force of Russians. The Finnish artillery fire had enabled the Finns to escape with little loss of men. Aarne's right hand had been badly mangled but the wound was almost healed and he was looking forward to rejoining his company.

CARE IN PICKING SYPHILIS TEST AGENCY URGED

Physicians should use great care in selecting laboratories to make tests for syphilis, Dr. Francis E. Senear, head of the dermatology department of the University of Illinois college of medicine, last night told a meeting of the Chicago Laryngological and Otological society [throat and ear diseases] in the Chicago Towers club.

He said annual surveys show that the best private and state laboratories have gradually improved their blood testing techniques until the best of them make few errors, but that 22 per cent of the laboratories surveyed nationally in 1939 were classed as unfavorable.

CO-PILOT "B"
Flying high and heading east, had just relinquished the controls when suddenly a scream rent the air. At a nod from the pilot he went back to investigate. As he stepped inside the cabin he was confronted by a wild eyed man of large size who seemed to have gone crazy. Two passengers who had tried to subdue him had been hurled aside and were badly shaken. As the hysterical passenger sprang at him, Co-Pilot "B," by a neat trick of JIU-JITSU, set him forcibly down in the aisle, then helped him to his feet and led him back to his seat, where he sat quietly and very much subdued during the rest of the trip. Co-Pilot "B" says—
"I believe my training in Jiu-Jitsu to be as valuable to me as my knowledge of aviation.
THE SAFETY OF THE PASSENGERS IS OUR FIRST CONSIDERATION."

STORIED STONES

By CALEB

HOW MANY of the passers up and down Michigan Avenue—how many residents of Chicagoland as a whole—realize that in one of its major buildings is literally represented a galaxy of the most famous and historic structures of the world?

That in the Tribune Tower's doorway, for example, stands a stone cannonball, more than six centuries old, brought from the ancient castle of Pevensey in Sussex—the village (then a seaport) where William the Conqueror landed in the year 1066?

Or that thirty-two other similarly impressive fragments from long-ago places and structures add their interest to this modern tower? The mere recital of them is like discovering the race's most inspiring sources of legend, drama, and song in some book of world-history. For embedded throughout the lower courses of this 36-story Gothic masterpiece are stones from every corner of the globe. Each accompanied by its inscription, here are memorials from the Old General Post Office in Dublin; Hamlet's Castle in the Danish town of Elsinore; part of a lantern from the Shinto Shrine of Hibiya Daijingum, in Tokyo—stones from Westminster Abbey, in London; Edinburgh Castle, Scotland; Cologne Cathedral, Germany; the Cathedral of Notre Dame; the Taj Mahal at Agra, India; the 13th-century Trondjhem Cathedral in Norway; and the Great Wall of China.

Other history-marks greeting passersby from their niches have gravitated to this final immortality from many points: the Parthenon, at Athens; the Royal Castle of Stockholm; a trio of souvenirs representing Fort Santiago, Santa Lucia Barracks, and Fort San Antonio Abad, in Manila; a roof-tile and bridge-stone from the Forbidden City, as well as a stone from the Winter Palace, Peiping. Here, too, are stones from an ancient temple in Honan, China; a quartet of relics hailing from the famed fortress of Ehrenbreitstein, on the Rhine; and a fragment from the ancient citadel of David's Tower at Jerusalem.

Besides these, one finds enshrined in the Tower's walls such storied stones as that from Wartburg Castle, near Eisenach, Germany, where, in 1521, Luther completed his translation of the New Testament; and others representing, respectively, the Castle of Chillon, in Switzerland; Massachusetts Hall, built in 1720 at Harvard University; Santo Domingo Monastery in Old Panama; the Mosque of Sancta Sophia, at Constantinople; the Alamo, Texas; and the 15th-century royal castle of Wawel, in Poland. . . .

Thus wisely have the occupants of a great edifice dedicated to News made it a lasting tribute, as well, to the romance and timelessness of History.

'CAN YOU SPARE A MEAT CARD?' CRY BERLIN BEGGARS

War Brings a Change in Their Technique.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 5. — The war has brought a change in the technique of Berlin panhandlers.

Instead of saying, "Mein herr, can you spare 10 pfennig [about 4 cents]?" they now ask, "Mein herr, can you spare a meat ration card?" If the touch for meat fails they are willing to settle for butter or fat cards. Bread cards seldom are requested as they are distributed by the authorities in adequate quantities.

The Germans will have another "one dish Sunday" next week. Between 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. all restaurants and hotels will be permitted to have only five items on the menu from which a selection must be made. Choices are: First, potatoes boiled with carrots; second, turnips with potatoes and meat; third, turnips, potatoes, and stuffed cabbage; fourth, fish, and fifth, vegetables.

Aid Winter Relief.

The money that diners in restaurants save thru eating the one dish meals is contributed to the winter relief fund. Those who eat at home also are supposed to restrict themselves to a single dish. The blockwart [a minor Nazi party official in charge of a block of homes] then makes his collections, entering each person's contribution in his books.

A housewife usually finds that the corner grocer can sell only carrots, cabbage, turnips, and potatoes, altho a few of the most expensive hotels and restaurants occasionally have a somewhat wider selection. Even the best eating places frequently are without salad greens and fresh fruit.

Altho it was reported that canned vegetables would be placed on sale in February, they have not appeared in any quantities and it is believed that they are being held for the future when the need may be greater. Sauerkraut vanished from the shops. It has been requisitioned for the army.

Help Women Letter Carriers.

The women's office of the Labor Front today urged owners of apartment houses to place collective letter boxes in basements so that the women letter carriers will not have to climb stairs. A number of women have replaced postmen who were called to the colors. The Labor Front declares that the work of climbing stairs all day is too strenuous for the women.

The Labor Front also has taken up the cudgel for traveling salesmen who have been having a hard time since a large percentage of trade and industry has been concentrated on government orders.

Many firms which planned to dismiss their sales force have been advised not to shatter their organizations, which presumably will be needed after the war.

Many former traveling salesmen have been placed in government or municipal jobs. Trade circles declare that now would be the time to purge the unqualified from the ranks of salesmen and to "purify" the profession by getting rid of those who are not "reliable" from the political point of view. The insurance business is understood to be in line for the purifying process.

DIES OF FALL INJURIES.

Ernest Southern, 75 years old, died in the Roseland Community hospital Sunday night from injuries suffered in a fall Jan. 8 in his home at 11150 Normal avenue. Mr. Southern, a native of Devonshire, England, was retired 12 years ago from his job with the Pullman company.

BELIEVE BALKAN NATIONS, ITALY MAY SIGN PACTS

Held Way for Entente to Reach Peace Goal.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 5 (AP).—Southeastern European diplomats tonight said they expected individual Balkan nations would open negotiations soon in an effort to conclude bilateral pacts with Italy in an effort to preserve peace in this area.

Despite statements that the members of the Balkan entente—Rumania, Greece, Jugo-Slavia, and Turkey—had agreed on a "common front" at their conference concluded here yesterday, diplomats said they apparently had failed to select a mode of joint action.

In view of this belief, observers asserted there was reason to assume that Italy would be ready to negotiate separate accords with each entente power, as well as Hungary and Bulgaria, to achieve, directly or indirectly, the union which the southeastern nations appear unable to bring about themselves.

Members Given Free Hand.

The possibility of such negotiations were conceded by the conference when it gave its members a free hand to negotiate their own problems.

Such bilateral pacts, it was said, would conform with Premier Benito Mussolini's policy of individual settlement of affairs in preference to a loose system of collective security among nations having divergent interests, such as the entente members.

It was reliably reported that conclusion of pacts with Rome would open the way to negotiations among the nations themselves on such questions as settlement of Hungarian and Bulgarian territorial claims against Rumania, with Italy as the referee.

Entente's Character 'Changed.'

Foreign diplomats here said that the character of the Balkan entente had been "completely changed" by the recent conference.

The entente originally was established to prevent Bulgaria from regaining by force from any of its members territory she lost after the world and Balkan war settlements. Now, however, the Balkans were believed anxious to forget their own quarrels if they can keep out of the war.

Action Seen as Bar to Hungary.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 5 (AP).—The Balkan entente's declaration to maintain a common watch over the "national territory" of its members was interpreted by Hungary today as a barrier to her aspirations for regaining former Hungarian territory from Rumania.

CHINESE GOVERNMENT FORMALLY APPOINTS BOY, 6, AS DALAI LAMA

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 5.—The national government today issued a formal mandate naming Lingehr Lamutanchu, a 6 year old boy discovered last year in Koko-Nor province and recently taken to Lhasa, as the 14th dalai lama. Called "Ehrling," or "Divine Child," the boy was selected by high Tibetan lamas as possessing all the attributes of reincarnation of the 13th Dalai Lama. He was born at the moment his predecessor died. The government today appropriated about $30,000 to pay expenses in connection with enthronement of the new lama, set for Feb. 24 in Lhasa.

DIVORCES WIFE WHO PREFERS TO LIVE IN GERMANY

Albert Gleitsman, 3721 Janssen avenue, is a veteran of the old Imperial German army and fought thru four years of the war of 1914-1918. In 1920 he married and brought his wife, Louise, to the United States. Yesterday he appeared before Judge Cornelius Harrington and asked for a divorce.

"In July, 1938," he said, "my wife and daughter, Margaret, now 12, went back to Germany for a visit. I bought them round trip tickets. She stayed for months and finally I wrote asking her to return. In reply I got a letter in which she said 'I like Adolf Hitler. Germany is not as bad as painted and the United States is worse. I am going with a soldier who wants to marry me.'"

Gleitsman said he later learned that his wife had filed divorce proceedings against him. Then he said, he wrote to her saying that she could marry any one she wished but he would stay in the United States.

Judge Harrington granted the divorce.

BRITISH JOBLESS TOTAL INCREASES DESPITE THE WAR

Cold Weather Blamed for Unemployment.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Ministry of labor statistics issued tonight disclosed an increase of 157,371 in the registered unemployed in Great Britain last month despite the concentration of industry on war production. The total number of unemployed on Jan. 15 was announced at 1,518,896, compared to 1,361,525 on Dec. 11, 1939.

The ministry blamed the jobless increase on the freezing weather during January. The cold brought outdoor work virtually to a standstill. Six trades—agriculture, building, public works, stone and slate quarrying, brickmaking, and local government services—accounted for about 142,000 extra unemployed, the labor ministry said.

Steel Employment Lags.

Altho, on the basis of the ministry's figures, the seasonal increase in unemployment in January because of the post-Christmas decrease in trade appears to have been smaller than usual, labor circles commented on the fact that the number of unemployed in the iron and steel industries, not affected by the weather, showed an increase of 3,240 for one month. Other industries catering to war needs still carry a big margin of unemployed, according to government statistics.

Meanwhile, discussions concerning the supply of labor for war industry opened between the government and trades union leaders.

In a conference at the labor ministry, the government's plans for expanding production of arms, munitions, and other supplies were laid before the executive committee of the Amalgamated Engineering union. Labor Minister Ernest Brown presided at the conference, which also was attended by representatives of the ministries of supply and shipping.

Plan to Use More Workers.

Details of the government's proposals were shrouded in secrecy, but, according to Fred Smith, secretary of the union, a vast increase in the output of arms and the labor needed for munitions factories is projected. The new plan explains the recent call by Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, for 1,000,000 more women armaments workers.

Several problems confront the government in boosting the production of arms. One is that of inducing the unions to support the increase. Others involve supplying women workers to aircraft factories and engineering plants and increasing the number of factories working 24 hour shifts.

The Amalgamated Engineering union is opposed to the use of women on engineering jobs, but argues if the emergency requires it the women should get the same rate of pay as the men. Whether the union will relax its attitude against women workers is expected to be put to test soon.

The terms on which women recruits for the arms industry should be engaged will be dealt with specifically, it was indicated, on Feb. 13, when the labor ministry consults executives of the Confederation of Shipbuilding and the engineering unions representing 34 trade organizations.

FREEPORT LABOR LEADER DIES.

BRITISH ARE OUR COUSINS NO MORE, NAZIS PROCLAIM

Say German Spirit Closer to Latins, Japanese.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—The British are not to be considered "Germanic cousins" any longer, an editorial in Das Schwarze Korps, the newspaper of Heinrich Himmler, chief of all German police, said today. Such a dream "has been dispelled for good," it added.

"Experience has taught us that Latin peoples, yes, even the peoples of distant Japan, are incomparably closer to us in their attitude toward life and their philosophy than our 'Germanic cousins' on the British Isles," the editorial declared.

"This theory," the paper went on, "is, of course, too novel to be immediately grasped by every one. We have been far too accustomed to regard England as we would like it to be. Thus we honor Shakespeare as we would a German classical poet, overlooking the fact that the very qualities that we admire in him made him a poor example of Englishman."

Deny Ancient Ties.

The Schwarze Korps attacked the "fallacious belief" that the English and Germans are united by racial ties dating back to Germanic tribes by declaring that the changes wrought by centuries of time in the English people have eliminated all truly Germanic characteristics, leaving only those which it ascribes to a Jewish nation.

"The English afford a test case that proves that the school teacher's myth cannot prevail against our racial theories," the editorial went on.

"According to these teachings the British, who have been isolated on an island for centuries and practically impervious to foreign influences, ought to be the most Germanic among the Germanic nations. But a people is a living organism, not dead matter."

What Happened to the British.

At this point the Schwarze Korps made use of its own theory of the history of the Jews to ascribe what happened to the British people in the course of time. The peculiar fate of the Jewish people, it declared, decreed that only those should survive who conquered life with trickery and cunning.

"Isolation on their island of the English people created the same conditions, the same 'line of breeding.' It was not the honest, hard working peasant Esau who was able to give life to a long line of descendants but his brother, Jacob, the sly, clever trader, who burst the fetters of the modest island to sail the seven seas as a haggling merchant learning the art of making others work for him.

"And by constantly marrying only the daughters of those who attained success by the same methods he stamped on the British peoples those characteristics that are so closely related to those of the Jews.

Nordic Race Scattered.

"His descendants developed into a type which our generation in deep wisdom has termed 'white Jew.' Others, heirs of the Nordic race, were dislodged and dispersed over the entire world, where they died out as impressed soldiers of greedy imperialism."

On the subject of religion the Schwarze Korps has undertaken even more drastic revisions of prevailing conceptions. One of the chief reasons the German was wont to regard Englishmen as king, it declares, was that the "school teacher's myth also taught us that the English profess the Protestant faith."

This, it was declared, is a great mistake.

"Just as thoughtless people regarded Germanicism as being synonymous with Protestantism they believed that the Englishman was Lutheran, that the Protestant north German was even more closely related in spirit with the Englishman than with the Catholic south German.

Religions Widely Separated.

"But all people who have ever struggled for the German faith are separated from the dogma of the Anglican high church and the spiritual makeup of the English Puritan by an unbridgable gulf. The mere fact that the English are not Catholics does not mean that they are Protestants. The immediate foundation of their faith rests exclusively on the Old Testament, not as it is interpreted by Christian religions, but almost entirely as it was originally interpreted for the purpose of formulating the ancient Jewish law book."

ANN CORIO.

Ann Corio, queen of burlesque strip teasers, who announced in Pittsburgh yesterday that she was planning to adopt a baby girl, will not get the child from The Cradle in Evanston despite published reports she will seek the child there. Mrs. William B. Walrath, head of the institution, said yesterday Miss Corio was not on the waiting list of applicants. The list is so long, Mrs. Walrath added, that The Cradle is accepting no more applications at present.

DUTCH SUPREME WAR CHIEF QUITS IN RIFT ON POLICY

Opposed in His Plans for Wide Martial Law.

THE HAGUE, the Netherlands, Feb. 5 (AP).—Gen. I. H. Reynders resigned today as supreme commander of the Netherlands land and sea forces. He had served five months and was reported to disagree with the government over military policy and reduced expenditures.

Gen. H. G. Winkelman, who has been a lieutenant-general in charge of the vital Utrecht-Soesterberg air defense region, succeeded him. He is 64 years old and was a major-general when he retired in 1934.

Second Leader to Quit.

Reynders' resignation came quickly after that of the Belgian commander in chief, Gen. Van Der Bergen, but was said to have had no connection with it. The Belgian commander resigned Jan. 31 after asking to be assigned to other duties.

Replacement of Gen. Reynders, whose policy was to subordinate civil authority to military, was viewed as indicating that the government had refused to depart from democratic principles except as military necessities might dictate.

Censorship Backed by Reynders.

Gen. Reynders was said to have desired to place the entire country under martial law and to interfere with freedom of the press.

The government was reported to hold the view that mobilization costs under Gen. Reynders' administration were too high. The cost of maintaining the army amounts to 1,700,000 guilders [$901,000] a day.

BRITISH-FRENCH COUNCIL STUDIES FINNISH PROBLEM

War Chiefs Report Unity on Military Plans.

PARIS, Feb. 5 (AP).—The British-French supreme war council, meeting for the fifth time since the beginning of the war, was reported tonight by the war ministry to have reached complete accord on measures assuring the greatest efficacy of French-British collaboration.

["It can be assumed that the war in Finland took a prominent place in the discussions of the allied war chiefs," wrote the diplomatic correspondent of the authoritative British Press association. Coincident with this report, an estimate was circulated in London that Finland will have enough planes at her disposal by May, when the snow melts, to hold Russia's huge air force in check.]

General Staffs Also Confer.

The French and British general staffs held a conference between the morning and afternoon meetings of the war council.

Premier Edouard Daladier of France, still limping from a foot injury, and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Britain, who arrived with his usual umbrella in hand, presided jointly over the council sessions. Daladier was quoted as saying that he had never seen a meeting that resulted "in such unity of views."

The war ministry communique said the council had "examined in all their aspects the various elements or the present situation" and added that "the question of food stocks was notably studied."

Many Leaders Attend.

Representing Britain in the council, besides Chamberlain, were Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill, War Secretary Oliver Stanley, Foreign Undersecretary Sir Alexander Cadogan, Chief of Naval Staff Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, Gen. Edmund Ironside, chief of the imperial defense staff, and Maj. Gen. Hastings L. Ismay, secretary of the imperial defense committee.

France was represented by Daladier, Naval Minister Cesar Campinchi, Air Minister Guy La Chambre, Gen. Joseph Vuillemin, air force chief of staff; Admiral Jean Darlan, supreme commander of all naval forces; Auguste Champetier de Ribes, foreign undersecretary; Alexis Leger, secretary-general of the foreign office; Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin, commander-in-chief of the French-British armies, and Gen. J. P. O. de Camp, chief of Daladier's military cabinet.

Reports 40 U-Boats Sunk.

While the council was in session, Naval Minister Campinchi announced that at least 40 German submarines had been sunk since the start of the war. He estimated Germany had 55 U-boats in operation when the conflict began, but did not estimate the number she has completed since then.

On the western front there was "nothing to report," stated tonight's communique of the British-French high command.

[Germany's high command reported yesterday on operations of the previous day: "The day passed quietly."]

Dog Warns British of Raid.

ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Feb. 5.—British soldiers have been involved in another sharp clash in no-man's land.

A Yorkshire regiment detachment was holding an advance outpost on a dark night when it was surprised by the whining of a German patrol dog. No sooner had an alarm been given than the outpost was attacked on two sides by heavy automatic and rifle fire. The Yorkshiremen replied with machine guns.

A 19 year old soldier suffered a serious wound before the enemy retired. The next day the British found that the snow at the point from which the Germans had fired was drenched with blood.

GERMAN DEVELOPS NEW MICROSCOPE WITH AN ELECTRIC FIELD LENS

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—Another "supermicroscope" using an electric field for its lens, has been developed by Dr. H. Mahl, the German scientist. This microscope, which is similar to one invented about a year ago in Berlin, is capable of enlarging microscopic objects up to 90,000 times.

The advantage claimed for the new microscope is that it is less complicated and cheaper to build than last year's development which used a magnetic field as its lens.

The principle remains the same. The original enlargement is about 5,000 times and this can be further optically enlarged to a point where the objects are separated by 1-50 millionth part of a millimeter and can be observed distinct from each other. Tests undertaken by the Robert Koch Institution in Berlin were said to have proved its value, particularly in differential diagnosis.

BRITAIN REFUSES TO SAVE DOOMED IRISH BOMBERS

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP).—The home office tonight announced its refusal to grant reprieves for two condemned members of the outlawed Irish Republican army as has been asked in Irish massmeetings. Earlier in the day the attorney general had refused to take the case of the two men, Peter Barnes, 32 years old, and James Richards, 29, to the house of lords for appeal, as the defense had asked.

The prisoners are in Birmingham jail under sentence to be hanged Wednesday for their part in a bomb explosion in Coventry last Aug. 25 in which five persons were killed.

Thousands attended a massmeeting in Dublin last night and asked reprieve of the two men "to avert the risk of extinguishing all hope of enduring peace between Britain and the Irish nation." Premier Eamon de Valera of Ireland has been deluged with resolutions from Irish public bodies appealing to him to ask the British government to intercede.

German Envoy to Russia Returns Home to Report

BERLIN, Feb. 5 (AP).—The German ambassador to Russia, Count Friedrich Werner von Schulenberg, arrived today to report on German-soviet relations. Indications were that the trade agreement, under which Germany says she is receiving an increasing quantity of Russian raw materials, would be discussed.

U. S. TO SOFTEN UP ITS PUNCHES AGAINST BRITAIN

Officials Decide to Settle Issues by Parley.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—A decision to refrain as far as possible from sending any more "waspish notes" to Great Britain over neutrality questions has been reached by American officials in charge of foreign policy.

In the future questions arising between the two governments are expected to be threshed out almost entirely thru personal conferences between Washington officials and Lord Lothian, the British ambassador, or between Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy and British authorities.

Alarmed at Public Opinion.

The series of strong notes sent from Washington to London in the last two months stirred up American public opinion to an extent alarming to some officials. They could see no advantage accruing to the world from an acrimonious debate between the United States and Great Britain. They envisaged it as a direct encouragement for Adolf Hitler, whom they have no desire to please.

The British ambassador has advanced ways and means whereby the British would avoid taking American ships into the forbidden combat area, and offered to set up a control port at St. John, New Brunswick, so as to avoid examination of American vessels in European waters.

Navicerts Issue Ironed Out.

British representatives have spent many hours at the state department discussing the question of navicerts [navigation certificates] which state that British officials here are satisfied that certain items of cargo leaving the United States are not of a contraband nature and are not destined to Germany. The British have reached the point where they are willing to guarantee that any American ship covered by a so called ship navicert will not be hauled into an examination port by the British or the French.

A ship navicert certifies that the whole cargo of the ship has been found to be "innocent." Navicerts are obtained by the shippers of the various goods making up the ship's cargo and then the shipping company, if it sees that all the cargo is so covered, can obtain a ship navicert. When such is the case, the British ministry of economic warfare notifies the navy patrol to let the ship pass.

WATCHMAN SHOT WHEN HE BATTLES BANDIT IN STORE

A watchman was shot and slightly wounded early today in a gun fight at close range with a bandit in a drug store at 3278 Armitage avenue.

The robber had held up Isadore Finkel, 50 years old, the owner, and had taken $20 when he was seen from the outside by the watchman, Morris C. Martin, 61, of 2911 Washington boulevard. The bandit saw Martin at the same time and came out shooting.

One of his bullets, fired from inside the store, pierced the plate glass window and shattered Martin's right wrist. Undaunted, the elderly watchman changed gun hands and fired two bullets at the robber as the latter came out the door and then four more as he ran down the street. He escaped in a waiting car. The bullet which shattered Martin's wrist also grazed his abdomen. He was taken to the county hospital.

FIRE IN EVANSTON STORES CAUSES $5,000 DAMAGE

Fire, apparently of incendiary origin, did $5,000 damage last night to the building and several stores at 912 Chicago avenue, Evanston. It was the third fire in the building since early December.

The fire broke out in a vacant second floor storeroom separated by a fire wall from the Fluorescent Lights company, which occupies another section of the second floor. It was in the same spot the other fires were found.

E. A. McKay, head of the company, charged that the three fires were started in an effort to put him out of business. He manufactures sodium vapor lamps.

Stone Guards at Toledo Gas Plant on 5th Day of Strike

Toledo, O., Feb. 5 (AP).—Armed guards at the West Central avenue plant of the Ohio Fuel Gas company were stoned tonight in the first outbreak of violence in Toledo's five day gas workers' strike. No one was injured and there were no arrests. Police Captain Charles Hennesy attributed the stoning to the appearance of the guards. A picket line has been maintained at the property since the strike was called, but the guards had not been armed prior to today. The plant has been operated with the aid of company workers from other cities.

CHRISTMAS TREE STARTS FIRE.

A fire that did only $10 damage brought firemen to the home of William Becker at 4101 Addison street last night. The cause of the fire was a short circuit in the lights of the Christmas tree still standing in his home.

JAPS TURN DOWN PARIS, U. S. NOTES ON RAIL BOMBING

Will Continue Attacks on Chinese Line.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Feb. 6 (Tuesday) (AP).—Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita told the diet (parliament) today Great Britain had agreed to return nine of 21 German seamen seized Jan. 20 from the Japanese liner Asama Maru, but "I cannot say that the case is entirely settled." The foreign minister said Japan would continue to negotiate for surrender of all the seamen who were taken from the Japanese liner 35 miles off Yokohama after the vessel had been halted by a British warship with a shot across her bows.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 5.—Bombing of the Kunming-Hanoi railway in southwestern China by the Japanese army will continue so long as there is a "military necessity," Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, said today.

The railway, which is French operated, was bombed last Thursday and again on Saturday. France today lodged a protest over the first bombing, in which it charged five Frenchmen were killed. The United States also has made representations to Tokio and Paris. It was held that the bombings were detrimental to American interests.

Deny Army Undisciplined.

Suma said the Japanese military men in China were fully cognizant of the situation and denied that undisciplined forces had taken things in their own hands.

Japan has charged that the railway, which extends from Kunming, capital of Yunnan province, to Haiphong, French Indo-China port, by way of Hanoi, is a legitimate miltiary objective because munitions for China are transported over it. France has denied this.

Report 150 Killed.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 5 (AP).—Belated reports today increased to 150 the number of killed and wounded in last Thursday's Japanese bombing of the French operated Kunming-Hanoi railroad and told of renewed attacks on Saturday.

Saturday's onslaught was directed at almost the same place as Thursday's, but there were no additional casualties.

Forty bodies were said to have been removed so far from the wreckage of a train hit in the first attack.

Two French Citizens Die.

Two French nationals, the wife of a French railway inspector, and her infant daughter were listed among the dead. Kunming reports said three other French persons also were killed.

The new reports said the Japanese airmen returned while rescue work still was in progress and cut the railroad telegraph lines, hampering attempts to remove the wounded and identify the victims.

[A central, Chinese, news agency dispatch to Hongkong said a section of track and several bridges were demolished in the second raid. It said Chinese pursuit planes combatted the Japanese, but that one was shot down and all the invading aircraft escaped.]

WALTER SANDBERG.

The stamp collection now valued at $300 which 12 year old Walter Sandberg assembled while confined to his home at 4742 Hamilton street with rheumatic heart disease yesterday proved sufficient persuasion to win free exhibit space for the Chicago Heart association at the Chipex stamp exhibit to be held Feb. 16 thru 18 at the La Salle hotel.

The association will have a booth at which its 1940 "Have a Heart" Valentine seals to finance its activities will be sold. The Central Federation of Stamp clubs gave the space after hearing that Walter is but one of many young philatelists whose stamp collections divert hours that would otherwise be heavy because of invalidism from cardiac ailments.

CANADA GETS SET FOR 1ST ELECTION CAMPAIGN OF WAR

Candidates Ready to Open Drive Wednesday.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 5 [Special].—Plans for the Canadian government's election campaign, announced today, means that its opening next Wednesday will be a double barreled offensive. In addition to a radio address by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie-King from Ottawa, Defense Minister Norman Rogers will speak at Kingston, Ont., at a meeting in which he will be renominated for parliament.

The two addresses probably will be a high spot of the campaign for the prime minister and the defense minister, it is understood, will try to satisfy public demand for a more complete story of Canada's war effort than has been told.

Rogers Silent.

Rogers, except for a statement denying allegations of Dr. R. J. Manion, opposition leader, that the army was inadequately equipped, has been silent on the work of his department.

Liberal party leaders still are struggling with the campaign program and how to provide speaking itineraries.

However, it is understood the prime minister will make as few distant speeches as possible, relying largely on the radio. Finance Minister J. L. Ralston will also remain close to Ottawa.

Conservative's Plans in Doubt.

In Alberta, where the government will contest seats held by social credit advocates, J. A. McKinnon, minister without portfolio, will start the campaign.

Plans of the conservatives are in more doubt. After a speech at Brockville on Thursday, Manion will head for the west. Dates for other party leaders have not been fixed. The party's platform also has to be worked out.

The principle of censoring political radio speeches is bothering the government a little. Revised and more liberal rules than the wartime censorship has provided are being considered by the cabinet and may be adopted at a meeting tomorrow.

1,100 AMERICAN WAR PLANES DELIVERED TO BRITAIN AND FRANCE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 [Special].—American aircraft plants have delivered 1,100 fighting planes to France and Great Britain since these empires first turned to America for help in overcoming Germany's superiority in the air, figures released today indicate. Of these, 800 were delivered before the war began and 300 since the outbreak of hostilities.

In December alone, France received 171 planes costing $15,641,311 and 246 engines worth $2,666,382, as well as other parts and accessories. In the same period Great Britian received 53 planes worth $2,870,000 and 38 engines valued at $288,691.

The two governments have 2,900 additional planes on order in the United States, and are negotiating for upward of 8,000 more bombers, pursuit ships, and training craft.

Unfilled and pending orders, coupled with increasing pressure from the empires' purchasing missions, promise to step up production to well above 100 airships a month, in the opinion of experts who are watching exports with an eye to protecting the supply source of America's fighting forces.

Attendant Dozes at Still; Firemen Arrive in Time

All the water in a heater used to operate a 4,000 gallon bootleg still on the second floor at 2716 Chicago avenue boiled away yesterday while an attendant dozed on a nearby couch. He awakened when the redhot heater seared the wooden floor, turned in a fire alarm, and left in haste. Firemen under Acting Chief Albert Bartke of the 18th battalion found the fire thru an overpowering odor of alcohol, which was beginning to boil away.

GANDHI REFUSES TO AWAIT END OF WAR FOR LIBERTY

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 5 (AP).—Mohandas K. Gandhi and Viceroy Lord Linlithgow failed today to agree on Indian demands for independence, the third such stalemate since the European war started.

Gandhi apparently stood firm on the Congress [Nationalist] party demand for immediate consideration of India's independence while Lord Linlithgow reiterated Britain's stand to postpone final action until after the war.

An authorized summary issued by British officials later emphasized that Britain regarded the defense of India a vital subject which could not be handed over to India in any future constitution without joint consultation and mutually agreed procedure.

The tall British statesman and the wry little leader of India's millions of Hindus conferred for two and a half hours, but a communique indicated the only point of agreement was "to defer for the present further discussions."

Wearing a shawl in addition to his usual light cotton robes as he left the conference called by Lord Linlithgow, Gandhi made it clear the British proposals did not meet the Congress party demands.

The communique said the viceroy repeated British assurances India's independence would be considered "when the time came"—presumably after the war—and suggested "that the federal scheme act, while at present in suspense, afforded the swiftest stepping stone towards dominion status."

Provinces Win Autonomy.

The federal scheme referred to the British plan of 1935 which granted Indian governments autonomy in the provinces and provided for the gradual setting up of a federal congress by which the Indians might eventually become self governing.

Since the war started last September, the Congress party has demanded Britain enter into negotiations to grant India her independence in return for Indian support in the war against Germany.

When Britain refused to consider the question until after the war, the eight provincial governments controled by the Congress party resigned in protest.

"Complexity and Difficulty."

Lord Linlithgow, the communique said, pointed out to Gandhi the "complexity and difficulty" which would be brought about in these troublesome times by a dominion status for India.

The viceroy and Mohammed Ali Jinnah, president of the All-India Moslem league, will meet next. The Moslems oppose Congress party demands on the grounds they would not have sufficient voice in a Congress party government.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Double Action for your Advertising!

It's Almost Too Good to Be True!!

"YOUR story sounds almost too good to be true!"...That's a challenge, sometimes invited by The American Weekly's claim that an advertiser gets double action for his money when he tells his story in this magazine.

Here are the hard, cold facts. The American Weekly reaches more people, in more income levels, than any other magazine. And if that sounds almost too good to be true, these supporting facts make it sound even better:

More than half of the 6,050,000* non-relief families in the United States with incomes of more than $2,000 read The American Weekly. That's almost twice the number reached by any other magazine.

Of the 19,000,000* non-relief families with incomes of less than $2,000, 3⅓ million read The American Weekly. That's more than twice the number reached by any other magazine.

These 19,000,000 own more automobiles, buy more food than the higher group, and own about half of all the electric refrigerators.

The American Weekly does a double job in not only reaching the families where the wealth is greatest but in reaching the families where the retail buying volume is biggest!

Still Wondering?

But on top of all that, there's another phase of The American Weekly's matchless buyer-responsiveness that sometimes gets the "too good to be true" reaction—and that's this:

The American Weekly reaches not only the largest buying market in the world but it concentrates its circulation in those urban places where 82% of all retail sales in the United States are made.

It goes to twice as many families as any other magazine in cities of over 1,500,000 population—in cities of 100,000 to 1,500,000—in cities of 25,000 to 100,000. And it is read by more families in cities of 2,500 to 25,000 than any other magazine.

Which means that The American Weekly checks and double checks the markets where most goods are bought.

How About It Now?

Just two more facts about The American Weekly that will help clear up the "too good to be true" question:

1—Following a year's readership study, Dr. Daniel Starch, noted research authority, finds that one or more adults turn to The American Weekly in 95.6% of all homes where this magazine was found. And that its total adult readership is double that of any other magazine checked.

2—Finally, The American Weekly's BIG COLOR PAGE is not only twice as big as any other magazine page, but it costs those who use it less than ⅓ cent per family reached.

And So . . .

It's easy to see that double action from advertising is NOT too good to be true—not when it refers to the double action of the responsive readership of The American Weekly.

Cock-A-Doodle-Doo!
1940 started auspiciously with a large increase in January, over January of last year, in volume of orders secured for advertising to be published during 1940 in The American Weekly!

SEVEN DENY GUILT IN JURY FIX CASE; HEARING FEB. 14

Appear to Answer Charges in Vote Fraud Trial.

Seven pleas of not guilty were recorded yesterday when the jury "fix" case was called in Chief Justice John Prystalski's Criminal court. During the investigation of this case, which involves charges of bribery in a vote fraud case, State's Attorney Courtney said he found many of the connecting links between politics and crime, including the discovery of several ex-convicts holding political jobs.

The seven who were arraigned were:

SAMUEL ORLANDO, Democratic leader in the 52d precinct of the 11th ward, who, with Joseph Vinci, was charged with vote frauds and acquitted last Dec. 20.

GEORGE CRANE, one of the attorneys who represented Orlando and Vinci in their trial.

JAMES CREED, bailiff in the court where they were tried.

An eighth defendant, Joseph Callahan, handbook operator accused of passing money to one of the Vinci-Orlando jurors, has not yet been arrested.

Howe's Record Disclosed.

Courtney's investigation disclosed that Howe had been put on the state highway police pay roll despite his criminal record. In 1930 Howe was indicted on four robbery charges. He escaped trial by being found insane and then a few weeks later he was permitted to escape from a state hospital and the robbery charges were forgotten.

Gov. Horner ordered an investigation into the employment of Howe. State Director of Public Works F. Lynden Smith assumed responsibility and then had a political break with Horner. Smith was told to go to Florida until after Gov. Horner's primary campaign for reëlection is over.

Attorney James M. Burke stepped forward at yesterday's arraignment and announced himself as counsel for Crane, who formerly was his law partner. They once were fast friends, then became foes, but, Burke said yesterday, he offered his services gratis to Crane, and the offer was accepted.

Objects to Public Defender.

Howe was represented by Attorney Cameron Latter. Creed, since appointed to a city position, was represented by Attorney Charles A. Bellows. Attorney Arnold Harris, representing Attorney Harold Levy, who is out of the city, appeared for Orlando. Judge Prystalski appointed the public defender to represent Olson and the two jurors, all of whom are classed as state's witnesses.

Attorney Burke objected to ex-Juror McNamara having the public defender as counsel, stating to Judge Prystalski that only persons without money are entitled to the services of the public defender. McNamara is said to have admitted having been given $100 for his part in the acquittal in the vote fraud trial.

Feb. 14 Set to Hear Motions.

Judge Prystalski set Feb. 14 as the date for the hearing of preliminary motions in the trial of the seven. He did not announce what judge was assigned.

Immediately after that arraignment was concluded, Orlando and Vinci were arraigned on another indictment charging other vote frauds in the 11th ward. The indictment against the eight persons charges conspiracy to obstruct justice. Orlando and Vinci face several other charges of vote fraud.

Harris asked the court to defer their second arraignment pending the return to the city of Attorney Levy. The court set a tentative date for the case to be called again on Feb. 21.

Record Taken from Files.

Police Commissioner Allman revealed yesterday that he had taken Orlando's police record from the files of the bureau of identification on March 19, 1939, at the written request of Attorney Levy. This record showed Orlando had been arrested twice, but not convicted.

Commissioner Allman said the state law requires the surrender of fingerprints and photographs taken at the bureau of identification if the arrested person later is discharged in court and demands the destruction of such records.

T. P. Sullivan, chief of the state bureau of identification, referred to S. L. Nudelman, state director of finance, all questions pertaining to an ex-convict employed as a state tax collector. This man is said to have bombed a coal mine from an airplane during a coal miners' strike in 1930, and now to be on the state pay roll under the sponsorship of Ray Edmundson, C. I. O. leader in Illinois and head of its coal miners' union.

Mr. Courtney said his investigation into all the ramifications of the jury "fix" cases would be carried on by the February grand jury which was impaneled yesterday. The foreman of the new jury is Joseph L. O'Brien, 7754 Sunset drive, Elmwood Park, a purchasing agent.

The grand jury fixed total bonds at $340,000 yesterday when it was reported to have voted indictments against four men and a woman, members of the fur slipper gang. They were arrested last Wednesday night after committing 100 daring robberies in the last 18 months.

Mrs. Annette Detente was named by the grand jury on one charge of assault to murder and one of accessory before the fact of robbery. It was she who visited places to be robbed to determine that no guard was on watch. On these visits she usually wore a house dress and black house slippers with fur tops.

Chris Dattalo, 31, an ex-convict, was named on two charges of robbery and one of assault to murder. He was wounded by police Jan. 29 in a gun fight in the Metropolitan Petroleum company office at 3211 South Wood street.

John Detente, 29, and his brother, Ralph, 24, ex-convicts, and William Ott, 25, were named on three charges of robbery and one of assault to murder. Ralph and John are brothers of Mrs. Detente's husband, Mike, who is serving a robbery term in Joliet penitentiary. Ott served three one year terms in the Bridewell.

BOOKIES IN LOOP TROT ON DESPITE POLICE CAMPAIGN

Many handbooks in neighborhood areas of the city were closed yesterday, but several of the horse betting places that have operated for years in the loop still were doing business at the same old stands.

The order to close the handbooks was issued Saturday by Police Commissioner Allman. It was issued after William J. Campbell, United States attorney, notified Allman city officials might be liable to federal prosecution for permitting race wire services to be relayed to the books.

Capt. George O'Connor of the first district, which covers the loop, ordered fourteen detectives to search for handbooks. In other areas most of the police captains reported the handbooks were closed.

ALDERMEN AGAIN ASK BAN ON SALE OF TOY PISTOLS

For the second time in a year the city council judiciary committee recommended yesterday that the council pass an ordinance banning the sale or possession of toy guns which resemble real weapons. The proposal provides a penalty of $10 to $200. Of 10 committee members present, only one, Ald. John S. Boyle [16th], voted against the proposal.

"The ordinance will make a criminal out of every little boy playing with a gun," Boyle protested.

The aldermen who voted for the antitoy gun proposal are H. L. Brody [39th], chairman; B. A. Grant [3], Paul H. Douglas [5th], William Murphy [17th], Frank Hilburn [47th], Earl Dickerson [2d], Abraham Cohen [4th], Robert Quirk [48th], Roy Olim [8th].

YOUNG FATHER SHOT TRYING TO BREAK INTO HOME

Charles Ludington, 21 years old, was shot and wounded by a policeman early yesterday while trying to enter a window of one of the buildings of the Sarah Hackett Stevenson Memorial at 2412 Prairie avenue. He was in a serious condition in the Bridewell hospital last night.

Ludington, who lives at 1 West 26th street, said he tried to enter the home to rob it. He said he had served nine months in the Bridewell for attempted burglary two years ago. He is married and the father of a baby 9 months old.

The memorial is a shelter for women and children. Policeman Charles Horan was detailed at the home when complaints had been made that prowlers had tried to enter the shelter. Horan saw Ludington open a window on the second floor and called to him to surrender. Ludington jumped to the ground and was shot by Horan when he tried to flee. The prisoner suffered a broken left ankle when he jumped.

4 PURSE THIEVES MEET 2 GIRLS AND THEIR DOWNFALL

Four boys, pupils at Waller High school, were held as purse snatchers last night. Two girl classmates were responsible for the arrests, Detectives Harold Hope and Edwin Johnson said.

The father of one of the girls drove them to a drug store at Arlington place and Clark street last Wednesday night. As the girls got out of the car the four boys sauntered past and spoke to them. A few minutes later Mrs. Edith Hapburn, 68 years old, 636 Arlington place, had her purse stolen at the intersection by a youthful quartet.

"We know those boys. They go to Waller," the girls said later. The boys were arrested Saturday and, according to police, admitted the robbery, in which they got $10. They are George Kelly, 17, of 525 Wrightwood avenue; Richard Schoeherr, 14, of 631 Wrightwood avenue; Harry Parnell, 15, of 617 Drummond place, and Robert Kussman, 15, of 2627 Wilton avenue.

The latter three are in the Juvenile home and will be arraigned in Juvenile court Feb. 19. Kelly's case was continued to Feb. 27 yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden in Boys' court.

CAPONE ACCEPTS SERVICE IN CIVIL SUIT FOR TAXES

Al Capone accepted service yesterday in the government's civil suit to collect unpaid income tax, penalties and interest amounting to $350,011 for the years 1924 thru 1929. His attorney, Abraham Teitelbaum, appeared before Federal Judge John P. Barnes to accept the papers.

Teitelbaum said that Capone is still under the care of physicians in Baltimore, Md., where he went after his release from federal prison for income tax evasion. Teitelbaum said that it was improbable that Capone would come here for the trial, which Judge Barnes set for June 3. The judge last Wednesday charged the attorney general's office with laxity in handling the case, which was filed Sept. 28, 1937.

Ald. Bowler, Council Dean, Observes 64th Birthday

Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], dean of the city council, observed his 64th birthday yesterday. He said he didn't recall the day was his birthday until he walked into his office in the city hall. There on his desk was a cake.

MUNICIPAL COURT METHODS SCORED BY SOUTH SIDERS

A new protest against what was described as unnecessary complications in Municipal court procedure and inconvenient centralization of hearings in special courts was voiced yesterday before the city council judiciary committee by South Chicago business men, pastors, and representatives of civic groups.

Nearly 40 witnesses appeared before the committee in the city hall and asserted the new system of operating the court is unfair and inconvenient to 200,000 persons who live in the South Chicago area.

They said the system of hearing special cases in the Criminal Courts building at 26th street and California avenue causes a waste of time for South Chicago residents who appear in the cases. They urged that the South Chicago court again be made a court of full jurisdiction. Another committee hearing will be held in two weeks.

Missing Man Is Found Shot to Death in Prairie

AFL HITS TRUST SUITS AS AID TO CIO BY NEW DEAL

Also to Fight Attempt at Dictatorship.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 5.—The use of the federal courts to harass American Federation of Labor unions thru antitrust law prosecutions was assailed today by the federation executive council. It was called an attempt at government dictatorship over labor and another administration favor to John L. Lewis' C. I. O..

Thurman Arnold.

The council said that it does not condone any wrongdoing by its unions and their officials and that such offenses, when they occur, should be punished by applicable state and federal statutes. But labor and farm organizations are specifically exempted from the provisions of the Sherman antitrust law by one Clayton act, passed in 1914, the council contended.

Indictments on 12 Cases.

In the last few months Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, head of the antitrust division of the department of justice, and his aids have obtained indictments in twelve cases under the Sherman law involving 35 A. F. of L. unions and many of their officers and members.

These unions are in the building trades and the indictments charge conspiracies between unions and employers to establish monopolies and restraint of trade. In Chicago last week the federal grand jury indicted 25 individuals, corporations, and unions in the plywood and cut stone industries. Two weeks before 41 corporations and individuals in the tile business were indicted there.

Among the defendants in the Chicago indictments last week are William J. Hutcheson, first vice president of the A. F. of L., and Patrick F. Sullivan, president of the Chicago Building Trades council.

Hutcheson is head of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and is a determined New Deal foe. He was chairman of the labor platform committee at the Republican convention in 1936.

Cites Apex Hosiery Case.

"It is noteworthy," the federation executive council reported, "that all of the indictments thus far returned have been against A. F. of L. unions. No C. I. O. union has been touched, disturbed, or indicted. During the entire period of sitdown strikes, stay-in strikes, and even the seizure of cities by irresponsible C. I. O. unions under communist control, the department of justice never lifted a finger to intervene."

The council also referred to the Apex Hosiery litigation as another strong case in point of the assistance given the C. I. O. by Arnold and other New Dealers. The C. I. O. union at the plant was found guilty by a jury in federal District court in Philadelphia of violating the antitrust laws. This was a civil suit brought by the company for damages for destruction of its property in a sitdown strike. The verdict, including triple damages allowed under the Sherman law, was for about $700,000.

The Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the finding and the Apex company is now appealing to the United States Supreme court.

LOS ANGELES IS POUNDED BY 20 FOOT WAVES

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 5 [Special].—Hurled shoreward by a vast ground swell the heaviest seas in a quarter century today smashed their 20 foot crests across the strand walk at suburban Redondo beach, undermining homes and apartment houses, caving in street sections, and collapsing small beach shops.

The swirling tide caught up protecting timbers and carried them to sea with the rocks and sand poured into the threatened areas by the city in recent weeks to stave off the rollers.

High tide today was 5.7 feet, but experts said the ground swell, together with freak converging currents, had built up the huge waves. Beach residents and property owners expressed fear that tomorrow's high tides at 7:44 a. m. might cause considerable added damage.

16 SCIENTISTS

Reveal Great Discovery About

CONSTIPATION

Tests at World-Famous Hospital Show How To Help Nature Produce Her Own Gentle, Complete "Daily" Bowel Action!

NEW YORK: Constipation sufferers rejoice! For now violent cathartics and laxatives and harsh "roughage" products, many of which are habit forming and are often irritating to bowel lining—can be avoided.

You can now actually help Nature produce her own gentle, complete "daily" bowel movements—thanks to the patient study of 16 Scientists.

You see if waste matter in the colon isn't kept moist it becomes hard, dry, caked and results in constipation. These scientists discovered that a "little daily dose" of Kruschen actually keeps this waste matter moist, soft and easy to expel. Also acts as a mild antacid and kidney diuretic.

There is no nausea, no griping, no violence with Kruschen. Hospital tests report: "Kruschen can be taken for years without having to increase the dose." Inexpensive! ! Only a trifle for a jar that lasts weeks. Over 245,000,000 jars of Kruschen have been sold thruout the world. Kruschen must do the work!

Now Comes in New Delightful Tasting "Bubbling" Form!

THERE'S a necessary difference between the advertised price of an automobile delivered at the factory, and the price you pay for it delivered here in your home town.

That difference covers a charge for transportation from the factory to you, based on rail rates, and also the dealer's charge for any extra equipment or accessories that you may elect to buy.

That's all there is to the difference. At least, that's all there should be. But sometimes an extra item that you can't quite put your finger on, gets included in that final delivered price.

The trade has a word for this extra item. It calls it a "pack." Usually it's tucked in there to allow for "dickering" with you on the used car you trade in. Sometimes it's simply plus profit.

In the public interest, and to enable you more accurately to judge the values we offer, we General Motors dealers are making the details of pricing unmistakably plain.

On every car on our showroom floors we are displaying the standard GM "plainview" price tag pictured here.

This tag shows you every item that goes into our final delivered prices—and gives you a helpful yardstick for measuring exactly what your money buys alike from us or from others.

Similar information is given you on a wall chart we display, and in an itemized invoice supplied you when you buy.

Come see the splendid new General Motors cars for 1940 that we have now on view. We believe you will agree they are the best-made, best-styled, best-performing cars we've ever sold.

Examine their features. Check their quality, point by point. Then consider the price tag. Thus you appraise for yourself their impressive merit and their outstanding value.

THIS IS THE STANDARD
PLAINVIEW
Consider the price of this car as delivered to you as well as the factory price. All the factors going into the delivered price should be known to you. Public confidence requires the highest standards of honesty in automobile merchandising. So the price of this car as delivered to you includes transportation charges, the cost of optional equipment and accessories that you may elect to have added, and the dealer's charges for any additional service he may render before delivering the car to you.

"PRICE OF CAR" means the price we charge for the car itself including reimbursement for Federal Tax and conditioning—"TRANSPORTATION CHARGE" means a charge for transportation from factory to you, based on rail rates—"OPTIONAL EQUIPMENT AND ACCESSORIES" means the charge for any extra equipment or accessories you elect to buy.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

RULERS OF THE AIR.

Few Americans realize the extent to which business enterprise in this country is checked and handicapped by the burocrats. A good illustration is provided by the effort of the American Export Airlines to obtain permission to start a commercial air line to Europe.

The company appears to be well prepared to go into the business. It has the money and the organization, and it has made arrangements to get equipment at least as good as any now in use in flying the oceans. The company plans nonstop flights to European destinations, carrying passengers, mail, and express, and there is no reason to question its ability to do so. If the venture fails nobody will lose except those who have voluntarily put their money into it. If it succeeds this country and everybody in it will benefit.

And yet the American Export Airlines can't go ahead with its plans until it has obtained the approval of the Civil Aeronautics authority. This agency of the federal government never built a plane, never operated a plane, never carried a passenger or a letter, and has made virtually no contribution to the progress of aviation or the business of commercial flying in this country, and yet it has what amounts to an absolute veto on the plans of those who may have contributions to make.

A case might be made for the regulation of flying in the interest of public safety but that consideration does not enter into this matter. The question which the CAA has been considering for months is whether men who want to spend their own money to start an air line to Europe may do so. It can hardly be argued that there is danger that they will lose their money. Of course there is; but no one, presumably, knows that better than they do, and if they fail the loss will be theirs alone.

Americans have pioneered commercial flying of the oceans but the business is still in its infancy. It is likely to remain there, at least as far as this country is concerned, if men who want to go into the business are subjected to continual interference by burocrats, for they can most convincingly tell themselves and the world what great fellows they are by saying no to better men.

Instead of discouraging enterprise on the part of prospective air line operators, our government ought to be giving them every encouragement. The more companies there are engaging in overseas flying, the better. That way we shall see more rapid advances in equipment and operating methods and a constant pressure to reduce fares. The more narrowly competition is restricted, the less incentive there will be to progress.

Our merchant fleet in the days of sailing ships was the best in the world. Because of the civil war and some other reasons we never achieved anything like the same leadership on the sea again and all the millions which our government has poured into the shipping business in the form of subsidies in the last fifteen or twenty years has gone down a rat hole. Now we have our chance to come back in the air. American airplane designers, engine builders, and operating methods are well in the lead. Capital is eager to take the risk. There is a world of business to be done. The planes can cross the ocean in less than a fifth of the time required by the fastest steamships, and incidentally, almost all of the faster surface ships have been withdrawn from service on account of the war.

Here is the opportunity, but the same government which professes that it wishes to encourage foreign commerce is blocking the attainment. It is intolerable that any group of burocrats should have to be asked for permission to engage in a business which would obviously serve the country's interest.

WAR AND THE TYPISTS.

Because there is a shortage of writing paper in England the order has gone out to typists in government offices to write on both sides of the sheet, narrow the margins, and crowd the lines together as closely as the single-spacer on the typewriter will permit.

This is a horror of war which can be understood and appreciated because it is also an all too frequent horror of peace. The single-spacer is an invention of the devil, and he has many handmaidens. The eyeglass and headache tablet businesses flourish accordingly.

At Christmas time the suggestion was made that Americans throw up the shades and turn on all the lights to celebrate our good fortune in escaping the European blackouts. An even better idea would be to file the single-spacer off every typewriter in the land. A citizen really devoted to peace would require that his letters be triple-spaced. Thus he would serve notice on all his correspondents that it is a fine thing to stay out of war. While Europeans are wearing their eyes out, free Americans could throw away their spectacles and find enjoyment in reading the morning mail.

There are other advantages not to be overlooked. Two pages weigh more than one and Mr. Farley's postal deficit would tend to disappear. Better still, letters might grow shorter. A man whose observations have been crowded on one page can think he was reasonably concise in his dictation. It is not so easy to believe that a two or three page letter was as brief as it might have been.

ONE OUT OF EIGHT IS A PUBLIC PAY ROLLER.

Tom Corcoran, the President's No. 1 adviser, explained the spending theory to his predecessor, Prof. Moley. The idea was to "shovel it out"—it referring to public funds. Corcoran told Amos Pinchot that money should be scattered from airplanes. The President's version, as stated in his budget message last year, was to spend enough to lift the national income to 90 billion dollars a year.

Some consequences of shoveling it out were revealed by the survey of public employment in the United States recently completed by the secretary of the treasury. The secretary reported that he had found that there were 3¾ million persons on federal, state, and local government pay rolls in 1938, and that their pay totaled 5½ billion dollars.

This is an understatement, startling as the figures are. The real story is a lot worse. For Mr. Morgenthau forgot to count in the 3½ millions on the pay rolls of the Public Works administration, the Civilian Conservation corps, the National Youth administration, and WPA. That brings the total on the pay rolls up to 7¼ millions. And even that figure leaves out a good many. It is exclusive of the farmers who received benefit payments, the unemployed who received relief payments, and those confined to institutions. There are 7¼ millions publicly employed beside those on the bounty.

As the total labor force of the country is about 55 millions—it is seen that 1 out of each 8 workers was on some government pay roll. One out of 8 of us is a pay roller. There is scarcely any class among us that is as numerous.

The 7¼ million on public pay rolls in 1938 compare with 2,800,000 who paid a federal income tax. Thus there are 2½ times as many public tax eaters as there are federal income tax payers. A 2½ to 1 or 5 to 2 ratio.

The 7¼ millions on public pay rolls in 1938 compare with 7½ million at work in all the factories of the country as shown by the census of 1935. Thus there was one person feeding at the public crib for every person at work producing goods for all of us to consume. This is a 1 to 1 ratio.

The 7¼ millions on the public pay rolls compare with a little over 7½ million farm homes in the United States as shown by the census of 1935. Thus there is one public employé for every farmer who provides us with grain, meat, fruit, vegetables, and dairy products. Again a 1 to 1 ratio.

All of the 7¼ millions believe that they have a right to continue to be government employés. And why shouldn't they? Mr. Roosevelt has asserted that expenditures were deliberately increased to promote recovery. We have prosperity deficits. It's the means Mr. Roosevelt believes in to get the national income up to 90 billion dollars a year.

And if the head of the central government asserts that more public spending is needed to bring about better times, naturally every state, county, city, township, park district, and school district tries to do its part. And, in fact, most of these subordinate units of government have received federal grants as the inducement to spend more. And so 1 out of 8 of us is a public pay roller.

There used to be a limit to government spending—the amount that could be raised by taxation. That isn't a barrier any more. By the middle of this year Mr. Roosevelt will have collected 36 billion dollars in taxes. The treasury's leading tax adviser, Roswell Magill, recently said that so vast a sum was extracted from the people "by exploiting tax resources as we never have before." But while collecting 36 billions by such means Mr. Roosevelt has spent 60 billions—so that 24 billions of Mr. Roosevelt's represents borrowed money, on which interest is being paid.

One out of 8 of us is a pay roller. But according to Mr. Magill, the government's tax adviser, "we cannot balance the budget at the present scale of expenditures by increasing taxes. The increases would be almost too drastic to be borne."

Does any one who reflects upon these facts have to ask why prosperity does not return?

Editorial of the Day

UNDER TWO FLAGS.

[Washington Post.]

Perhaps it was nothing more than the influence of a full moon, but the world has seemed just a little madder than usual this week. There was the big snowstorm that came up with the wind from Atlanta. There was the California doctor who recommended ardent kissing as a cure for colds. And there was the astonishing reaction of Comrade Louis F. Budenz, special correspondent of the communist Daily Worker, when he saw his flag, complete with hammer and sickle, suddenly unfurled at the golden jubilee celebration of the United Mine Workers in Columbus, O.

Did Comrade Budenz jump to his feet and hail Stalin with right arm extended in the authoritative proletarian salute? He did nothing of the sort. He shuddered with indignation at what he recognized instantly as "a provocateur's crass attempt to disrupt the anniversary ceremonies." The whole incident, he wrote in a seething wire to the Daily Worker, was "a wretched effort to stir up Red baiting and to daub the miners' union from Dies' brush."

Mr. John L. Lewis, more understandable, was of much the same mind. He called it "a most cowardly, reprehensible and dastardly trick." There are no communists in the mine workers' union, he asserted, because its constitution tacitly forbids communists to join. "The United Mine Workers," he declared to the echo of great cheers, "has but one flag; the American flag, the Stars and Stripes!"

After which Comrade Budenz reported with equal indignation to his paper, which every day displays the same hammer and sickle insignia that so enraged him at Columbus.

SHERLOCK AND PINKERTON.

In "221 B: Studies in Sherlock Holmes," by Vincent Starrett et al. [published today], we find, among many other things that will delight all followers of the True Faith, an essay by Christopher Morley entitled "Was Sherlock Holmes an American?" It discusses, in a fanciful and humorous vein, nearly all the points in the Sacred Writings that have an American background.

But Mr. Morley has missed a matter of importance to Conan Doyle researchers. Doubtless he never heard of it, but when his eyes are opened the next meeting of the Baker Street Irregulars, a cult in which he holds the exalted office of Gasogene, will probably hear a learned paper on the subject, "Sherlock Holmes and the Pinkertons." Here are the facts, unknown except to a few old timers in Chicago:

Allan Pinkerton, founder of the famous detective agency, published several books, probably ghost-written. They included "The Molly Maguires and the Detectives" [1877], "The Spy of the Rebellion" [1883], and "Thirty Years a Detective" [1884]. The Pinkerton books were widely read in this country, and undoubtedly reached England. Conan Doyle's start in life as a writer of detective stories is said to have come from a trunkful of American publications—dime novels, paper-backs, and doubtless the Pinkerton books.

Came 1887, and Sherlock Holmes' début in "A Study in Scarlet," which contains a long internal narrative about the Mormon migration to Utah. Allan Pinkerton, who was acquainted with Dr. Doyle, read this story with an interest which became slightly feverish when he discovered that its passages describing the Great American Desert came directly out of the Pinkerton writings, with changes of phrasing that failed to disguise the source.

Then The Eye that Never Slept wrote Dr. Doyle a letter, in a friendly vein, calling his attention to this remarkable case of "unconscious cerebration," as it has been called in court proceedings, by the parallel column method. He hoped that Dr. Doyle would explain it as an accident of hasty authorship, and say, in effect, "Thank you for the dope."

Dr. Doyle never answered that letter.

The late William A. Pinkerton, son of Allan, often told this story. Dr. Doyle's familiarity with the Pinkerton books is also illustrated by "The Valley of Fear," whose Scowrers are plainly the Molly Maguires of the Pennsylvania coal mines, and whose Birdy Edwards, alias John McMurdo, alias John Douglas, was, in real life, James McParlan, a Pinkerton operative.

TREASURES OF THE SNOW.

"Hast thou entered into the treasures of the snow?"
The most delicate craft of the Artist to know?
Then wouldst thou know what the patriarch guessed,
Seeking from God His hid secret to wrest,
That the chambers of snow are the caskets rare,
Of every conceivable crystal born

Hallo ma:

Dollars and cents are Yen and Sen, respectively. So if your bill is $12.55 it will sound like yatt shup yee Yen ung mo ung Sen. Note that mo is applied only when separating the cents. Each dish bears a number which is relayed to the kitchen in singsong manner.

Chicago's 4,000 Chinese come from Canton province and are centered around Wentworth, Archer, and Cermak road. The first word of the store signs is the surname of the owner and the entire firm's name, if translated, would sound most flowery. Chinese writing is being read from the top downward, starting at the right hand side. Each symbol or word consists of 2 to 6 characters and, pity the poor children, there are said to be some 450 different characters that even change their meaning with varying alignment! There are some 24 different dialects in the language.

INVOCATION TO ST. MICHAEL.

St. Michael of the perilous, storm-swept sea,
Champion of the sons of men, arise;
Lift up your sword for free men's destiny,
See where your well-loved shrines in Britain stand;
See where, around them, lies the lovely land—
O, mighty archangel, be swift to save.
Chief of the armies of God, now make them strong,
Strong to maintain their own, to defend the right,
Who fight today to avenge a bitter wrong;
Lead them today in all your shining might.
Your sword smote Lucifer once; in this dread day
Lift it again in freedom's name, we pray.

The Sex Life of Gondolas.

Many years ago when balanced budgets were still in favor it was proposed in the New York City council to buy 50 gondolas for the lagoons of Central park. Arose a councilman and exclaimed in a voice vibrant with concern and brogue:

"But, gentlemen, is it necessary to buy so many gondolas all at once? Can't we start with a pair and raise them ourselves?" Maxellus.

HEALING POWER OF WORMS.

EVERY now and then physicians encounter a wound that just will not heal. Ulcerations at times may prove stubborn. Apparently the processes of destruction are stronger than those of repair. Then it is that the art and science of medicine must come to the rescue.

Altho numerous methods have been devised—most of which are successful—an occasional obstinate lesion will present itself. Confronted with a few cases of this character, W. S. Baer some years ago used what at first appeared to be a loathsome remedy. He applied live maggot [larvae of the blow fly] to foul, oozing areas with astonishing results. Since his original work many a chronic sore has been cured in this way.

Naturally, the query arises, what happens? How can these "soon to be" flies so change the situation as to speed recovery? It was not long before it was discovered that the maggots secreted a substance—called allantoin—which stimulated the formation of new tissue. When the worms were discarded and this chemical employed, much the same outcome was noted. But was this the final answer? It seems scarcely possible to account thus for the improvement because the compound in question was supposed to be harmless and inactive.

Recent experiments have shown that the beneficial element is probably ammonium carbonate or bicarbonate. Now, no one would treat a wound with a solution of ammonia but when combined with an acid, for example—such as carbonic—we have a useful product—one that is manufactured in large quantities by the crawlers aforementioned. This led to the trial of two per cent solution. Gauze packs were moistened thoroly several times daily and placed over the affected parts. The same favorable effects ensued as were observed with allantoin. It seemed to make very little difference whether the carbonate or the bicarbonate were used. Patients complained sometimes of slight stinging sensations which soon disappeared.

In some circumstances a one per cent solution was about as effective as double that strength. This plan has been found helpful in a number of conditions such as osteomyelitis, diabetic and varicose ulcers, abscesses, chronic discharging ears, and lacerations that have become infected.

The case is reported of a 16 year old girl who suffered from a chronic, offensive oozing from the left ear. Two extensive mastoid operations failed to remove all of the putrid exudate. A one per cent solution was then dropped into the canal subsequent to careful cleansing. The potency was increased gradually until four per cent was utilized. Within two months both the discharge and the odor were eliminated.

Another instance is that of an abscess in the abdominal wall following an operation for the removal of the appendix. One per cent ammonium bicarbonate was resorted to and—within 10 days—the broken down surfaces were clean and had begun to mend. In three weeks the wound closed completely and has since remained so.

The suggestion is offered that perhaps with children and for very delicate regions an even higher dilution may be tried—for example, one-half of one per cent. The tissues seem to acquire a tolerance for the drug, however, so that the concentration may be intensified every two or three days.

Apparently this is the principle that is produced when maggots are allowed to feed upon dead and decaying cells. Fortunately, ammonium bicarbonate is cheap and large gauze packs may be soaked with the material freely. The compresses need not be changed frequently altho it may be well to keep them warm. The important point is to see that the parts are bathed with the fluid constantly.

ABDOMINAL MASSAGE.

F. W. P. writes: Most of my life, until middle age, I was troubled with constipation and was forced to use laxatives until I found a simple cure. On retiring each night I massage the right groin for a minute or less. I repeat this procedure upon arising. Since that discovery I have never had to take a pill.

REPLY.

Many have found that massage is helpful, particularly when the large bowel is lazy. The procedure you employ squeezes the lower end of the ascending colon. Vigorous manipulation, however, is not advised. Movements should be gentle.

EYE EXERCISES.

B. H. writes: I have trouble with blurring and burning of the eyes. I took 57 treatments with a machine but they are not improved. Should I continue with them?

REPLY.

In the treatment of visual defects in adults, eye exercises are of little value. You should see a competent ophthalmologist without delay. Sight is too precious to waste with doubtful procedures.

ECZEMA OF HANDS.

C. A. writes: What is the cause of watery pimples appearing on the hands? This occurs only in cold weather. Is there any way in which it can be corrected entirely?

REPLY.

Probably due to sensitivity. Most likely something which you touch or handle. Ringworm or other fungus infection should be considered.

INTERESTING IF TRUE.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Ever since I was a kid I have been hearing about the great opportunities we Americans have in South America. It's about time the public stopped building its hopes on the false rumors.

A month or so ago the head of a big Chicago business declared in a group meeting that South America needed our goods, that American firms needed representatives. I wrote this business leader offering to go south for him supported by 20 years of selling and advertising experience and a knowledge of Spanish. He replied that he was sorry, but he knew of no opening.

I have written to every United States consul in South America and they sent me mimeographed pages warning "not to come to South America;" that the countries are unpopulated to a large extent; that they neither want us nor can use us; that they have little money to buy our goods. In some of the countries they are forbidden to employ us under any circumstances. Living conditions are at a low level and they refuse even to learn from us as teachers, except in extremely rare cases.

Those are the facts. You can write to any United States consul down there for yourself. Let's cut out the day dreaming. Buenos noches to you.

LATIN AT 9.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—I suppose we should feel terribly sorry for the poor freshies who are overburdened with Latin, etc., in their early years of school. But all I can say is that they should thank their lucky stars they are not attending school in Europe.

I attended school in Germany. After three years of grammar school I entered high school at the age of 9. We had Latin that first year, and of course also the following year. By the third year French was added and for the fourth year we had the choice of English or ancient Greek. By that time I was only 13 years old and already taking three languages besides German, which is difficult for even the native students. Yes, we also learned algebra, mathematics, history, and many other subjects at this early age. But, believe me, the student who went thru all nine years of high school knew something besides playing ball.

OTTO KLEIN.

OBSTETRICAL NOTE.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—I agree with Clifton Le Roy about smoking in the obstetrical ward. I was in a ward with seven other women in a well known and well kept hospital and I was surprised and shocked. The first thing every young mother said when she came out of the anesthetic was concerning her cigarets. Instead of asking about their new baby they asked about their cigarets or asked for ash trays. My visitors thought it was terrible when they came to see me because our room was just thick with smoke. These young mothers smoked continuously thru the day. MRS. B. T. W.

FINLAND'S HOUR OF NEED.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Are we who have been so proud of being Americans going to be forced to hide our heads in shame whenever the fate of Finland is mentioned in years to come? Do we no longer, as a nation, have the courage to do what is right even tho it means taking a little risk? The proposed loan for Finland didn't entail any risk, but what if it had? Is that any reason to shirk our duty?

What a spectacle we present to the world! The richest and most powerful nation in the world afraid even to loan money to a tiny one fighting, against overwhelming odds, for its very life. There has been much fine talk of how gloriously we would defend ourselves if we were attacked. I don't believe a word of it. A nation afraid even to loan money to Finland is too yellow to fight even in self-defense.

We ought to have given Finland outright, with no strings attached, all the money she needed to defend herself. The blood of the innocent Finns is on our hands. Morally, we are just as much to blame as the Russians.

MILDRED ESTELLE CARSON.

AMERICA COMES FIRST.

Elmhurst, Ill., Jan. 31.—Charity begins at home. Let those who are raising money for relief in Europe turn their philanthropic ardor and spare cash to relief in Chicago, where the obligation is far greater. Cleaning up our own back yards will do more to keep us out of war than minding other people's business. Such misguided efforts are disloyal and dangerous to this nation's peace.

SUGGESTION FOR THE OPERA.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—In the midst of all this discussion of the Chicago Civic opera and the campaign to raise money to keep it going next fall, has any one suggested hiring the chorus from Bill Robinson's "The Hot Mikado?" A. M.

WHO VOTES THE SALARIES?

Chicago, Jan. 31.—In your editorial about "Those Big Salaries" you overlooked the stockholder or investor. He should be considered first, because were it not for his money or investment, these big corporations would not even exist. Take these big executives out of their surroundings, shrink them to the average individual business man's size and resources, and then see how far their ingenuity and brawn will get them, after being deprived of the millions of dollars of the people's money they are accustomed to working with, and without the hundreds of thousands or millions of dollars for advertising [other people's money, too, of course] at their disposal. A good many of them would be a mighty helpless bunch.

Many of these large corporations pay out those big salaries during years when the investor gets nothing, or at best a measly few per cent. There should be a law guaranteeing an investor a certain minimum return first before those big salaries can be paid out.

YOUNG LADY WITH A GROUCH.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—I don't believe I am vicious when I wish that every one who has not cleaned the snow from his sidewalk will fall into his own slush and dirt, caused by melting snow, and ruin his best clothes. Most of the walks are now clean, but because of one or two in a block we must still wear rubbers or ruin our shoes. This happened to me this morning, so I'm in anything but a charitable mood. DISGUSTED.

BIRDS IN WINTER.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Referring to the letters your subscribers are writing about feeding the birds and watering them on these winter days, I think that if a bird is too lazy to fly south for the winter with the regular birds he deserves to starve or freeze, whichever he prefers.

INTERPRETATION OF WILL.

Chicago, Feb. 1 [Legal Friend of the People].—My sister's will stated that "all American bonds standing in her name at her death" were to go to her three brothers, share and share alike. Everything else that she owned was to go to her three sisters. Since the making of her will she had disposed of the bonds and bought government bonds. The brothers are trying to break the will and say that since the bonds have disappeared they should share equally with the sisters or get the equivalent of the bonds.

1. Can they do this? Also, two of the brothers owe the estate $1,600 and $3,600, respectively. One of the sisters passed away leaving only the two to share. The brothers, of course, would come in for their share of her share.

2. How can we go about collecting what they owe the estate? One brother has nothing and the other has stock amounting to more than he owes.

3. Can the executor sell his stock for the debt? The estate is in Michigan.

1. The question is close enough so that we would not undertake to answer without having the full wording of the will before us. Presumably attorneys will be employed on both sides, and the attorneys so employed will be in a better position to advise them than we are.

2. Their debts owing to the estate can be deducted from the gifts that they claim from the estate, or if the debts exceed the gifts, then the executor could collect by ordinary court proceedings.

3. Yes, by appropriate proceedings.

JOINT OWNERSHIP.

Chicago, Feb. 1 [Legal Friend of the People].—If two parties purchase a property [1] can deed be made in two parts [2] as to read A and wife in joint tenancy and B and wife in joint tenancy?

J. R. H.

1. It is not clear what you mean by this expression. In the early development of our law it was a common practice to tear or irregularly cut agreements down the middle, each party keeping one-half. This was the origin of the word "indenture," but this practice is no longer followed.

2. The wording that you suggest would not be clear as to whether you mean merely four joint tenants or that survivorship shall operate between A and wife as to one-half and between B and wife as to the other one-half, but not between A and B as to the whole. We advise you to employ an attorney.

How Our States Got Their Names

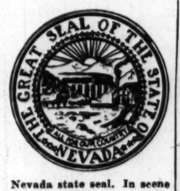
Nevada is a Spanish word meaning snow-covered. Some accounts say the state was named after the Sierra Nevada mountains, which, in turn, were named after a Spanish mountain range. Nevada became a state during the civil war [Oct. 31, 1864] and for that reason sometimes is known as the Battle-born state.



Nevada state seal. In scene are mountains, quartz mill, tunnel into silver mine, miner with carload of ore, plow, sheaf of grain, sickle, railroad train crossing mountain gorge, and rising sun. Around edge are 36 stars and state motto.

Other nicknames include the Mining, Sage, Sagebrush, Sagehen and Silver state. All explain themselves. The Nevada motto is "All for Our Country." The state song is "Home Means Nevada," the flower the sagebrush, and the bird the bluebird. Nevada was settled by the Mormons in 1849.

REVIEWS CHICAGO CHANCES TO GET PLANE FACTORIES

Report Looks for Action After War Boom.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Altho prospects that Chicago can induce the major aircraft or aircraft motor builders to move here at this time are slight, there is no need to despair. Chicago has now and will have in the future increasing opportunities to establish an aeronautical manufacturing industry here commensurate in importance to the opportunities available in this community.

Denis Mulligan.

This is the gist of a report made public last evening by Oscar Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce. It was compiled by Denis Mulligan, former director of the old bureau of air commerce who, as a private consultant, made a national survey last fall to estimate Chicago's chances of stimulating aircraft manufacturing.

Tardy Recognition of Problem.

Speedy results cannot be expected, Mulligan warned, because of Chicago's tardy recognition of the need for industrial planning in connection with the aircraft industry. But sustained application of intelligence, application, and money—with emphasis upon money—inevitably will be followed by a concentration of aircraft manufacturing here.

The poor position of the city in relation to the industry is due to lack of interest. This has been reflected, he charged, in the refusal of Chicagoans to invest funds in local manufacturing concerns. Also it is reflected in poor airport facilities, in a total absence of seaplane bases, in delay in expansion of Chicago airports.

List of Recommendations.

Under a heading of "recommendations," Mulligan suggests:

1. Giving aid and encouragement to the few aircraft units that are now in Chicago area [notably the Howard Aircraft company].
2. That ground work be laid for industrial development among major aircraft manufacturers after the current war boom subsides.
3. That the immediate development efforts be directed toward getting a light plane manufacturer established in this area.
4. That senators and congressmen of this area be urged to greater activity in the cause of air developments for Chicago.
5. That the campaign be continuously publicized, locally and nationally.
6. That areo minded and active people be brought to the city regularly and frequently thru the promotion of fixed events.

Education and Training.

7. That education and training in aeronautics be encouraged and sustained.
8. That eventually there by provided in Chicago a subsection of the airworthiness section of the Civil Aeronautics authority.
9. That new air navigation facilities, structures, and services be provided in the Chicago area not only for scheduled air lines, but for nonscheduled and private flyers.
10. That at least one airport be provided primarily for industrial use as opposed to scheduled air line uses.
11. That another major airport be provided in the Chicago area—preferentially the lake front terminal field at the city's front door.
12. That the expansion of Chicago field be expedited and an adequate terminal building be erected on the enlarged airport.
13. That a seaplane base be provided for the city.
14. And that Chicago strive by every reasonable and possible means to have estbalished in this area the contemplated federal aircraft engine research laboratory of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

Best Course in Long Run.

"If Chicago selects a promising light plane manufacturing leader and induces him to establish in this area, it will serve itself better in the long run than thru almost any other move it might make to further its aircraft manufacturing aspirations," Mulligan's report states.

"Chicago, for the present, is deemed to have small prospect among the major or primary, airplane makers," it continues. "This group is too absorbed in production for the war market to consider moving, and our military organizations would oppose plant dislocations, lest deliveries under the air defense program be delayed.

"Consequently it is believed that it would be better to defer hopes concerning these manufacturers until after the war when a recession probably will ensue and some consolidation among the primary manufacturers will take place. Then, if Chicago has prepared itself, it can make a satisfactory bid."

Mulligan declared that Chicago's admittedly high taxes should not affect aircraft manufacturers because their plants would be outside the city limits where taxes would be lower. And Chicago's weather, he reports, is no handicap to manufacturers.

In investigating reasons why manufacturers have gone to other centers, notably those around Los Angeles and New York, Mulligan reports that most of these were financial. Donald Douglas got financial backing in Los Angeles and other manufacturers followed him there for the same reason.

A few cities have offered manufacturers land grants and tax-free concessions. Chicago is barred by law from following this action but it should not be needed because of the manifest assets in its location as a geographical center of national population, manufacturing, shipping, and labor and power supplies.

Last Friday, in front of 4848 63d street, he struck the rear of a westbound automobile, veered to the left side of the street, and crashed headon into another car, which in turn was deflected into a third.

THIRD OF ILLINOIS DOLE FUNDS USED ON DIRECT RELIEF

Report Shows 1939 Total Was $212,000,000.

One-third of the $212,194,850 spent for public assistance in Illinois during 1939 went for direct relief. This was shown in an annual report issued yesterday by Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. The report was prepared by E. E. Ferrebee, IERC statistician.

Direct relief expenditures—exclusive of funds for WPA, old age assistance, or blind and mothers' pensions—amounted to $67,022,222. This represents an increase of 1.7 per cent, or $1,148,413 over the previous year. In 1938 total expenditures were 7 million dollars higher than in 1937.

State Supplies 72 Per Cent.

Most of the increase in the relief load occurred in the first 11 months of 1939, according to a CRA report issued several days ago. The rise in expenditures in Chicago was nearly 3 million dollars, from $34,657,095 to $37,498,647.

Of the state's total of $67,022,222, 72.2 per cent—$48,388,592—was supplied from state funds, principally sales taxes, $18,589,572, or 27.7 per cent, from local funds, and $44,058, or 0.1 per cent, from federal funds.

The report cites the fact that since the rolls hit the peak in March with 210,321 cases [604,023 persons], the number of reliefers has been diminishing. By December the number was down to 169,216 cases [471,735 persons].

The IERC spent $60,238,956 of its total funds of $67,022,222 for relief grants—ranging from an average of $20.81 per case in July to $26.29 in December. The rest was expended for administrative purposes.

March Is Peak Month.

Regarding the entire public assistance program, the report states that the peak month not only for relief but for all aid was March, when approximately one of every five persons received some form of public aid. In that month, of every 1,000 persons benefited from these programs, 402 were dependent on relief, 496 on WPA, 85 on old age assistance, 12 on mothers' pensions, and 5 on blind pensions.

WPA employment, after the first quarter of 1939, decreased during the next six months. The number of certified workers diminished from 225,000 in March to 125,000 in September. A higher state quota and renewal of various projects brought the employment level to 154,000 by the end of the year. Total earnings during 1939 amounted to $116,433,743.

The average increase for 138,776 recipients of old age assistance during the year was $1.51, with monthly payments averaging $20. Both the mothers' and blind pension payments remained fairly constant thruout the year.

FIND 93 TYPHOID CARRIERS AFTER MANTENO PLAGUE

Ninety-three of the approximately 5,000 patients in the Manteno State hospital are typhoid carriers.

This was announced yesterday by Dr. Walter Baer, acting managing officer of the institution where 53 persons died last year in a typhoid epidemic traced to polluted water. Dr. Baer said the carriers were discovered thru a survey begun while the epidemic was at its peak. The carriers are isolated and will continue to be until it has been determined what steps are necessary to prevent them from spreading typhoid among the other patients. At present there are only four persons ill from typhoid in Manteno, Dr. Baer said.

TAKES RAT POISON AND DIES.

Paul Lasky, 43 years old, 1470 Erie street, died in County hospital yesterday from the effects of rat poison which he swallowed at 1745 Pierce avenue where he had gone to see his estranged wife.

MERRY FAHRNEY WINS A DIVORCE FROM 4TH MATE

New York, Feb. 5 (AP).—Merry Fahrney, patent medicine heiress, won a divorce today from her fourth husband, Count Oleg Cassini. Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy dismissed as unworthy of belief defense testimony that she had been guilty of misconduct with two men.

Merry accused the count of intimacy with a showgirl. Witnesses testified that she and her first husband, Hugh Parker Pickering, watched the two in the count's hotel, thru a peep hole.

A Filipino cook formerly employed in Merry's household testified she had shared her attentions with other men. The count listed six men—most of them by initials—in his answer to her complaint.

NEW STREAMLINE ARMY TECHNIQUE TRIED IN GEORGIA

War Games Held Near Infantry School.

Fort Benning, Ga., Feb. 5 (AP).—They've streamlined about everything except the human element in the modernized United States army. The mobility and fighting power of Private Joe Doakes has been multiplied by mechanization. Simplification of organizations, revamped drills, and new style uniforms permit shorter training periods for recruits.

That is proved in winter maneuvers under way at the 97,000 acre infantry school reservation here and some 250 square miles of adjacent timber, cotton and pasture lands upon which the army has obtained trespass rights.

Still Depend on Man.

How does the soldier of 1940 compare with the soldier of 1918? Officers report it depends upon the man.

The 70 pound pack under which the doughboy marched in France is lightened now and is carried aboard a truck. The marching infantryman of 1940 has the advantage of arriving on the job fresher. His hiking time remains unchanged—two and a half miles an hour.

Technical experts create illusions to give effects of wartime conditions to the war games which involve forces of more than 16,000 officers and men—the regular command of the infantry school, the army's first division, concentrated here from northeastern forts.

Shellfire Substitute Used.

Buried packages of TNT make a noisy but harmless substitute for shellfire and land mines in cases where the real articles would endanger troops or vehicles.

The first division, made up largely of men from New York and New England states, won a referees' decision over regular infantry school units, recruited largely in the cotton belt, in the major activity of last week—48 hours of blue vs. red field work.

Observers decided the numerically superior first division, the blues, led by Brig. Gen. Karl Truesdell, had a shade the best of a battle at Upatoie creek against the reds, commanded by Brig. Gen. Bruce Magrudy, who were seeking to atack Columbus, Ga.

WAUKEGAN FIRES SPUR NEW HUNT FOR PYROMANIAC

Four incendiary fires in the same apartment building in less than 24 hours spurred the search for Waukegan's phantom firebug yesterday. The incendiary set his fifteenth fire last Sunday. It caused $1,500 damage to the Agudas Achim Jewish orthodox synagogue and raised the fire losses attributed to him to $46,500.

The latest fires were in a seven apartment building at 932 Prescott avenue, Waukegan. They were reported at 10:10 and 11:28 p. m. Sunday, and 5:49 and 7:03 p. m. yesterday. Damage was negligible in each case, as the fire department arrived before the flames had gained headway.

Chief Adolph Francke of the fire department said the apartment building fires, all started in the basement, might have been the work of small boys as they were less carefully planned than those caused by the firebug blamed for the others.

SUES CITY OVER SON'S DEATH.

Raymond Purcell, 7531 Coles avenue, filed suit in the Superior court yesterday for $10,000 damages from the city for the death of his son, James, 16 years old, who was drowned last fall when he stepped into a six foot hole in the 75th street beach.

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and "cure" it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such a one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal, Kellogg's All-Bran. Eat it often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

MEAT DRIVER ROBBED.

Martin Bertman, 3500 Palmer street, driver for a meat packing concern, was robbed of $120 yesterday by two bandits who stopped him at 60th and Morgan streets.

STAGE AND FILM STARS WILL ACT IN W-G-N COMEDY

Talbot, Dinehart, Glenda Farrell in Roles.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A trio of Hollywood regulars—Glenda Farrell, Alan Dinehart, and Lyle Talbot—are to contribute their talents to the presentation of "I Do Not Choose to Run," a satire on municipal politics, on the Fifth Row Center program over W-G-N and the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system at 5 p. m. next Sunday.

Lyle Talbot [top] and Alan Dinehart.

These three movie and stage stars are in Chicago headlining the farce comedy, "Thanks for My Wife," at the Selwyn theater. Dinehart is co-author of the production, which had its premiere in Hollywood [instead of on Broadway as is the usual procedure] and is moving toward New York by way of Minneapolis, Milwaukee, and Chicago.

Written by Staff Member.

"I Do Not Choose to Run" was written by Blair Walliser of the W-G-N staff. He will also produce the comedy. Dinehart is to portray the rôle of an attorney, Miss Farrell the daughter of a city council leader, and Talbot a young man who is running for mayor against his will.

Dinehart played in approximately 50 rôles on Broadway before Hollywood lured him west. He has been featured in numerous pictures.

Miss Farrell has been identified with the stage since she was 7. The first part she tackled was that of Little Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Her stage plays include "Divided Honors," "Love, Honor and Betray," and "Life Begins."

Known for Heavy Rôles.

Talbot is known for his heavy rôles in the movies, but in "Thanks for My Wife" he returns to the realm of light comedy.

Fifth Row Center, aired from 5 to 5:30 p. m. Sundays, features one or more headliners of the stage and screen each week. This series is one of W-G-N's innovations of 1940 in which the best entertainment figures are being brought listeners.

The musical backdrop for "I Do Not Choose to Run" will be provided by Harold Stokes and the W-G-N orchestra.

MRS. WITTENBERG DIES AT 104 YEARS; SERVICES TODAY

Services for Mrs. Katie Wittenberg will be held today at 1 p. m. in the chapel at 5145 Broadway. Mrs. Wittenberg died Sunday at the age of 104 in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harris Bisco, at 511 Brompton avenue.

She and her husband, Levi Wittenberg, now dead, were among the earliest Jewish settlers in Chicago, and her husband was one of the first matzos bakers in the middle west.

Mrs. Wittenberg was born in Lodz, Poland, in 1836. She came to New York with her husband in 1852, and a few years later they came to Chicago. Mrs. Wittenberg's home for 45 years was at the corner of Canal and Liberty streets. She leaves four children, Mrs. Bisco, Harry, Moe, and Al Wittenberg, all of Chicago. Burial will be in Kovner Waldheim cemetery.

Ambler, Pa., Feb. 5 (AP).—The late J. Harvey Gravell, paint manufacturer whose generous gifts to employés at various Christmas times earned him the sobriquet "Santa Claus of Ambler," left the bulk of a $3,000,000 estate to 24 key employés.

Gravell, president of the American Chemical Paint company, with plants here and at New Castle, Detroit, and Toronto, Canada, died Dec. 8 at the age of 68. Three years ago at Christmas he won national acclaim by paying off $100,000 in personal debts of employés.

He directed the stock of his business be placed in trust for the 24 employés for 10 years. After that they will own the stock outright.

OAK FOREST OPEN SEWERS CALLED LOCAL PROBLEM

The state is powerless to remedy a situation which, Cook county authorities contend, endangers the 3,847 inmates of the Oak Forest infirmary, it was said yesterday by C. W. Klassen, chief engineer of the state department of public health and secretary of the sanitary water board. Chicago sanitary district officials also disclaimed jurisdiction.

West of the infirmary is the unincorporated community of Oak Forest, where sewage runs in open ditches only 20 feet from some of the wells which furnish drinking water. Frank Venecek, superintendent of the infirmary, fears that the wells will become polluted.

"The 'home rule' features of the law prevent us from acting," Klassen said. "The state must keep its hands off unless an epidemic breaks out. It is a problem for local authorities."

Otto C. Ziegell, Bremen township supervisor, said he plans to seek the aid of the state department of public works to build a sewage treatment works. If the request is turned down, the area may have to incorporate and assess property owners for improvements, he said.

PROTEST VOTE AGAINST C. I. O. AT WILSON & CO.

A protest against the recent election in which employés of Wilson & Co., packers, refused to vote their collective bargaining rights to a union affiliated with the Congress of Industrial Organizations, was filed yesterday by Arthur Kampfert, national director of the Packinghouse Workers' Organizing committee.

In a petition filed with G. L. Patterson, regional director for the National Labor Relations board, who supervised the election, Kampfert charged that many of the workers voted against the C. I. O. union under pressure of coercion and intimidation. The pressure, he charged, was brought by "supervisory employés" at the plant.

The P. W. O. C. was the C. I. O. affiliate union. Of 3,640 voting employés, 1,890 voted against giving collective bargaining rights to this union and favored an independent bargaining agent. Another 135 opposed any union. About 70 ballots were rejected in the count.

The 1939 quadrennial assessed value of the railroads' noncarrier real estate in Cook county totals $9,744,802, an increase of 11.5 per cent over the 1938 valuation, Assessor John S. Clark announced yesterday. Noncarrier real estate is property owned by the railroads but leased for other purposes such as filling stations and lumber yards.

For 1938 the total valuation of such property was $8,737,508 and in 1935, the year of the preceding quadrennial assessment, the total was $8,529,204. All other railroad properties are assessed by the state tax commission.

Of the 1939 valuation, $8,420,999 of the property was within the city and the remaining $1,323,803 was in country townships. The assessed values announced by the assessor and used by the county clerk to figure tax rates are equal to 37 per cent of full values.

SLUSH FUND QUIZ TO OPEN TODAY IN WILL COUNTY

The Will county grand jury is expected to meet today to consider evidence regarding Democratic political collections of 2 per cent of salaries of state civil service employés. Former guards of the two state prisons in the county have told Investigator John Kirincic of State's Attorney James E. Burke's office that civil service standing was not considered in the solicitation. The grand jury had been scheduled to hear the first witnesses yesterday but was advised that some of them could not appear until today.

Report Is Due Today on Transit Unification

The legal subcommittee which has been drafting sections of the proposed unifield traction ordinance will report today to the committee on local transportation, Ald. James R. Quinn [50th] chairman, announced yesterday. The meeting will be attended by representatives of the transit lines, Quinn said. The lines and the city last month agreed jointly to have sections drawn calling for the creation of a unified transit company, which will start business at present rates of fare and will spend its available cash for modernization.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

The Passing Show

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 5.—Thru sleep blurred eyes I'd crawled up the wet hills to the ledge of rock and sand high above Sunset boulevard on which Richard Greene keeps bachelor house.

"I had a dream last night that the house was washed away," said Greene, morbidly.

"Perhaps," I said cautiously, "we might leave the door open just in case your dream comes true."

"How did you select a spot this high up?" I asked him. "Is there some mountain goat blood in your family?"

"I picked this house," he said with great deliberation, "because from it, on a clear day, you can't see Catalina. In fact, you can hardly see a clear day." . . . I knew then that I was talking to a man of character and integrity.

Formula of most Hollywood success stories is standard . . . A search for work, rejections, disappointments, hunger, humiliation—and then, boff, success . . . Greene's story differs only in that it had England as a locale . . . In his case it was a substitution of London for New York, Liverpool for Boston, the casting offices at Denham instead of Hollywood.

The exception in his case was his London experience with a little man, a Fritz Feld type of go-getter, who spotted Greene in a crowd of extras and offered him a contract as juvenile lead in his picture company.

Greene was delighted, naturally, and accompanied the little man to a suite of offices where contracts were drawn up and entered into. . . . After about the second week of visiting the office Greene suggested that it was high time to get to the studio and start the picture which they had agreed upon.

"Studio?" said the little man, "I've got no studio. I haven't even got a camera. As soon as I raise the money I propose to get them and then we will start the picture." . . . Next day Greene was back at the casting offices looking for work.

Good Morning!

Do you remember—or, I guess I SHOULD say—can you ever forget Robert Montgomery in "Night Must Fall?" Well, in "Earl of Chicago" he has another rôle that brings your attention up with a jerk, holds it taut and sends you from the theater feeling certain that you've just witnessed a performance that most certainly ought to be considered for an academy award.

A strange, engrossing and peculiarly disturbing picture, "The Earl of Chicago," with much more to it than appears on the surface.

Casually speaking, the plot concerns the adventures of a young man, prominent in American racketeering circles, who is suddenly revealed as the offspring of a black sheep English lord and heir to a vast estate in Britain, whither he must journey to establish his standing. . . . With him goes his attorney, "Doc" Ramsey, whom "Silky" Kilmount believes to be the one honest man he knows.

There's your surface setup—which really gives you no inkling of the true situation.

From the moment your eyes rest on the profile of "Silky," as seen thru an automobile window, you are conscious of something sinister and tragic. . . . He waits outside penitentiary gates for an "honest" lawyer he had framed [the "Doc"] but for whom he has retained an immense respect and who, in future, he means to have always with him, because he can trust him.

Ramsey emerges, sees "Silky" and bitterly and contemptuously tries to avoid him. . . . Suddenly—he changes his mind—and ACCEPTS the position offered him of personal attorney to the brittle, savage young racketeer with the dry, mirthless laugh; with the eternal suspicious, tortured, questing look in his cold eyes; with his birthright of gentle blood and his background of infamy—and cruelty. For, you learn, as a child, "Silky" had been cuffed around an orphanage and had once been subjected to an experience that had affected him after the manner of shell shock and induced in him a terror of firearms that was to haunt his life and influence his destiny.

With the man he trusts so completely, "Silky" enters his new world—confounded—utterly at sea; having not the slightest conception as to how his unfamiliar obligations should be met. . . . Ramsey, ostensibly providing a strong arm to lean on, quietly guides his employer's steps to the pitfall he has prepared for him.

Only Munsey, the butler, who has served the lords of Gorley for three generations, senses pitifully the predicament of the ignorant youth. . . . Thru his understanding and guidance, a lonely soul that has been traveling the wastelands of the world, at last finds his rightful niche in the company of peers.

The outcome is unexpected, dramatic, and deeply moving. . . . Men and women alike were wiping their eyes as we left the theater the other night.

Strongly flanking Mr. Montgomery's arresting characterization are those of Edward Arnold as Ramsey and Edmund Gwenn as the butler. . . . Starry bits are contributed by Reginald Owen, Ronald Sinclair, and Billy Bevan.

The habit of giving oneself a home beauty treatment regularly each day has direct and indirect benefits. The half hour of relaxation from ordinary duties rests tired nerves, and muscles and complexion, hair and hands profit from the regular attention.

The more we see of this business of pursuing good looks the more we realize that fatigue and taut nerves are the greatest stumbling blocks to the average woman.

In addition to learning how to organize her time, every woman ought to give at least 20 minutes out of her day to a leisurely beauty treatment. Especially if she works at high speed all day and goes out frequently in the evening. Before setting out on her engagement she should relax for 20 minutes and in that time go thru the soothing motions of creaming her face and neck, repairing her nail polish and giving her tired eyes a soothing bath. She'll be a better looking companion and, having turned off her mind for a brief respite from work and worry, a more charming one.

Even if the modern beauty masks had no direct beautifying value they'd have an indirect one. There's just something about applying a mask and waiting for it to set that is soothing.

Get the mask habit if nerves are your problem. With the habit of using one will come the habit of relaxing.

Ex-Chicagoan Leads Premiere of Own Work

BY CECIL SMITH.

Ernst Bacon, a native Chicagoan now serving as dean of the music school of Converse college, Spartanburg, S. C., returned to this city to conduct the Illinois Symphony orchestra. The Studebaker theater, which now houses the orchestra's concerts while the Blackstone is being refreshed for the advent of "Life with Father," was partly filled by a modest group of listeners who had resisted the powerful attraction of the Horowitz recital.

In addition to standard items by Mozart, Moussorgsky and Liszt, Mr. Bacon directed the world premiere of his Second symphony and the accompaniments to five of his own songs, sung by Winfred Stracke, baritone. The symphony, beyond all doubt, is a work of serious intention, but it is not interesting. Frowning upon what he terms the "intellectual fashion parade" of such modern devices as atonality and varied rhythmic meter, Mr. Bacon fails to establish that the conventional ideas he sets forth offer any persuasive substitute.

In his reiteration of rigid metrical figures he achieves monotony instead of the cumulative force he apparently hoped for. He does not seem to have the gift of creating first and second themes that have any dynamic relation to each other, so that each movement becomes an arbitrary structure without inner unity. Even tho the judgment sounds harsh, I must admit that Mr. Bacon has not found out what a symphony is.

Horowitz Wins Applause of a Capacity House

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Vladimir Horowitz, completely recovered, seemingly, from the illness that kept him away from America from 1935 to the present season, returned to Orchestra hall last night to face an audience which filled every seat in the house and about 150 places on the stage. An evening of superb piano playing was punctuated by wave after wave of rapid fire applause.

Mr. Horowitz tossed off a Mendelssohn prelude and fugue as curtain raisers, then got down to the first big business of the evening—the Schumann fantasy.

Nearly all of the Horowitz characteristics were apparent in the piece's very first movement. The passionate principal theme had volcanic energy. The legendlike interlude was glorified by a celestial beauty of tone and by the kind of flexibility that denotes intensely living, rather than cunningly calculated music.

The rapturous march melody of the middle movement became overwhelmingly beautiful under the Horowitz hands. There was an iron drive to its rhythms, a brave clang to its true colorings. One of the evening's most effective moments came when the sweep of this melody was stayed to permit the entrance of the ingratiating second subject.

For here the iron grip was suddenly relaxed, the massive style subsided into something intimate and personal, the thundering became a quiet singing. That Horowitz is great in both of these departments of his art is probably the principal reason for his immense vogue.

The preintermission part of the evening came to an end with the supernaturally difficult Schumann toccata, tossed off as if it were the same composer's "Happy Farmer." The recital's second half consisted of the Chopin barcarolle and four of his études, four Debussy études, Horowitz's own "Carmen" variations, and a group of encores which included two mazurkas and a waltz of Chopin and the "Feux Follets" of Liszt.

Among the Chopin was the so-called "cello étude." The somber splendor of tone which went into the singing of the left hand melody and the delicate rubato which kept the piece alive and personal from first note to last made the performance of this particular piece one of the high points of a high old evening.

The "Carmen" variations, a tour de force which compels the piano to do things and to emit sounds which nature never intended, and which one would say offhand are impossible, was as stunning an example of bravura playing as this season or any other in near prospect is likely to supply. Mr. Horowitz has revised this piece since he last played it here—doubtless with a view to making the impossible just a wee bit harder.

An 8 year old child was taken to the Chicago Art institute by her grandmother while the exhibit of Italian masters was being shown. The child seemed to have acquired a great reverence for the Italian paintings and lingered there for some time, but her grandmother, who prefers the modern masters, thought she ought to be taken in to see some of them, too. After the little girl had inspected a roomful or two of them her grandmother asked her opinion.

"Well," the child said reflectively, "it doesn't seem to me they have much pride in their work."

BY JUDITH CASS.

MEMBERS of the Casino received invitations yesterday to a gay party that will dispel the midwinter doldrums for those who have not gone away. It will be a dinner on Feb. 23, followed by theatricals.

Having read dozens of plays that would be snappy enough to amuse a sophisticated audience but not too difficult for amateur actors to give, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham and her entertainment committee came to the conclusion that they would do better to give several short plays as the after dinner entertainment.

There's no doubt that these short and varied playlets will be as amusing and original as can be with the Winterbothams, the John C. Murphys, the John L. Cochrans, and the Ambrose Cramers among those in the casts. They and the other Casino club players, including Mrs. Ballard Moore, Miss Sarah Hinde, Walter Frazier, and Parker Cushman, will have to meet for at least four or five rehearsals before the 23d.

The performance will be given on a stage that will be erected at one end of the ballroom. Dinner will be served at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Winterbotham hopes to have the Casino octet take part, too. Among the men in the octet are Arthur Meeker, Charles Y. Freeman, Barrett Wendell Jr., Mr. Winterbotham, and Edward Harris Brewer.

Lake Shore A. C. to Start Palm Beach Nights.

What on Tuesdays is a simple swimming pool at the Lake Shore Athletic club, on Wednesdays will be a moonlit, palm inclosed, tropical haven. Tomorrow evening the club will start its 4th annual series of "Palm Beach Night" parties, which will run thru March 13.

Among those who have made reservations for the opening are Edward Wilde, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Thomasson III., Mr. and Mrs. Peter Prindiville, Julian Armstrong Jr., Miss Helen Mary Bryan, Miss Karen Gardner, Edwin Hulbert, Miss Virginia Lewis, and Arthur Bamford. Mr. Armstrong also will take part in an invitation 50 yard dash that will be a part of the after dinner aquatic exhibitions. A water ballet and synchronized swimming will be other features of the entertainment.

An exhibition of the work of members of the Needlework and Textile guild of the Art institute will be shown at the club today. Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr. will speak on the aim of the guild to preserve the high standards of patterns and material in amateur embroidery. Today is ladies' day at the Lake Shore.

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr., Mrs. Walter Carr, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham, and Mrs. John Adams are among those who have made reservations for a luncheon the Fashion Group is is giving at 12:30 o'clock today at the Arts club. Mainbocher, the famous dress designer, is

The Girl in the Shadows

By Roy Vickers

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage, Cynthia is wrongly sentenced to prison, the scapegoat of Rory Clarke. At Honebyker, Cynthia's childhood playmate, Bessie Stockley, is a prison wardress. The two girls change places—and in two weeks of freedom Cynthia marries Michael Alloway without telling him of her disgrace. After the honeymoon Cynthia persuades Michael to go back to his job in Malta without her and she returns to prison. There she discovers she is going to have a baby. Cynthia breaks prison. Explaining her disappearance as a lapse of memory, Cynthia goes to stay with Michael's mother and sister, Marion, at Cloutleigh. Rory Clarke trails her there and blackmails her. Scotland Yard connects Cynthia with Rory Clarke. Detective Stevens seeks to interview Cynthia and arouses Marion's suspicions. Cynthia attempts to fly to Malta to join Michael, but is arrested at the airport. Her marriage on a date when she was supposed to be in prison clears her, the Detective Inspector Rason still works on the case. Cynthia goes to Malta. While Bessie is applying for a job from Marion, Detective Stevens calls. He makes a date with Bessie. Realizing Stevens is close to the truth Bessie sends a telegram of warning to Cynthia.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

THE HONOR OF THE FAMILY.

They returned to Cloutleigh after the "big film" was over, for Bessie said frankly that she was sleepy. By 11 she was back in the Bodge cottage and Stevens was entering the Lorna Doone. The landlord met him with the information that "the gentleman you rang up from Taunton wants to speak to you, please."

Stevens duly wedged himself into the disused pantry that served the inn as a telephone box.

"That you, Stevens? . . . Yes. Well, we've certainly got something off that paper. Better take it down. Don't repeat it. Ready? . . . 'PRIVATE. Wardress at Honebyker and Aylesbury Prisons until Clara Brown escaped. Then resigned.' . . . What did you say?"

Stevens had said nothing. But his sigh had been very near a groan. Unspoiled by town life indeed! A prison wardress! . . . But Rason was demanding his full attention.

"I'll have her record looked up tomorrow. Give me as full a report on her as you can from your end, and as soon as possible."

"Yes, sir. I'll get onto it at once."

"Wait a minute, something else has just come in. . . . Ah, that's lucky! It's the phone call about Clarke that you were expecting. A call has just come from a box called Cloutleigh Cross. A woman's voice, nervous, but quite clear. Refused her name. Her message runs—'I think the police should know that the wanted gunman Rory Clarke will be at the Taunton station buffet at 12 o'clock tomorrow morning.'"

"Fine, sir!" Stevens' enthusiasm was returning. "Just what I hoped for. By the way, can you conveniently tell me where Cloutleigh Cross is in relation to this village? I'd rather not ask any one here."

Ten minutes later Stevens was out in the chilly autumn night again. Cloutleigh Cross, he had learned, was up on the moor; very roughly, between the manor—marked on Rason's map—and the sea. Stevens stood for a moment, taking his bearings, and then struck up the lane in which he had met Bessie that afternoon.

As soon as possible he pore to the right, skirted the manor and came out upon a moorland road which he judged led in a seaward direction. Rason had put the distance between the manor and Cloutleigh Cross box at about four miles.

"Give her three-quarters of an hour," muttered the detective, ensconcing himself behind a hillock and preparing for a long, cold wait.

His luck was in. He had only been there half an hour when, without any sound of footsteps, a woman's figure came into view. It was a moment before he realized that she had come a shorter way over the heather. As a result, she was approaching him from a different angle and, unable to move, he wondered whether he would get a near enough glimpse to recognize her by.

But as she passed, as tho in obedience to his command, she suddenly flung back her head and looked up at the stars. Their light fell clearly upon her face and Stevens' expectation was confirmed. She was Marion Alloway.

Marion Alloway, who usually slept the sleep of the just, was now to spend the worst and most wakeful night of her life. Every thought seemed to weave separate tracks of fire thru her brain. Every impulse to stay and fight battled with a counter-impulse to take her mother away. Where, she couldn't imagine. Anywhere, so long as they never saw Cynthia or Clarke or Bessie Stockley again.

And then would come the question: What of Michael? What of the Alloway honor and the child that was to bear the Alloway name?

Cynthia was Clara Brown. Cynthia was an escaped convict. Why she had been convicted Marion didn't trouble to recall, tho she had read the account of the trial at the time. It was some sordid mixup with Rory Clarke, who had not yet been caught.

It was strange how all this had flashed upon her in the moment when Bessie Stockley had handed her that brief but sinister statement. Marion could only suppose that ever since the wedding, one doubt after the other had built itself up in her mind; and then, as her eyes fell on the words—"Wardress—Clara Brown—Escaped" all obscurity had been swept away like mist in the wind and the doubts revealed themselves firm and solid, based on an intuition as positive as proof. Of course! Of course! Rory Clarke was Stainham and he was blackmailing Cynthia, who had tried and failed to get him arrested.

So far had she arranged her convictions when the most terrible thing of all happened. The phone summoned her and she found herself talking—as she believed—to Rory Clarke.

Her decision to inform against him had not been hurriedly made. But she had come to it in the end, and walked across the moor in grim determination to end the menace of Clarke at last, once and for all.

Next morning, Marion and Mrs. Alloway had matters of great importance to discuss. Marion broached the subject of Bessie and her possible usefulness in the little household. And Mrs. Alloway had had a letter from Cynthia written during the short interval in Paris.

"We had a frightfully dramatic contretemps at Croydon. Just as we were going to get into our plane, a detective arrested me! It appears that I'm the living image of the escaped convict, Clara Brown. Sir William was marvelous. Apparently this woman was in prison while Michael and I were actually being married, so no amount of likeness or even finger-prints counted at all. But Sir William will tell you all about it."

Marion strangled something between a sob and a laugh. How clever Cynthia was—how clever!

"I don't think it's funny, dear," reproved Mrs. Alloway mildly. "Just when she ought to be spared all nervous shocks, too. It must have been a very disturbing ordeal, altho she makes light of it. However, Sir William will come and give us full details on his return, I don't doubt. It's a mercy he was with her."

"Well, if I like her it would be a good idea. I've long felt you are too much tied to me. Do you think I shall like her, dear"?

"Yes," admitted Marion, with heaven knew what reluctance. "I think you will. She's intelligent and sensible and looks good-tempered."

"And dear Cynthia recommends her," added Mrs. Alloway. "Yes, send for her to come and see me."

Marion, however, did not send—she went in person.

"My mother would like to see you," she said in her authoritative way. "If you please her, it seems probable that you can begin your duties on Monday. I'll wait for you," she added, "and take you part of the way."

Bessie returned to make herself ready, and presently they set out for Manor Lane. Halfway up it an old farm track branched up to the moor.

"Just come up on the moor with me for a few minutes," said Marion, breaking her silence.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Nick Gets Ideas the Hard Way

Find 15 Million Young Folk Lack Church Training

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

How to get religious education to all American children is the basic problem vexing the country's Protestant educational experts who began a week's meeting yesterday at the Stevens hotel under the banner of the International Council of Religious Education.

It was announced yesterday that in excess of 15 million young folk of the main Sunday school age bracket will not even get a smattering of religious training—and this in a day when religion and its effects were cited as forming the hot spots in conflicts raging thruout the world. In addition to the entirely neglected 15 million, other millions of youngsters were discussed whose religious culture was described as inadequate.

Among first in the sessions to point to a leading defect in the country's religious setup was Elsie Miller of Wichita, Kas., who read a report of the committee on relationships of church, home, and school that she heads, which lays the blame on ecclesiastical suspicions and enmities.

"Coöperation of the churches with each other must be more vital and more general before we can speak of any organization as 'the church,'" the report asserted. "Churches now have many voices and conflicting actions. As long as churches are suspicious or jealous of each other, coöperation is hindered from within the church itself, however much other agencies may wish to coöperate with it."

The churches must, the report said, learn to think of an inclusive religious education program that puts life above institutions.

The success of weekday and daily vacation religious education programs of Oak Park and River Forest were cited by Winnie Plummer, of St. Paul, Minn., who recently made a survey of religious instruction in many cities. The two Chicago suburbs were reported as developing a noticeable tolerance toward other creeds and races after the establishment of coöperative weekday Christian training.

Dr. Allison Ray Heaps of Springfield, Mass., showed films of Biblical drama which, he explained, awakened new interest in Bible study. In his weekday classes youths, he said, ask for more time for Bible study and discussion as a result of the use of sound films and stereopticon slides.

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

One might think that lemon pies are difficult to make, or that good recipes for them are scarce, for a lemon pie which meets all of the tests of a good lemon pie seldom is encountered. Perhaps the filling has a starchy taste; perhaps it hasn't enough lemon flavor; or maybe the meringue is watery or the crust none too tender. These faults appear too frequently, one must admit.

A lemon cream pie contains eggs and milk. It has a creamy look, not the transparency characteristic of a lemon pie made with water. You may prefer one or the other filling, but there are precautions to take with both. Most important of these is to cook the filling sufficiently. Undercooked cornstarch filling of any kind has a starchy taste which masks the true flavor of the filling. Cornstarch fillings aren't cooked by the time they are thick. After they have become thick there should be 20 minutes more over boiling water, with an occasional stirring to keep the mixture smooth.

After eggs have been added to the filling cooking should not continue for longer than two or three minutes.

Lemon Cream Pie.

1 cup sugar
⅓ cup cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups hot milk
4 eggs, separated
½ cup lemon juice
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons butter
8 tablespoons sugar for meringue
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Blend sugar, cornstarch, and salt. Add hot milk gradually, stirring to keep mixture smooth. Cook until thickened, then for 20 minutes longer in the top of a double boiler, stirring frequently until filling is very thick. Beat egg yolks and stir a little of the hot mixture into them vigorously. Return to double boiler and cook for 2 minutes longer, stirring constantly. Remove filling from heat and add lemon juice, rind, and butter. Beat until smooth. Cool and fill a cooled, baked pie shell. Cover with meringue made by beating the 4 egg whites until stiff with salt and lemon juice, and gradually beating in the 8 tablespoons [½ cup] of sugar, thus making a stiff meringue. Brown the meringue in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 12 minutes.

Neat and Tailored Apron

WOMAN'S AND MISS' APRON.

Complete dress coverage, except for sleeves, of course, is afforded by this neat and tailored apron. The neckline is round, the underarms deep for maximum comfort. The model ties in the back after the belt is slipped thru notches in the front. The sketch at the left illustrates how simple this apron is to make. Both plain and printed cottons make up well, and the trimming need be only ready-made and easy to use rickrack braid or bias binding. Since only the most inexpensive of materials need be used, we suggest that your budget will smile over several aprons made from this pattern.

Style No. 3136 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. The medium size requires 2⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with 5 yards of binding.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

"That certainly was a lucky finesse!" the kibitzer said enviously, probably thinking of his own bad record in the finessing department.

The expert who had played the hand smiled graciously and said nothing, but his discomfited opponents knew very well that luck hadn't entered into the matter. When the crucial moment had arrived, declarer had reconstructed the hands from the bidding and from the play up to that point. Then everything was clear to him, even tho it looked like guesswork to the beginner who had watched it all.

Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	Double	4 hearts	5 clubs
Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the ace of hearts and, on seeing the dummy, speedily cashed the ace of spades. He continued with a low spade for lack of anything better to do. Declarer won with the king and drew four rounds of trumps. The queen and jack of spades were then cashed, declarer discarding a diamond on the last spade.

At this point declarer halted to make a decision on the play of the diamond suit. East had followed to four rounds of clubs and only two rounds of spades. He was marked as having started with at least five, and possibly six, hearts. It was essential that declarer determine which, since if he had started with five hearts he would have two diamonds, in which case no finesse would be necessary, and if he had started with six hearts he could have had only one diamond, in which case a finesse would be necessary unless his singleton were the queen.

Since it was impossible for declarer to count out the heart suit, he had to fall back on the clues given by the bidding. He first assumed that East had raised to four hearts with only a five card heart suit. In that case, the strongest hand he could possibly have held would be something like ♠ 8 4 ♥ Q J 9 8 6 ♦ Q 5 ♣ 10 9 7 3

This would have been a horrible triple raise, especially when vulnerable. Clearly, the triple raise could not have been based on high card strength, and must, therefore, have been based on ability to ruff diamonds.

Declarer, therefore, led a low diamond to the ace and finessed the jack of diamonds, thus making his contract.

What to Do for a Discontented Five Year Old

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The discontented little girl appears ever so often in my mail. She may be 4 or 5, and I'm sorry for her, for surely this is the age when life should be for her a whirl of happiness. A typical case, if there can be such a thing, sounds like this:

"Jane is so hard to please. She wants everything she sees. We buy her all we can, and what we can't, her adoring grandparents do. And what a list! These things only make her happy for a short time. Denied anything she will howl. I won't give in, but grandma and grandpa will. Her father is like her in being discontented. Can you help me?"

I hope I can.

The difficulty may be simply the result of too much indulgence, so that she is surfeited with possessions and attentions.

As far as her short-lived interest in playing with things is concerned, that may be due to an excess of attention from grownups, which makes her not only want attention, but which interferes with a natural concentration.

A third factor may be that she absorbs her father's attitude. I don't mean that she inherits it, but simply that she unconsciously copies it.

These are direct causes and can be dealt with directly. First, the cooperation of all the grownups who love her must be enlisted. Second, it will be necessary to give her fewer things and to indulge her less, no matter how hard that may be. Third, it will be necessary to stop making her the constant center of attention, tho she must not be made to feel any the less loved.

She is old enough to be given some small chores to do to "help mother." There are dozens of things little children that age can do and well.

It would be wise to try to manage companionship of her own age for her, and if there is a good progressive play group or kindergarten nearby, a few hours a day in that more impersonal atmosphere might be helpful.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

side Greene has come to conclusions. . . . He has concluded that he is fed up with pretty-boy rôles in pictures and would like characterizations with a little more meat on their scripty bones.

"Juvenile leads are very monotonous," he said. "The cameras are about to grind. The bell rings for quiet. The director leans forward in his chair, tense with anticipation. The actors and actresses adjust the required expressions on their faces. Up in the catwalks electricians prepare to send volts crashing thru lines to illuminate the scene. Suddenly, a voice hoarsely screams: 'Stop.' The makeup man has discovered that two hairs have fallen over my left eye. He rushes in, brushes the hairs back into place on my head. That sort of thing is very, very depressing."

Not, mind you, that Greene is unhappy with his lot in Hollywood . . . far from it. "Two years ago I was in Blackpool, with a road company of 'French Without Tears'," he recalls. "For opposition we had a Spencer Tracy film playing down the street, and Tyrone Power's picture playing up the block. If some one had suggested then that I'd be in Hollywood making pictures in two years I would have suspected he was a little man who hired me to make pictures without a camera."

"I will see you to your car," he offered courteously. . . . but there was no car at the door. . . . The unusual weather had pried loose the brakes and a trail of whitecaps showed where it must have disappeared down the hill. . . . "You are sure," said Greene, "that you had a car?" . . . "It was standing right there," I said. . . . "That must have been my dream," he exclaimed happily. "I dreamed that the house was washed away last night—and your car was washed away instead."

A wind roared down the mountain and the very ground seemed to writhe in its grip. . . . "Mister Greene," I said, "your dream still has a helluva good chance of coming true." . . . Lifting my hat courteously, I dove into the street and swam home.

Crocheted Holders for Yarn

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Here is a novel way to carry a ball of yarn for your knitting or crochet work. These two bags may be quickly crocheted. By using a fine, mercerized, crochet cotton, you may create a bag measuring six inches in diameter. A heavier material and a larger sized crochet hook will produce a greater size. There is no end to the versatility of these carry-alls, since they also may be lined and used for a child's purse.

For instructions in crocheting the yarn holders or child's purse, No. X-421, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Mainbocher, Former Chicagoan, Expounds Long Torso Corset

A Chicago boy much better known for his seemingly French name of Mainbocher than for his west side origin came home yesterday for his first visit in 23 years. He is Main Bocher, known the world over as Mainbocher, the Parisian who dresses women as ladies.

Main Bocher.

When he left Chicago in 1909, a youth of 19, no one ever expected him to get as far away as Paris. This was Main Bocher, who had played tag all over West Monroe street, gone to John Marshall High school, and worked in the complaint department of Sears, Roebuck & Co. No one ever expected him to design dresses, and no one certainly expected him to come home for the reason he came yesterday—to talk about corsets.

But here he is, and here also are the corsets. They are no ordinary corsets, either. They are made of polka dot lastex satin, white dots on a navy background, and Bocher [he still signs his name in divided manner] will stand up in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House tomorrow night to discuss them.

The corset is to be the means of attaining what is known as the Mainbocher look, or the long torso. It is supposed to end that pinched-in waist, and, in Bocher's words, "bring down the feeling of the waist line as far as you can; a slim line right down to rounded hips. The look of lovely young American figures."

Bocher says his corset is a conservative thing ["polka dots are a classic, aren't they?"], as is everything he does; like himself, of medium height, stocky, with graying hair and a wide, pleasant smile, dressed as any one else might dress in a neat, dark suit with a normal tie.

Mainbocher's "look" was given a more eloquent name at a spring and summer style preview yesterday at the Merchandise Mart. It was described as the "elongated torso" and was heralded as the most important 1940 change in women's fashions.

The preview contained an advance showing of clothes to be exhibited today, tomorrow, and Thursday.

A bewildering array of new fashion trends was introduced. Organdie pinafores for little girls, camisoles and checked petticoats are back. Bathing suits are longer! So are sleeves and jackets. Colored gloves were cited as a "real necessity," and the "Gone with the Wind" spirit permeates all.

WEARERS SEEM TALLER

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate, Co., Inc.]

O dear, they're knocking the waistline around again. For spring, we're told, it's the long torso for us, the endless waist. The corset designers already are well into the business of producing this new elongated line of waist, which they see dictating dress fashions for 1940.

Well, we'll see what we shall see come spring. But the same Mainbocher who put over the wasp waisted line last year is the power behind this elongated one.

At a recent corset fashion showing of a well known corset house, the new look, or the Mainbocher look as it was described, is entirely different from last year's wasp waist because that corset nipped in the waist, rounded the hip and gave a totally different silhouette. The new silhouette is an endless waistline that starts just below the bustline, continuing on down to the hipbone. Or, better to describe it, you must have a trim ribline that lengthens the torso without diminishing the length of the leg. The effect is to make a woman look taller and it definitely improves her carriage, the corset people say.

The diaphragm remains firm but lithe, and the bust is young and high but not exaggerated.

We think women would serve their silhouettes better if they would put themselves thru a bit of exercise right away. Get the diaphram flattened as flat as you can before you go corset buying.

Stripes Arouse Shoppers from Midseason Lull

BY REA SEEGER.

Any midseason shopping indifference vanishes before the display of stripes. Whether you crave a dress, house coat, blouse or costume accessories, whether you like silk, wool or that high fashion charmer, jersey, this is the time to pick your stripes.

Rustling taffeta in white striped with vivid color, red, green or gray, is used for the most eye catching housecoats ever stuck into a window display. Some of them have that old fashioned bias cut flounce from the knees down, others are cut in a rib hugging princess streamline. Both certainly provide the necessary staccato pickup for any mental doldrums.

Boldly striped jersey by the yard and in the dress is something else to take the money from susceptible shoppers. Brilliant colors are triumphantly used for daytime dresses lurking colorfully under the much worn dark winter coat of fur or wool. They are the cleverly designed dresses that likewise team up with short contrasting jackets later for street or general day time wear. Striped silk crêpe, the stripes of variable width, with perhaps two colors, such as bronze green and dubonnet red against ivory white are combinations hard to beat for midseason contrast tricks with outer dark wraps. Striped thin woolens, striped wool jackets over solid colored dresses or simple skirts make ideal finds for the wool gatherers.

Fine striped cottons are used for some of the gayest lingerie of the times—such as red and white peppermint stick candy patterned dimity for nightgowns and matching short sleeved negligees. Striped cotton blouses to wear as color relief for dark winter suits, slipover models and the shirtwaist styles and some soft dress maker models offer a complete selection in crisp cottons, silks and jerseys.

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Catharine Connor Mayrand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Mayrand of 1260 North Dearborn parkway, to Robert Edward Parcell of New Orleans, La., took place last Saturday. GOLDEN GLOVERS SEE ACTION ON TWO FRONTS

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

De Paul university's Blue Demons last night gained a measure of balm for their Saturday night licking at the hands of Indiana by running rings around a smaller Louisiana State quintet, 53 to 28, before 4,500 in the Coliseum, where in the second half of a double header Manhattan beat Loyola, 31 to 30. It was De Paul's 14th victory in 16 starts this season.

Capt. Stan Szukala led all scorers with 14 points, which included six free throws, but Bob Wozny, replacing the injured Lou Possner, made six field goals. Paul Brotherton scored four baskets and three free throws for the Tigers, who were outreached by the Demons.

De Paul took a 28 to 15 lead at the half, after the Southerners had become annoying by pulling up to 20 to 15 with less than five minutes to go. Baskets by Skrodzki, Szukala, and Norris and a pair of free throws by Skrodzki attended to this spurt.

De Paul Builds Up Lead.

Louisiana scored first on a basket by Brotherton, but Gainer came thru with a pair of field goals and a hook shot by Wozny made it 6 to 2 for the Demons. Gainer and Wozny led the drive which lengthened De Paul's margin to 19 to 7. Buchana and Brotherton then went to work on the rally which had the Demons' followers uneasy for a few minutes.

L. S. U. scored four points in the second half on free throws by Buchana and a basket by T. Bozeman before De Paul's offense began to roll again. Capt. Szukala paced an offensive which gave the Demons a 41 to 26 lead at the 10 minute mark.

In the final ten minutes, Louisiana State was held to two points, while the Demons were collecting twelve.

Demons Next for Loyola.

Loyola, which the Demons meet Friday night at the Stadium in the annual C. Y. O. game, lost its 12th straight contest when Manhattan outlasted it in a battle that went to the final gun.

Loyola led at the intermission, 17 to 15, but free throws by Schwitter and Sarullo of the New Yorkers early in the second half tied it up. Thereafter the count was deadlocked four times.

With the score 27 to 27, Vinny Graham made a free throw and Mickey Rottner a basket to give the Ramblers a 30 to 27 edge. Then Kravetz delivered on a pair of free throws, and with Loyola attempting to control the ball in the New Yorkers' territory, John Flanagan of Manhattan stole it and sent his team ahead, 31 to 30. With 38 seconds remaining O'Rourke fouled Graham, but the Loyola boy couldn't make either of the two tries awarded him.

Loyola's free throwing weakness was revealed by its 16 failures in 21 attempts. Manhattan made good on 9 out of 11. Lineups:

COMMISSIONERS WILL RE-READ THOMAS EVIDENCE

Seek Ruling on Legal Status of Case.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The investigation by the Illinois Athletic commission into the bouts which Harry Thomas, former heavyweight, in an exclusive story in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE three months ago, said were faked, was indefinitely adjourned yesterday afternoon. The official statement, signed by the commissioners, Chairman Joseph Triner, Sheldon Clark and James R. Fitzpatrick, promised a decision later, however, and it also implied that legal action, which would compel witnesses who so far have declined to testify, might be the next development.

Yesterday's brief statement was given after several weeks' delay following four hearings at which Arch Ward, sports editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who uncovered the story, and Nate Lewis, manager of Harry Thomas, testified, and communications from other principal witnesses were read into the record.

Want to Examine Whole Case.

The commission statement follows: "In view of last minute developments it is necessary for the commission to examine and study a complete transcript of the Harry Thomas hearing. We desire to consider all possibilities of jurisdiction which would give us necessary power of subpena. As soon as our examination is completed we will render decision or announcement of our future action."

Thomas said that his fight with Max Schmeling in New York, Dec. 12, 1937, and with Tony Galento in Philadelphia, Dec. 13, 1938, were prearranged. Prior to the investigation in Illinois, the New York Athletic commission held a hearing and then turned over the case to the district attorney's office. Thomas declined to testify unless granted immunity.

It Happened Here, Says Thomas.

Illinois was particularly interested in the Thomas-Schmeling faked bout because Thomas said an agreement was reached in a Chicago hotel between Lewis and himself, and Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, for Thomas to lose. Lewis denied this in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in the same issue which carried Thomas' story. Lewis later willingly appeared before the Illinois commission to deny the charge.

Since the story was printed exclusively in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Oct. 30, 1939, there has been no retraction, nor has there been any important fact added to the story as related in this newspaper.

The hearing was conducted as a fact finding investigation and impartially by Edwin T. Breen, first assistant attorney general. Requests to testify were sent to all principals involved, to judges and referees of the bouts in question, and to second of Thomas in the two matches, but as the commission pointed out yesterday, it could not compel attendance. That has been the stumbling block over which the hearing reached the impasse of Thomas's affidavit and denials by Lewis and others.

The story was printed by THE TRIBUNE as news. That news story has not been altered in any degree. The charges made by Harry Thomas in his affidavit have been emphasized repeatedly.

LES SCARSELLA'S WIFE, ONE OTHER DIE IN CAR CRASH

Scarsella, a member of the Boston Bees, and his 2 year old daughter escaped with minor injuries. The four were en route from Cincinnati, their home, to Bradenton, Fla.

Clark Griffith Blasts Landis' Baseball Plan

Orlando, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP).—Clark Griffith, owner-president of the Washington Senators, agreed today with Commissioner K. M. Landis that the present baseball farm system often is an evil, and then lambasted Landis' methods of meeting the problem.

Clark Griffith.

Griffith defended the system's right to existence and asserted emphatically he would fight to the last ditch against any attempt to kill class C and D leagues, which he regards as the life's blood of American baseball.

"I agree with Commissioner Landis that the manner in which some farm clubs are run can be, and is, an evil. But until Landis can advance some concrete proposal that will allow the class D leagues to flourish I'll fight to the last breath," the 70 year old Griffith said.

Point 5 Needs Modification.

"I do not believe that Landis realized fully the far-reaching effects of point No. 5 in his first declaration. I believe that he will further modify it and that, in time, some proposal will be brought forward to clear the picture.

"That point 5 in the proposal got baseball up in the air, for there is no minor league team that is self-supporting. Even the class AA clubs have to get help from the majors once in a while.

Class D Teams Need Help.

"Class D leagues are always in need of help. One or two clubs in a class D league might make money some years, but there isn't a class D league in the country that will balance the slate when an audit is made at the end of the season."

Griffith was just as dead set against the commissioner's proposal that subsidies be granted to minor league clubs.

"It is utterly ridiculous to think that a class D club could operate on

Last of Tigers' Orphans Signs for $25,000

New York, Feb. 5 (AP).—Harvesting of the major crop of free agents created by Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis in his Detroit decision was completed today as the Brooklyn Dodgers signed Outfielder Roy Cullenbine for a bonus of $25,000.

Roy Cullenbine.

Cullenbine was one of four major leaguers among the 91 players freed from Detroit and affiliated clubs last month. Previously the Philadelphia Athletics had obtained Second Baseman Benny McCoy for $45,000 and a two year contract at $10,000 a year; the Cincinnati Reds had taken Pitcher Lloyd Dietz for an undisclosed sum, and the Dodgers signed Steve Rachunok for a reported $7,500.

He'll Start in Center.

Cullenbine, a promising looking player for a couple of years, is expected to take over center field for Brooklyn. He was given a one year contract believed to call for $6,000.

A switch-hitter, Cullenbine was used mostly as a pinch batter by Detroit last year and in 75 games had a batting average of only .240. But 17 of his 43 hits were for extra bases, including three home runs in one game off Bob Feller. He is an expert defensive fielder and has one of the best arms in baseball.

National League Meets Today.

In New York today were President William Harridge and other American league figures, Leslie O'Connor, secretary to Landis, and representatives of all clubs in the National league. All of the executives of the National league joined in a secret huddle as a preliminary to their annual meeting tomorrow.

It was learned that they discussed Landis' plan for abolition of farm systems and that a formal statement probably would be forthcoming tomorrow.

Most of the National league managers also were around, but apparently no trades were in prospect. Bill Terry of the Giants, Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds, Doc Prothro of the Phillies, and Gabby Hartnett of the Chicago Cubs spent nearly five hours together today.

APPLING BREAKS TRADITION; SIGNS CONTRACT EARLY

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The 1940 holdout season is a flop. The Cubs have four or five fellows who have spurned original offers. The White Sox have a few who are trying to bargain for better terms. There are discontented athletes scattered here and there among other big league clubs. But no holdout season could be a success without the aid of Luke Appling of White Sox fame, and Luke has gone ahead and signed his document.

In almost every year of his term with the Sox the talented shortstop never failed to give his employers more than a few anxious moments. Sometimes Luke would send the contract back with suggestions of a boost. Other times he wouldn't send it back, but word would arrive via grapevine that he was dissatisfied. Then he had another annoying trick. If the proffered terms were suitable he'd forget all about the matter and turn over for another long nap, his employers meanwhile worrying as to what had happened to Luke. But he'd roll into camp on schedule, the signed document protruding from his pocket.

Lee Is Prospective Holdout.

Vice President Harry Grabiner also announced yesterday that signed papers had been returned by Eric McNair, who will play either third or second base, and Pitcher Jack Knott, the large sized Texan. So far the only Sox member unveiled as a prospective holdout is Thornton Lefty Lee. Two or three of the other boys are reported to be "negotiating" with the club.

As many as four or five added starters may be included in the Sox battery squad ticketed to leave here Feb. 26 and to start work at the Pasadena, Cal., training camp two days later. So as to have more time in which to look over some of his most interesting youngsters, Manager Dykes wants to have Bob Kennedy, Lewis Leiter, Don Kolloway, Harold Cromer, and possibly Frank Metha report with the early birds instead of waiting until the infielders and outfielders assemble March 4.

Cubs' Complaints Still Filed.

P. K. Wrigley, president-owner of the Cubs, started for New York yesterday to attend the National league's schedule meeting today, but didn't say anything about having resumed negotiations with the five men who have been singing in the "We Want More Money" chorus for the last several weeks.

Complaints from Stan Hack, Hank Leiber, Augie Galan, Clay Bryant, and Bill Rogell are resting on the Wrigley desk and his lack of concern over the cases indicates that he isn't half as worried as the fellows who are waiting for word from headquarters.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Richard Leonardsen, a youngster who lives at 3635 Nora avenue, likes to box, but for quite a while he's been wondering just what would happen if he got into a ring to undertake tournament competition against another fellow who enjoys the same. Now he knows. To Leonardsen goes the honor of winning the first bout of Chicago's 1940 Golden Gloves tournament.

After taking a thumping in the first round of his bout with Harry Heldt, 2937 Walnut street, last night in the Madison Athletic club, this youngster came back in the next two rounds to land enough wallops to earn a decision.

Of course Leonardsen is only a novice and nobody expected him to be present [except as a spectator] when the welterweight championship is decided in the Chicago Stadium next month. His absence from the ring on that occasion was assured when he failed to answer the bell for the third round of his bout with John Gizzo, 3218 Lexington street, on his second time around last evening.

The Novices Put On a Show.

Anyway he had his moment of triumph and it was swell while it lasted. That's what makes the Golden Gloves novice competition a great show for every one—spectators and contestants.

And so it went thruout the evening—surprises, form reversals, and unexpected knockouts, for the conduct of novices is quite unpredictable. The west side novice eliminations will continue tonight in the Madison A. C., but the south siders also will have their chances. They will start their three night tournament in White City.

Forty-one bouts were run off in last night's west sectional campaign. Tho a critical observer might have found many flaws in the attack, defense, and tactical maneuvering of the contestants, the crowd didn't bother too much about the fine points. Before one of the largest gatherings which ever has attended a Golden Gloves opening the youngsters slugged, ducked, retreated, fell, and then got up to do it all over again.

The referees—Phil Collins, Tommy Gilmore, and Tommy Thomas—were ever on the alert to see that the slugging went far enough to give both the fighters and the crowd a lot of fun, but not far enough to expose any one to the danger of getting seriously hurt.

Coliseum Is Next Stop.

The 44 boxers who survived last night's bouts are still in the running for the right to compete in the Chicago tournament Feb. 20, 21, and 22 in the Coliseum. At the end of tomorrow night's session in the Madi-

BROWN DEFEATS HUERTA; FRANKLIN WINS IN 2D ROUND

Kist Scores Knockout in Marigold Ring.

Brown won a decision in eight rounds over Henry Huerta, Peoria featherweight, and Franklin knocked out Buddy Millard of Indianapolis in the second round. A crowd of 1,115 paid a gross gate of $1,284.

Coliseum Gets Date.

Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois boxing commission yesterday granted Promoter Irving Schoenwald the date of March 14 on which to offer three bouts of 10 rounds in the Coliseum. At the same time the commissioner rejected Promoter Bill Rand's application to present a show in Chicago Stadium March 15 "because the date conflicts with that given Schoenwald."

The Coliseum contests will bring together Milt Aron, No. 1 welterweight contender, and Bep Van Klaveren; Fritzie Zivic, Pittsburgh 147 pound boxer, and Johnny Barbara, and Roscoe Toles, Detroit heavyweight, and Lem Franklin.

These encounters originally were scheduled to be held Feb. 8, but the illness of Van Klaveren and Barbara forced a postponement. The promoter said the boxers will be available for the new date.

Wires N. B. A. President.

After awarding the Coliseum date Chairman Triner revealed that he had sent a telegram to Lieut. Col. Harvey Miller, president of the National Boxing association, advising him that Henry Armstrong's six months' period to defend his welterweight championship had expired last Nov. 29. Triner is vice president of the N. B. A. and a member of the association's championship ratings committee.

Triner said the N. B. A. does not recognize Armstrong's defense of his championship against Pedro Montanez in Madison Square Garden Jan. 24 because Montanez was not listed as leading challenger by the association.

Triner recommended that Armstrong be ordered to put his title on the block against Aron, who became leading challenger by knocking out Zivic in the Coliseum on Dec. 27. Armstrong will meet Ceferino Garcia at 151 pounds in Los Angeles Feb. 22 in what is being advertised as a middleweight championship engagement.

Goodyear Five Beats Crippled Bruins, 39-25

Akron, O., Feb. 5 [Special].—Chicago's Bruins, leaders of the western division of the National Basketball league, ran into a surprise tonight, losing to the Akron Goodyears, 39 to 25, in a game in which they never figured.

Paced by Gene Anderson, former Purdue star, and Ben Stephens, once of Iowa, Akron outsped the taller Chicagoans to clinch victory in the first half, rolling away to a 17 to 4 margin at the quarter and a 20 to 9 lead at the half.

In the first quarter offensive Anderson scored four field goals, while Stephens, the league's third leading scorer, tallied twice and added two free throws.

Playing without Ed Oram, star guard, who was injured here Saturday night when they beat the Akron Firestones, the Chicagoans lacked their usual punch and were held to nine field goals.

Their best display came in the third quarter when they reduced the Akron margin to 28 to 19, but Anderson and Stephens again broke loose in the final period to stifle the threat.

Stephens made 13 points and Anderson 11. Wib Kautz led the Bruins with seven. Lineup:

Garnseys Gang Up on Tribune Casting Prizes

Members of the Herbert Garnsey family, 7112 Merrill avenue, left Navy pier last night well satisfied. Entered in the casting tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, Earl Garnsey won first place for club casters, and his brother, Chester, went home with the second place trophy. Their father, Herbert, 73 years old, also competed but was unable to keep pace with the younger members of the family. The tournament is being held in conjunction with the Chicago National Boat and Sports show.

Collins Is Third.

Earl, a member of the Chicago Fly Casting club, won the club casters trophy on a 92 scored Saturday night. Chester, who competes with the Illinois Casting club, chalked up an 86 last night. It was second high for the three nights of competition among club casters. Third place went to W. R. Collins of the Lincoln Park Casting club, who had a 74 last night.

The nine club casters who qualified for the final competition next Saturday were the Garnsey brothers, Collins, Sterling Shoemaker, and Eddie Davis of the Jackson Park Casting club; Margaret Weaver of the Illinois Casting club, and Eddie Yasulaitis, A. E. Eckwald, and Conrad Nordholm of the Chicago Fly Casting club.

New Field Tonight.

Fishermen affiliated with none of the casting clubs will compete tonight, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. Competition will start at 7:30 each evening. The three high scorers will win Tribune trophies. No advance entry is necessary, and casters who have not yet sent in their entry may compete by contacting W. J. Butler, tournament manager, at the Butler booth. All competitors must use regular fishing equipment, including a level-wind reel and a line testing at least nine pounds.

STRAIN, BADGER GUARD, IS LOST BY INELIGIBILITY

Madison, Wis., Feb. 5 (AP).—Ted Strain of Sycamore, Ill., regular guard on the University of Wisconsin basketball team was declared ineligible today for further varsity competition pending a ruling on his midyear grades by the faculty executive committee.

Coach Harold Foster, who lost three players last week because of scholastic deficiencies, announced that Strain received passing marks in all courses but that his average was low.

Games Tonight

N. Y. Rangers at Boston.
Detroit at N. Y. Americans.

The Blackhawks rested yesterday and they'll rest today. Said Manager Paul Thompson: "The boys deserve and need a couple of days away from any thought of hockey. In the last 11 days they have traveled over 3,500 miles and because of the intense cold we were late getting into Boston, Toronto and finally into Chicago, and with all these discomforts they played seven hockey games. We'll have one strenuous practice tomorrow for the game against the New York Americans Thursday."

The Hawks salvaged one victory out of their three game road tour last week, beating Toronto Saturday after losing to Boston and the New York Americans. Last Sunday in the Stadium the boys were tied, 1 to 1, by Detroit.

Come, Come, Mr. Ross!

Art Ross, the manager of the Boston Bruins, is a considerably wrought up individual these days. His quarrel with Eddie Shore and the subsequent trading of the great star to the New York Americans for Eddie Wiseman proved somewhat of a boomerang to the well laid plans of Mr. Ross. Art thought that the appearance of Shore, for over 13 years a prime favorite in Boston, would pack the house Sunday night when he appeared against Boston's champions in a New York uniform. Eddie, however, refused point blank to dress for the affair despite a tremendous ballyhoo about his coming, with the result that the game drew the smallest Boston Sunday crowd of many seasons and attested to the popularity of Shore in no uncertain way.

A second move on the part of Ross that did not set well with Boston fans was the trading of the popular Jack Portland to the Blackhawks for Des Smith.

Hawks Given Edge.

After looking at Smith in two games Ross benched the former Blackhawk's defense player and started grooming Red Hamill, a 195 pound forward, for the defense spot left vacant by the benching of Smith. Hockey fans everywhere feel that the Blackhawks got decidedly the better of the Portland-Smith trade.

Shore did not pour oil on the troubled waters surrounding Manager Ross when he announced that he would make his first away-from-home appearance this season when he lines up with the Americans in next Thursday's game against the Blackhawks at the Stadium.

PLATAK WINS HANDBALL TITLE OPENER EASILY

Joe Platak of the Lake Shore Athletic club, five times national champion and defending titleholder in the Central A. A. U. state singles handball tournament, won his opening match last night in the Midwest Athletic club. He defeated Anton Korper, Englewood Y. M. C. A., 21-2, 21-5.

To an Old Music Teacher.

[A. K.]

All down the years his gentle, kindly art
He graciously transmitted to the young;
Music his life and he full richly gave
His all whenever note was played or sung.

Yearly recitals on those lush June nights
When still another class knew ecstasy,
Turning away with smile of gratitude
For full, rich years there at the master's knee.

The world changed all around him, but the years
Seemed not to touch that quiet, dim retreat,
Children of the ones he used to teach
Now came to hear the patient, rhythmic beat
Of "One, two, one—a little slower now"—
And not long since he finished with a sigh,
Laid down the little baton which he used;
"Too bad," folks said, "that such as he should die."

They little know that genius such as his
Can NEVER die, that years and years from now,
Passing an old frame house back from the street
Where lilac bushes raise their plumy brow,
Will play "Sweet Evening Star" or such—and then,
As out on the purple twilight float those strains
They'll know he is not dead—but lives again!

Golden Gloves Action Flares on Two Fronts

son A. C. the field of 139 west side contestants will be cut to 16—two in each of the eight weight divisions. The south side contingent will be reduced to the same proportions after three consecutive evenings of fighting, tonight, tomorrow, and Thursday. The north side novices will be asked to demonstrate their ability Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week. These sectional novice survivors will have the privilege of entering the Chicago tournament in the Coliseum where they will be called upon to face open division boxers in that event.

While last night's bouts were going on in the Madison A. C., there was widespread activity in Golden Gloves territory. Fort Worth, Tex., and Vincennes, Ind., were holding their district finals. Preliminaries were being held in Terre Haute, Ind.; Kansas City, Mo.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Quincy, Ill.; Davenport, Ia.;

Other Cities Busy, Too.

In the course of the week 21 cities will take part in the struggle for survival in the Golden Gloves tournament. As the campaign goes on, other centers will join the battle and eventually 45 teams will be picked in towns where newspapers are coöperating with Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in the presentation of Golden Gloves eliminations. All of these fighters will converge on Chicago for the Tournament of Champions, which will be held in the Stadium Feb. 26, 27, and 28.

Altho Chicago's boxing fans are interested in seeing these out of town boys in action, they usually like to get an early start at picking a few favorites from among the local contestants. That's why they were so enthusiastic about last night's bouts in the Madison A. C. They went to the show with the idea that they might see a youngster make his start toward a Golden Gloves championship.

The Badgers, in losing their fifth consecutive game, played without Ted Sirain, junior guard from Harvard, Ill., who was declared ineligible this afternoon. Previously one other regular, Bob Schwartz, high scoring Madison forward, and two reserves, Bob Nelson and Bob Sims, were lost thru scholastic deficiencies.

Tonight's game was rough thruout, with 17 personal fouls being called on each team and four players—Jack Clayton and Jim McCray of Butler and Walt Anderson and John Rundell of Wisconsin—were ejected.

Cunningham Is All-American for 6th Time

New York, Feb. 5 (AP).—Joseph P. McCluskey of Manchester, Conn., who has missed only once since 1930, and Glenn Cunningham of Lawrence, Kas., who hasn't missed at all since 1933, again have been selected on Dan Ferris' All-American track and field team.

McCluskey, winner of more national championships than any other athlete now in competition, gets his accustomed steeplechase berth on the 1939 squad selected by the secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic union.

As a general rule, Ferris followed the results of the indoor and outdoor A. A. U. title meets in selecting his team. But there were few exceptions, one of them Cunningham in preference to Blaine Rideout of Texas for the 1,500 meter event.

Fred Wolcott of Rice institute gets the 110 meter and 200 meter hurdle berths he won in 1938, even tho he relinquished the 110 title to Joe Batiste of Tucson, Ariz. Cornelius Warmerdam of the San Francisco Olympic club is a holdover in the pole vault, in which George Varoff won the championship. Elmer Hackney of Kansas State gets the call over Champion Lilburn Williams in the shot put. Bob Peoples of Southern California is the choice in the javelin throw, which was won at Lincoln by Boyd Brown. John McLaughry of Brown, son of the Bruin football coach, is named top man in the hammer throw altho Chet Cruickshank is national campion.

Only 7 Indiana Athletes Get Scholarships

Of the 222 undergraduates holding scholarships at Indiana university, only seven are athletes, according to statistics announced yesterday by Western conference headquarters. Facts concerning conditions on the Hoosier campus were released as the sixth of a series in amplification of the Big Ten report on the conference as a whole made public Jan. 29.

Indiana's undergraduate male enrollment is 3,887, including 213 who are regarded as athletes—either members of varsity squads or freshman numeral winners. Scholarships for seven of the athletes, according to the report, are valued at $455 and were administered by a committee including Dean C. E. Edmondson and Mrs. Kate Hevner Mueller, with Dr. H. T. Briscoe as chairman.

Loans for needy students, nonathletes and athletes alike, are available thru a committee including Dean Edmondson and Prof. W. A. Cogshall and are limited to $75 a semester with specified interest rates. Indiana students last year were accorded loans amounting to $20,651.33. Of this total $620 was borrowed by 12 athletes.

Altho the university has no central employment bureau, more than 46 per cent of the Indiana student body is at least partially self-supporting, according to the conference survey. Placements for work are handled by institutions such as the Y. M. C. A. and the Indiana union, and by such individuals as Dr. F. R. Elliott, Claude T. Rich, Mrs. Fannie Weatherwax, and Henry E. Pearson. The latter is superintendent of buildings and grounds.

Eighty-seven athletes secured employment last year, for labor, janitor and clerical work, earning an aggregate of $16,114.65, altho others received commissions as program salesmen and for operation of concessions at athletic events. No report was made on earnings in these instances.

CLARK GRIFFITH LAMBASTS PLAN OF JUDGE LANDIS

a subsidy of $1,000 a season, or a class C league on a subsidy of $1,500, or a class B on $2,000. That is impossible—the amount would be just a drop in the bucket.

"Landis might be able to outthink me, but Landis can't outthink me in a baseball way. I say again that he didn't realize the far-reaching effects of that recommendation.

"You hear an awful lot of the evils of baseball, but you don't hear the good things."

One of the good things, he said, is a fund of $18,000, borne equally by the American, National, and National Association of Minor Leagues, to finance a committee to organize new leagues.

Cites Growth of Minors.

"Not so long ago there were 11 minor leagues. Now there are 44, thanks to this committee. We are still spreading the gospel of baseball—and they say we do no good"—Griffith flared.

'Griffith believes that the ultimate solution may be a limitation on working agreements between major league clubs and all leagues from class B on down.

"From class B on up the leagues can pretty well take care of themselves. Let them pass a 'no option' rule above class B. Throw the draft open, it's all right with me. I'm willing to take my chances on the open market with any club. But they've got to leave Class C and D alone—or else kill baseball," he warned.

Cal's Briggs a Scapegoat.

As for the recent edict against Walter Briggs, owner of the Detroit Tigers. Griffith has only one quarrel with Landis.

"That $47,500 retroactive fine for the benefit of players out of the Detroit chain for several years was unprecedented.

"Briggs, thrust into baseball overnight by Frank Navin's death, is an automobile — not a baseball — man. Those things that happened occurred before he came into baseball and since they happened under Landis' régime, he had a right to suppose that everything was in order. Landis was a little rough with that fine."

Thereupon Griffith subsided with a parting thrust at "cold storage ballplayers."

"Out of the 6,000 or so players in the minors, only two can be classified as 'cold storage players.' They are Rizzuto and Priddy of Kansas City. The other 5,998 are being helped. Is it right to rob many of benefits because of two?"

[Rizzuto and Priddy, believed to be ripe for the major league, are being matured by the New York Yankees' American association farm club for at least one more season.]

"Old Country Beer Lovers Won't Drink a Beer That Has to Be Freezing Cold to Be Palatable Please Enjoy the Delicate All-Grain Fragrance in Our Brew."

By Richard Seibold
Meister Bräu Brewmaster

COMPARE FLAVOR when Flavor isn't disguised by Cold!

● Maybe I'm too fussy about serving beer at the right temperature. But ice-cold beer is wrong. There's no use our putting the finest grains in a brew just to have the flavor overchilled so you can't recognize it. We might as well add sugars or syrups and save time and money. We might as well add artificial gas when we bottle instead of using only natural draft beer carbonation created in the beer itself.

Beer flavor, good or bad, shows up at about 50 degrees. If you want to know what kind of beer you're drinking, drink it at 50 degrees. That means, take an ice-cold bottle out of the refrigerator and let it stand until it's the proper temperature.

Do that and you'll never again say, "Give me a bottle of Beer." You'll know it pays to ask for the brand you prefer. For 49 years we've made a beer for the 50-degree drinkers—the beer cranks. Order Meister Bräu today and I'll stake my reputation on your verdict if you make the "50-degrees" test.

SPRING MARKET OPENS; BUYER TOTAL IS LARGE

Sales Expected to Reach 17 or 18 Millions.

Chicago yesterday became the nation's trade center for gifts, artware, novelties, china, glassware, pottery, silverware, infants' and childrens' clothing, dry goods, general merchandise, and women's apparel. Yesterday was opening day of the spring market week. About 18,000 buyers are expected at the market.

It was predicted that the merchants would buy 17 or 18 million dollars' worth of goods during the week which is sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce. Attendance will be 8 per cent larger than last year, officials predicted.

Many Events Scheduled.

Features of the annual event are 20 trade shows, individual spring openings of 2,200 Chicago manufacturers and wholesale distributors, and 900 displays of out of town lines. The major attraction is the meeting of the Interstate Merchant's council, retail affiliate of the Chicago commerce group.

From 1,200 to 1,400 retail store owners are expected to attend the semi-annual banquet of the council at the Sherman hotel tonight.

Attend Luncheon Meetings.

Yesterday more than 650 merchants attended a luncheon at Carson Pirie Scott & Co., and more than 500 attended a luncheon at Butler Brothers. In the evening Style Exhibitors, Inc., held a fashion show at the Morrison hotel.

In addition to the city-wide exhibits, special events will be held thruout the week at the Morrison, Sherman, Palmer House, La Salle, Stevens, and Merchandise Mart.

JUSTICE OFFICE PLANS DRIVE ON BUILDING CODES

May Avoid Difficult Legal Actions.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—The justice department is looking for cases which will enable it to attack building codes in various cities in the United States, officials said today. Thurman W. Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of antitrust operations, has no concrete plan for legal attack upon them now, but that is the general objective.

Present plans call for a barrage of unfavorable publicity on how the codes were adopted by city councils thru the influence of pressure groups, such as building material dealers, contractors, and labor unions, and how these codes have resulted in higher building costs. A legal attack is difficult, justice department officials admit, because of the wide authority granted the city government in many instances.

Rely on Education Drive.

But the antitrust officials hope that an "educational program" thru constant attack on the codes will cause revision without legal compulsion. The next step is to find cases adapted to court tests on the legality of the codes, possibly on the ground that they impede the free flow of interstate trade.

The attack on building codes will be incorporated wherever possible in the present antitrust drive in the building industry, which has resulted in mass indictments in Chicago and other large cities. Just last week 25 individuals, corporations, and unions connected with the plywood and cut stone industries in Chicago were indicted on charges of a conspiracy to restrain trade in violation of the Sherman act.

Officials said that it was difficult to get a case against city councilmen who made the code or against officials operating under the code. About the only way they could be challenged, they said, was by a person erecting a building violating provisions of the local building code, thus subjecting the whole code to judicial review.

Way to Intervene.

In such a case the government might conveniently appear as "a friend of the court" and lend its assistance in interpretation of the code. Also, where the government is doing the building it might become a direct party in any action if it purposely violates any code provisions.

Leo F. Tierney, special assistant to the attorney general, who has been conducting the antitrust prosecutions in the Chicago area, has suggested that as a property owner the federal government could properly bring suit against code operations which materially raise the costs of construction or repair.

Officials here cited the example of some codes calling for three coats of paint even on temporary wallboard buildings, such as those erected at the Chicago World's fair.

Because of the local jurisdiction involved Arnold and his antitrust assistants still consider publicity on unreasonable building requirements as the best weapon. They have used every opportunity along this line.

Asks Rezoning City to Revise Blight Areas

BY AL CHASE.

Rezoning Chicago consistently and realistically is the first step in rehabilitating blighted areas and protecting good neighborhoods from decay, according to D. E. Mackelmann, executive director of the Metropolitan Housing council of Chicago. The present inadequate zoning system in effect in this city is partially responsible for the formation and continuance of Chicago's vast slum areas, Mackelmann said yesterday.

D. E. Mackelmann.

Zoning is a part of city planning, and for that reason the housing council constantly has emphasized the need for a strong and effective plan commission, he asserted. The new zoning board, authorized last year, will prepare a master plan for Chicago.

Ordinance Requires Plan.

The 1939 Chicago plan ordinance specifically requires the commission to prepare plans for the rehabilitation of blighted areas, as well as for the safeguarding of existing healthy neighborhoods.

Mackelmann outlined figures which showed the overzoning of land for apartments, commercial uses, and for manufacturing, and the underzoning of single family dwelling areas in the present zoning code.

"Twenty-eight and two-tenths square miles actually are occupied by single family homes in Chicago, while less than six square miles are zoned for this purpose," Mackelmann said. "This leaves some 22 square miles without the protection which zoning was to give them.

Cites Zoning Inconsistencies.

"On the other hand, 64.55 square miles are zoned for apartment houses and two-flats, while only 31.85 square miles are so used.

"Of 28.24 square miles zoned for commercial use, only 12.54 square miles are used for this purpose. The same inconsistency is found in the zoning for manufacturing, where we find an excess of 22.07 square miles zoned for this purpose over the 26.57 square miles actually used."

Gen. Motors Pays Dividend of 34 Million

General Motors corporation directors yesterday voted the distribution of $34,501,000 in dividends. The money goes to the holders of 42,942,000 shares of common stock—each share receiving 75 cents—and to the holders of 1,835,644 shares of preferred—each receiving $1.25.

The common stock dividend will be paid March 12 to holders of record February 15. The preferred stock payments will be made May 1 to holders of record April 8.

Similar quarterly dividends were paid on the common in each of the first three quarters last year and another of $1.25 was paid at the year-end. The preferred dividend is regular.

Pays on Savings Plan.

The corporation announced that it had started distribution of $6,181,294 in cash and common stock to more than 25,000 employés thruout the country, under the corporation's employés savings and investment plan. Of the total $2,963,015 represents employés' original savings and $3,218,279 the contribution of the corporation.

The distribution is being made to employés who started participation in the plan in 1934. Each participant who paid $100 into the fund in 1934 now receives a cash settlement of approximately $154 and one share of General Motors common stock.

On other amounts paid in, returns are in proportion, cash being paid for fractional shares.

Sheaffer Pen Pays Extra.

Directors of the W. A. Sheaffer Pen company declared an extra dividend of 50 cents in addition to an interim payment of $1, both payable Feb. 26. The payment will make a total of $3 a share paid on the common stock in the fiscal year ended this month.

Directors also adopted a plan for quarterly meetings for dividend declarations.

Directors of Walgreen company authorized two regular quarterly dividends—40 cents a share on the common stock, payable March 20, and $1.12½ a share on the 4½ per cent issue, payable March 15.

PICKETING CASE IS SENT BACK BY SUPREME COURT

Refuses Decision in Swing Case.

The United States Supreme court yesterday refused the American Federation of Labor's plea for a review of the Swing stranger picketing case. The nation's highest tribunal declined to assume jurisdiction on the ground that all courses of legal action have not yet been exhausted in the lower courts.

Ross W. Swing.

The case involves the contention that picketing by nonemployés is illegal when used to promote a union membership campaign. The Circuit, Appellate, and Illinois Supreme courts previously have ruled against the pickets, but the United States Supreme court found that the lower courts have not issued a final judgment in the case.

Employés Refuse to Join.

The employer in the case it Ross W. Swing. In 1937 he had a beauty shop at 5558 North avenue. Organizers for the Hairdressers and Cosmetologists' union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, demanded that Swing's 16 employés join the union.

Swing said his workers were at liberty to join, but that he would not force them into a union. The employés refused to join. The union began picketing the shop.

The employés—15 girls and a man—joined with Swing in asking that the picketing be halted. They charged that nonemployés were picketing the shop with banners asserting that the shop was unfair to organized labor, and that this was untrue.

Judge Joseph Burke issued an injunction forbidding further picketing by strangers on July 9, 1937. He held that there was no strike and that no dispute between employés and employer was involved.

Carried to Higher Courts.

Judge Burke dissolved his own injunction in January of 1938, after the Appellate court had found for the pickets in a somewhat similar case.

Swing's attorneys then carried the case to the Appellate court, which held that Swing was entitled to the injunction. The union carried its fight to the Illinois Supreme court.

It found that stranger picketing, when used as an instrument for a membership campaign, is illegal.

UNITED AIR LINES TO HIRE 70 PILOTS IN NEXT 3 MONTHS

United Air Lines announced yesterday that 70 co-pilots will be hired within the next three months and that present expansion plans for the the addition of 130 more within the next four years. The additions will almost double the present force of approximately 250 first and co-pilots.

According to R. T. Freng, director of flying for United, the expansion is justified by the large increase in air passenger travel during the last two years. Additional schedules have been added and new planes ordered.

The air line maintains its own mechanic training school at Cheyenne, Wyo. Additional men will be accepted for training there, Freng said.

UTILITIES POWER TO DISPOSE OF UNIT IN INDIANA

Charles True Adams, trustee for the Utilities Power and Light corporation, was authorized yesterday by Federal Judge William H. Holly to proceed with negotiations to dispose of the holding company's stock interest in the Indianapolis Power and Light corporation. Sale of the stock is contemplated in order to comply with the utility integration clause of the public utility holding company act.

Adams said he intends to file a petition this week with the Securities and Exchange commission for permission to sell its holdings of all outstanding common stock in the $83,000,000 Indianapolis utility. Utilities Power and Light is now in reorganization in federal court here. The transaction will involve about 20 million dollars, it was said.

Underwriting arrangements for the sale of the 645,980 shares of common stock of Indianapolis Power and Light now held by the parent company have been made with a group of investment houses.

ASKS HIGH COURT TO SUSTAIN OIL CASE CONVICTION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—A justice department attorney asked the Supreme court today to sustain the conviction of 12 major oil companies and five individuals on a charge of conspiring to raise gasoline prices in ten midwestern states in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

John Henry Lewin, special assistant to the attorney general, argued that the anti-trust charges should be sustained even tho the prices fixed were reasonable. This contention was advanced in response to questions by the justices. The Supreme court has interpreted the 1890 Sherman act as forbidding only unreasonable restraint of trade.

The government appealed to the high court from a decision by the Seventh federal Circuit court which set aside the convictions and ordered a new trial. The defendants were convicted in the federal District court at Madison, Wis., and the companies were fined $5,000 each and the individuals $1,000 each.

INSURANCE FIRM INVESTING PROBE STARTS MONDAY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—The monopoly investigating committee decided today to begin hearings Monday on statistics showing the investment experience of the nation's 26 largest legal reserve life insurance companies during the last 10 years.

The securities commission, officials said, has prepared a table of statistics comparing the experience of the companies as to real estate, stocks, bonds and other investments. The survey was based on replies of the companies to questionnaires.

Among other things, Leon Henderson of the securities commission said, the statistics will show the price at which the companies purchased various securities, the manner in which they have been listed among assets of the respective companies, and the values today, calculated by various measures.

RAIL HAS PROFIT IN DECEMBER—$4; LOSS IN ALL 1939

The Fort Worth and Denver City railway, a subsidiary of the Burlington, made a profit in December—$4. The road disclosed yesterday it had a net loss of $225,901 for all of 1939. In December, 1938, net loss was $60,428. For all of 1938 the loss totaled $120,509.

Net loss of $910,908 for 1939, compared with loss of $1,447,567 in the preceding year, was reported by the Alton railroad. During December the road had net income of $28,510, against net income of $37,605 in the corresponding month of 1938.

Wall Street Has Company in Its Misery Over Taxes

New York, Feb. 5 [Special].—Wall street has company in its "misery" over taxes. From India comes word that all markets in Bombay will be closed tomorrow in protest against the introduction of India's excess profits tax bill, which seeks to impose a levy of 50 per cent on excess profits made in any accounting period after April 1, 1939. Wall street has been protesting stock trade taxes.

Treasury Says It Has Right to Borrow $2,769,823,975

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—The treasury computed today that it had $2,769,823,975 of its $45,000,000,000 borrowing power left on Jan. 31. The treasury's gross debt was $42,109,751,669. However, $606,930,738 did not count toward the limit, while $727,355,094 of the future borrowing power had to be reserved to cover the automatic growth in value of baby bonds already sold.

SUPREME COURT DENIES REVIEW OF UTILITY CASE

Prudent Investment Plan Involved.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—The Supreme court refused today to review litigation involving the "prudent investment" theory of valuing public utilities for rate making purposes, and an order by the Wisconsin Public Service commission directing the Wisconsin Telephone company to reduce its rates by eight per cent.

The prudent investment method of valuation has been backed by President Roosevelt, the justice department, and other government agencies. The justice department has defined "prudent investment" as "the amount reasonably and honestly invested in public utility properties used and useful in the public service."

Rate Order Set Aside.

The Wisconsin commission sought a review of a decision by the Wisconsin Supreme court setting aside the rate reduction order on the ground that it did not permit a reasonable return on the fair value of the property. It was contended by the commission that the state Supreme court had erroneously accepted the view expressed in some United States Supreme court decisions that reproduction cost must control in determining rates that will allow a reasonable return on property of a public utility.

The commission said this doctrine had been limited, if not overruled, by the United States Supreme court after the "prudent investment" theory had been proposed.

In refusing a review, the Supreme court today said this action was taken because the justices were "unable to find that the decision of the highest court of the state did not rest upon an adequate nonfederal ground."

Wage Rule to Be Reviewed.

The government was granted a Supreme court review of a decision setting aside a determination by the labor department of the minimum wages that seven steel companies must pay their employés in order to sell their product in the United States.

Under the 1936 Walsh-Healey act, persons who contract to sell the federal government more than $10,000 worth of supplies must pay their employés the prevailing minimum wage for their "locality," as determined by the labor department.

Challenging wages fixed by the labor department, the steel companies contended the order sought to cover "13 states, part of a 14th, and the District of Columbia by the simple device of calling that vast region a 'locality'."

They appealed to the United States District court for the District of Columbia which dismissed their complaint. The Court of Appeals here, however, held the wage determination was without authority of law and enjoined its enforcement. It agreed with the contention of the steel companies that the word "locality" meant "the city, county, village or at most, a small geographical area."

The steel companies asserted that the order "threatened to create a monopoly among the large, fully integrated and geographically well-placed steel plants, situated at Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Gary and Birmingham, whose wage rates were not affected by the determination."

Dow, Veteran Utility Leader, Gives Up Reins—and Is Happy

Alex Dow.

Dow, president of Detroit Edison since 1912, turned over the gavel to Alfred C. Marshall, who becomes president and general manager.

The 78 year old veteran, who saw the power industry grow to giant stature, explained it was the first gavel the company had owned since he started presiding over its meetings.

Will Head Executive Committee.

Altho out of the active operating post, he will remain in a consulting connection as chairman of the executive committee.

Minus the gavel—his retirement was announced later in the day after a board meeting—Dow for the last time sat in the president's chair at the annual shareholders' meeting, held at noon in Detroit Edison's office in the financial district.

He reported machine tool business was booming in the Detroit area as a result of war orders and forecast from present indications another "fairly good" business year all around.

During a lull in the proceedings, he chided the gathering as too "solemn" in mood. The "dean," as many utility men call him, wanted his last day in the chair to be cheerful.

Emigrant from Scotland.

Dow, a young man from Scotland ambitious for an engineering career, arrived in the United States in 1882. He went to work for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, then saw opportunity in Thomas A. Edison's infant industry, electricity.

The Brush Electric company, Cleveland, O., gave him a job. Eight years later, in 1896, as vice president and general manager, he took charge of the Edison Illuminating company, Detroit, predecessor of the present company.

Looking back over the revolution wrought in American life by the motor car and electricity, Dow summed up the benefits for the average American in these words: "Leisure and freedom!"

Cites Improved Living.

"Think of what it means," he said, "for a man to earn his living with eight hours of work a day, forty hours a week, and to be able to escape the crowded city by motoring home into the suburbs or open country.

"Electricity and the automobile are doing that for American life. They are a great boon. The movement of population into the suburbs is on and it probably will continue.

"Opportunity for the future? I've frequently heard it said the electric power industry, for instance, was reaching the saturation point. But it has kept right on growing. As soon as one limit of expansion is reached new demand springs up in another direction. I don't see any end to this."

LONDON STOCK MARKET TRADES AN HOUR LONGER

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP).—The London Stock exchange today extended its daily session an hour, effective today, to cope with the increased volume of business. The new closing time is 3 p. m. [10 a. m., United States eastern standard time].

Following recovery in gilt edged securities in the last few weeks, more transactions now are being handled than in July and August.

The stock exchange normally is open from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., but after closing completely on the outbreak of war it adopted a limited daily session of 10 a. m. to 2 p. m.

AM. WOOLEN HAS ITS FIRST PROFIT IN THREE YEARS

Outlook Favorable, Pendleton Says.

American Woolen company, largest manufacturer of woolens and worsted fabrics in the United States, yesterday reported its operations last year brought a profit for the first time since 1936. Net income totaled $2,311,887, equivalent to $6.60 a preferred share. In the preceding year net loss amounted to $4,911,503. Net loss for 1937 was $1,854,902. The company's principal mills are in New England.

"On the whole, the current outlook can be viewed favorably," Moses Pendleton, president, told stockholders. "The fall 1940 selling season now is in progress and an encouraging volume of orders has already been booked.

Prices to Be Higher.

"Because of increases in the cost of wool and other raw materials, prices for the new selling season are substantially higher than last year."

Pendleton said the company's taxes for the year totaled $2,108,747. "These taxes in the aggregate amount to more than $6 per share on the outstanding preferred stock," he added. Unfilled orders on hand at the end of last year, according to the report, were 23 per cent larger than on Dec. 31, 1938.

Net income of $1,583,670 for 1939 was announced by Chicago Flexible Shaft company, manufacturer of electrical appliances and other products. The report, covering operations of the parent company only, set the earnings at $8.80 per share. Earnings of the parent company and subsidiaries in the preceding year amounted to $1,683,763, or $9.36 per share.

Kresge Earnings Increase.

In a preliminary statement, S. S. Kresge company and subsidiaries, a variety store chain with headquarters at Detroit, showed earnings of $10,450,624 for 1939. Per share income was $1.89. Profit for 1938 totaled $8,997,051, or $1.63 a share.

Loew's, Inc., reported earnings of $1,393,456, after reserve of $500,000 for contingencies, during the 12 weeks ended Nov. 23. Net income was equivalent to 71 cents per share. In the corresponding period of 1938 profit was $2,979,943 after a similar reserve provision. Per share income for the 1938 period was $1.74. The

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Feb. 5 (AP).—Altho selling was exceptionally light, and scattered issues exhibited quiet strength, the stock market today generally leaned to the offside.

Declines were mostly in small fractions, but a handful of "blue chips" receded 1 to 3 points. Steels, motors, aircrafts, and rubbers were easier thruout the session, but a few rails, utilities, coppers and specialties managed to close on a mildly rising note.

The turnover of 413,045 shares was the smallest for any full session since July 10, and compared with 514,330 last Friday.

Business news was still cloudy. Altho the majority of 1939 earnings statements still made pleasant reading, there were exceptions even here.

Wall street also was inclined to step carefully in view of the meeting of the national Democratic committee and the possibility that some clew regarding the coming presidential race might come out of the Washington gathering.

Steels had to contend with a sharp drop in this week's mill operations to a new bottom level since last September. However, the decline was about what had been expected, and United States Steel, Bethlehem, and Youngstown kept reactions to minor amounts.

Eastman Kodak sloughed off 3 points. Losers of 1 point or so included Douglas Aircraft, American Can, Dow Chemical, Johns-Manville, and Monsanto Chemical.

New York Bonds.

New York, Feb. (AP).—Bonds gained slightly today. The market handled only $4,562,200, face value volume, of bonds, compared with $5,240,275 Friday. It was the smallest trade of a full session since last Aug. 31, on the eve of the European war.

Few bonds were offered, but those which did almost invariably commanded improved prices.

United States government issues slipped as much as 8/32 point, but the volume of trading was even smaller than in the case of the corporate liens. On the other hand, some of the foreign government dollar loans made fairly good gains. Some of the obligations of Latin America and of Scandinavia advanced around a point. Finland 6s of '45 gained 1½.

Chicago Stocks.

Three issues reach new high marks on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in quiet trading. The list generally showed no distinct trend, however, with 32 stocks advancing, 31 declining and 34 closing unchanged.

Berghoff Brewing, Kentucky Utilities preferred and Leath & Co. made gains ranging from ⅛ to 1¾ points to break into new high ground for 1939-'40. Central and South West Utilities, most active issue, finished unchanged. Libby McNeill and Miller & Hart rose fractionally.

Arrangements were completed for sale of a membership in the exchange at $1,500, unchanged from the last previous sale.

Bank Stocks.

First National shares dropped a point in bank stock trading yesterday, closing at 243 bid. Continental Illinois declined half a point to 88 bid. Other issues were steady.

AGENT OF UNION CALLED CZAR IN ELECTRIC FIELD

Federal Attorney Attacks Pittsburgh Situation.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 5 (AP).—Michael P. Gordan, an American Federation of Labor union business agent, was pictured today in federal court as the "complete dictator" of the electrical contracting industry in Pittsburgh by a United States assistant attorney general. He declared similar conditions existed thruout the nation.

Michael P. Gordan.

Gordan, business agent of local 5, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, 43 other persons and 13 corporations, including the Electrical Contractors' association, were arraigned on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government thru collusive bidding on public works.

Offer No Defense.

All pleaded no defense to the indictments returned several weeks ago by a federal grand jury investigating building costs in Pittsburgh as part of the federal government's campaign against monopolies in the construction business. Sentence was postponed until tomorrow.

In reviewing the cases, Assistant Attorney General M. Neil Andrews charged that the conspiracy on bids had defrauded the government of $500,000 in the last five years. He declared the union agent and the contractors' association, thru reciprocal agreements on employment and the supply of labor, could control the industry, and added:

"With this tieup the association can exact exorbitant fees for membership, in some instances as much as $1,000, deny a membership entirely, collect many forms of tribute, operate a bid depository, destroy competition, defraud the public and maintain exorbitant prices."

Charges Contractors Coerced.

Electrical contractors, he asserted, must either belong to the association or "go out of business or into a bankrupt court."

The business agent, he said, could "collect every possible sum of graft, not only from the employer but from his own men," give work only to those who voted to keep him in office and "shake down" employers and employés alike.

In defense, Attorney John Duggan said Gordan and other union leaders "are not gangsters, but men of high integrity, character and reputation." He also contended that neither Gordan or William G. Short, financial secretary of the A. F. of L. union, who was also indicted, had made any "personal profit" from the arrangement.

OIL WELL IS SO BIG IT FILLS STORAGE IN ONLY 12 HOURS

Centralia, Ill., Feb. 5 (AP).—An initial 24-hour production test at Illinois' largest oil well remained uncompleted today because the well exhausted its storage facilities in only 12 hours. The Rossi Drilling company, owner of the well, said it flowed 5,156 barrels in the 12 hours and had not been allowed to produce wide open.

Nebraska Well Shut Down.

Falls City, Neb., Feb. 5 (AP).—Officials of the R. H. Boice company, operators of Nebraska's first commercial oil well, announced today the well has been shut down temporarily because of weather conditions. They said 32 days of capacity pumping had convinced them the well was a good one.

Business Bits

J. B. Gibson.

J. B. Gibson, publicity director of the Western Electric company, was elected chairman of the board of directors of the Greater Chicago Safety council at its annual meeting at the Hotel Stevens last night. ROCK ISLAND TO BUY $2,993,420 OF NEW CARS AND ENGINES

Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday authorized the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway to purchase 1,000 fifty ton box cars and ten 360 horse power Diesel electric switching locomotives for $2,993,420. Trustees for the road, which is in reorganization, were authorized to issue $2,680,000 in equipment trust certificates to cover part of the cost.

Judge Igoe also approved an agreement by which the Rock Island will refinance $1,553,585 of Diesel locomotive purchase contracts, obtaining a 2½ per cent interest rate instead of the 4 per cent rate prevailing previously. The arrangement will mean an interest saving of $104,000.

According to the agreement, General Motors Acceptance corporation, holder of the two notes, will assign them to the First National bank of Chicago and the Northwestern National Bank & Trust company, Minneapolis.

The new equipment trust certificates to be issued will bear 2¾ per cent interest. They will be sold to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

MERGER OF TWO UNITS IS SOUGHT BY MIDDLE WEST

Utility Outlines Plan at Hearing Before SEC.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 [Special].—P. L. Smith, president of Middle West corporation, today announced that permission for a merger of Central and South West Utilities company and the American Public Service company will be requested of the Securities and Exchange commission sometime this month. Both companies are Middle West subsidiaries.

Smith told about the merger while testifying before the SEC on behalf of the application of Southwestern Gas and Electric company, another Middle West unit, for permission to sell $16,000,000 in bonds and 75,000 shares of preferred stock for refunding purposes.

Proposes New Company.

The merger, he said, would be effected thru the organization of a new company, Central and South Western Utilities, Inc., which would acquire the assets of the two present companies.

The plan, he added, would "clear up" dividend arrears on the two companies' preferred stocks. On Nov. 15 arrears on Central and South West's $7 prior lien preferred stock amounted to $31.50 a share, and on the $6 prior lien preferred they were $27 a share. American Public Service owed $45.25 a share in arrears on its 7 per cent preferred on Jan. 2.

Both Are Holding Companies.

Central and South West is a subholding company. American Public Service is controled by Central and South West, and is itself a holding company for various utilities operating principally in Texas.

After the European war started last fall, Smith said that reorganization plans for Central and South West, which reportedly had been under consideration for several months, were being held in abeyance because holders of large blocks of the company's stock live in Europe.

Late in November the reorganization reports appeared again. It was understood at that time that Central and South West and American Public Service would be merged under a plan to be presented to the SEC early in 1940.

TWO BUSINESS BLOCKS PLANNED FOR EVANSTON

Two one story business buildings are to be built in Evanston. Courteney C. Davis, of Evanston, bought the southwest corner of Davis street and Maple avenue, improved with a half century old building, which will be wrecked. This is one block east of the new Evanston postoffice. The Charles L. Schrager company has been appointed general supervisors for the construction of a one story building, containing five stores. Loewenberg & Loewenberg are the architects. One has been leased thru Schrager to the Jewel Tea company.

The 70 by 115 foot site was purchased from the Northern Trust company for $34,000, according to the deed. Hokanson & Jenks were brokers. Construction will start about March 1, it was said.

Hokanson & Jenks also report the lease of 75 by 173 feet at 1625-27 Benson avenue, for 99 years from Northwestern university by Estates, Inc., Michael C. Birnkrant, president. It will have five stores ready for occupancy within 60 days. Work is scheduled to start today. One store has been rented.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Hog receipts were increased yesterday by a heavier run of medium and heavy butchers from last year's spring pig crop, which resulted in a break in these kinds. Lightweights and light butchers held to a mostly steady basis. Underweights and pigs were not as plentiful and sold slightly stronger.

The range of prices reached the widest point of the winter season as hogs over 250 pounds came under pressure. These sold off mostly 10 to 15 cents for the day, some of the heaviest stock sinking to new lows of the season. The day's average moved down 5 cents to $5.10, which was only 10 cents above the lowest daily average in about six years.

Industrial Rayon corporation had net income of $1,348,923 during 1939, Hiram S. Rivitz, president, reported to stockholders. In the preceding year earnings totaled $184,408 and in 1937 net income was $262,210.

Rivitz said the company would spend an estimated $4,000,000 from cash resources to increase the capacity of its plant at Painesville, O. Ground will be broken within eight weeks, he added, and the work will be completed in the spring of 1941.

Views Conditions Favorable.

"We are entering the new year under much more favorable conditions than in 1938 and the first half of 1939," Rivitz wrote stockholders. "Inventories are low, demand continues to be good, and prices are firm. Orders booked ahead are for sixty days only. This condition undoubtedly prevails in the rayon industry generally."

Flintkote company and subsidiaries, building material manufacturers, reported net income for 1939 of $1,432,383, or $2.11 a share. In the preceding year net income totaled $811,818, or $1.21 a share.

The first eight steel producers reporting earnings for 1939 had aggregate net income of $108,107,042, against profit of $2,377,640 for 1938, the magazine Steel reported. Fourth quarter operations of the eight companies, which represent 70.9 per cent of the industry, resulted in net income of $61,470,484, against $14,190,513 in the final period of 1938, the publication said.

RENEW HEARING CARGILL CORN 'CORNER' CASE

Hearings were resumed yesterday at the Sherman hotel in the second of two corn price manipulation cases involving the Minneapolis grain concern of Cargill, Inc. In this case, on which hearings were held in Minneapolis from Sept. 6 to Nov. 29, last year, Cargill is charged by the secretary of agriculture with manipulation in the September, 1937, Chicago corn futures market, and in the March, 1938, Minneapolis corn futures market.

The session before Referee Jack W. Bain was devoted primarily to the introduction and identification of various Cargill letters, telegrams, and other records. The commodity exchange commission hopes to finish its testimony within two or three weeks, it was learned.

In the other case involving Cargill, the grain concern charged the Chicago Board of Trade with price manipulation in September, 1937, corn futures. Referee S. Abbot Maginnis recently filed an intermediate report recommending that the commission allow the grain market's plea for dismissal.

FOREIGN SALES OF CATERPILLAR TRACTOR RISE

More Machinery Exported to Build Airports.

Despite the adverse effect of the European war on some lines of its export business, total foreign sales of Caterpillar Tractor company last year amounted to $17,026,195, an increase of $1,880,651 over 1938, B. C. Heacock, president, told stockholders and employés in the company's annual report yesterday.

B. C. Heacock.

Offsetting declines in the normal export market were unusual increases in export sales of equipment for construction and maintenance of airports, Heacock said. Domestic sales increased from $33,100,596 in 1938 to $41,406,725 last year.

Total Sales Rise 21 Per Cent.

Total sales, both export and domestic, amounted to $58,432,921, an increase of about 21 per cent over 1938 and the largest, with one exception, in the company's history.

Heacock corrected "the popular misconception" that the Caterpillar Tractor company builds tanks, stating that "this company has never marketed military tanks."

As previously reported, the company's 1939 net income was $6,004,890, or $2.89 a common share, against $3,235,710, or $1.41 a share, in 1938.

"The prospects for maintenance of manufacturing operations at the current rate [20 per cent above 1938] appear reasonably favorable for the next few months, and possibly for the full year of 1940," Heacock said.

50% of Stockholders Are Women.

The company has 16,838 stockholders, the report shows, living in every state and in 16 foreign countries. More than 50 per cent of the stockholders are women, who own about 30 per cent of the outstanding stock.

December, last year, was the 19th consecutive month in which the number of employés increased, the total at the end of 1939 being 11,572.

TRUCKERS MEET TO PROTEST NEW CONTROL LAWS

Twenty-five truckers of Kane and DuPage counties met last night to protest certain provisions of the new Illinois trucking laws which were enacted last summer and will go into effect March 1.

The meeting was held at the Paramount club, 3 miles east of Geneva on Roosevelt road. Will Davenport of Wheaton was elected temporary chairman. Another meeting will be held Feb. 13 at which a permanent organization will be effected.

Davenport, as spokesman for the group, assailed the new insurance requirements as ruinous to small truckers and proposed formation of a state-wide organization to seek a reduction in the amount of public liability, property damage and cargo insurance to be carried.

Court Denies Attachment for U. S. Rubber Property

Boston, Mass., Feb. 5 (AP).—Expressing doubt of jurisdiction, Federal Judge Hugh D. McLellan denied today an application for a warrant to attach property of the United States Rubber company for $20,000,000. The court also denied an application for an injunction to prevent the sale of the Fisk Rubber company to the United States Rubber. Sale of the Fisk company was consummated Jan. 19, the day after the original injunction application was filed.

U. S. Treasury Sells Bills at Same Rate as Recently

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 [Special].—The treasury sold its weekly bills today at prices ranging from slightly above par down to 99.999, the average price being fractionally under par. This was approximately the same basis upon which the bills have been sold in recent weeks. The treasury announced it received bids for $270,753,000 of bills and accepted $100,420,000. The bills were dated Feb. 7 and mature May 8.
